TRUMAN ASKS APPROPRIATION CUT

Credit Curbs On Securities Are Wiped Out

Trading Restored To "Margin" Basis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board tonight restored security trading to a credit or "margin" basis effective February 1.

Chairman Marriner S. Eccles announced that postwar "inflation has largely run its course"—provided government debt reduction continues and "further wage increases that bring about increased prices" are avoided.

The margin for buying and carrying stocks and bonds will be 75 per cent of the value of the securities, the same as it was last January 21 when the "100 per cent margin" required was imposed.

This means that a broker may lend his customer 25 per cent of the value of securities in the customer's account to help finance his future trading. At present such loans are barred.

Ban Brought Criticism

Eccles' statement noted that stock prices as a result of the September break are now about where they were when the margin-trading ban was imposed. There was some criticism of the margin ban following the slump, critics blaming the decline in part on the "thinness" of buying due to inability of buyers to get credit.

The allowance of 25 per cent credit on securities, however, applies both to those buying for investment or in hope of an advance in price and to those selling short in anticipation of a decline.

Relaxing the credit restrictions on stocks was in line with removal of various government controls and with an easing recently by the Federal Reserve Board of controls over consumer credit, affecting various retail purchases.

Aside from the lower level of share prices now, Eccles listed these other factors on the anti-inflation front as contributing to the board's decision to ease the margin ban:

Budget Surplus In Prospect

1. "The supply of money was reduced during the year as a result of a substantial decrease of the government debt held by the banking system."

2. A budget surplus is in prospect if economy in spending is combined with "continued high levels of taxation."

3. Veterans and war workers have been "largely absorbed in peacetime production." He added that "full and sustaining production depends on an extended period of industrial peace, the avoidance of further wage increases that bring about increased prices and the downward adjustment of prices which are now out of line."

4. "The supply of goods and services is now more nearly in balance with demand than was the case a year ago." Eccles observed that "as a result of higher prices and the narrowing margin between individual incomes and expenditures, the intensity of demand has abated considerably."

Marine Pleads Innocent To Chinese Girl's Charge

PEIPING, Jan. 17 (AP)—A United States Marine corporal pleaded innocent today before a court-martial to a Chinese girl's charge of rape, which was the basis of recent anti-American demonstrations in Peiping, Shanghai and Nanking.

With the opening of the trial, names of the principals were made public for the first time, the Marines identifying the defendant as Cpl. William Gaither Pierson and the girl as Shen Chung, a student at the National University.

AP President Awarded Poor Richard Medal

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17 (AP) — The celebration of the 241st anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birth today was climaxed by the presentation of the Poor Richard Club's gold medal for achievement to Robert McLean, president of the Associated Press and publisher of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Army Spokesman Says "Axis Sally" Still In Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 17 (AP)—An official United States Army spokesman said tonight that Mildred Gillars, the alleged "Axis Sally" of Germany's wartime radio, still was in Germany—free, but reporting regularly to military authorities.

Denying reports that she had arrived in Miami, Fla., the spokesman said:

"She reported on schedule to our Frankfurt office this afternoon, and we can produce her on an hour's notice if necessary."

Minister, Choir Singer Arrested In Grand Rapids

Held On Warrant Charging Adultery

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 17 —(AP)—A middle-aged Methodist minister, who abandoned his pulpit after 27 years and embarked on a cross-country tour with an attractive, married choir singer, was arrested with her in a hotel room today on a warrant charging adultery.

Rev. Daniel L. Reedy, 54-year-old grandfather, and brown-haired Mrs. Mary Marguerite Cowles, 40-year-old wife of a salesman and mother of a grown son, gave themselves up by telephone to end a three-day police search that extended as far south as Texas.

Kent County Prosecutor Menslo R. Bolt said the couple disappeared January 8 and quoted them as saying they left "on an impulse."

Rev. Reedy demanded an examination when arraigned late today on an adultery charge. It was scheduled for February 7 and bond was set at $1,000. Mrs. Cowles' arraignment was deferred.

Bolt said the minister denied having illicit relations with Mrs. Cowles in Grand Rapids as charged in the warrant.

Bolt said the couple, driving the minister's car, visited Kalamazoo, Mich., Huntington, Cairo, Ill., Little Rock, Ark., and Dallas, Tex.

Couples Are Reunited

They telephoned their respective mates from Sherman, Tex., to tell them they were en route home, and again this morning from a Kalamazoo, Mich., hotel to reveal their whereabouts.

Paul Cowles, 40, who made the adultery complaint, and Mrs. Reedy accompanied Grand Rapids detectives 60 miles to Kalamazoo where the minister and his medium-built companion were taken into custody.

Their reunion was calm with no vocal recriminations, the officers said. Cowles and Mrs. Reedy were noncommittal in their attitude toward the wandering couple.

Halsey Says Powerful Navy Is "Necessity"

CINCINNATI, Jan. 17 (AP) — Maintenance of our postwar Navy at its current strength and support of a large naval reserve was recommended tonight by Fleet Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr., "to guarantee a sound, fair and lasting peace."

"Strength has always been the best insurance against aggression," he said in an address before the Navy League of Cincinnati.

"I firmly believe that a powerful Navy, both in active and reserve forces, is an urgent necessity. I propose . . . maintenance of our postwar Navy at its current strength and support of a large and efficient naval reserve."

WRECK OF "OWL"—Tracks on the Southern Pacific's right-of-way 12 miles north of Bakersfield, Calif., were left in this condition after the "Owl," overnight passenger train bound for Los Angeles from San Francisco, struck a broken rail yesterday. Seven passengers were killed and 71 were injured. In the background is an overturned car and several others which were derailed.

House Committee Okays Continued High Excise Taxes

War Postal Rates May Be Extended

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP)—Legislation freezing indefinitely the high wartime excises on liquor, furs, jewelry, theaters, transportation and many other goods and services was approved unanimously today by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Simultaneously, Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) announced a bill will be introduced to make permanent the war increases in postal rates. This would hold the local mailing cost at three cents, instead of letting it drop back to two cents.

The excise bill was hurried to the House floor, where quick action is expected next week. Knutson predicted it would pass unanimously. The Senate then must act.

The committee took no vote on Knutson's bill for a 20 per cent slash in individual income taxes. He explained this measure, House Bill No. 1, would not be called up until the Senate-House budget committee has put a ceiling on federal spending.

Prevent Loss To Treasury

Continuation of the wartime excise and postal rates would prevent an annual loss to the Treasury of about $1,200,000,000. The 1943 revenue act stipulates that both shall be rolled back on July 1, unless Congress decides otherwise.

The tax-writing Ways and Means group, under Republican domination for the first time in 16 years, followed President Truman's recommendation on freezing the high excises.

Rep. Grant (R-Ind), author of the bill nailing the levies where they are, told reporters "there seems no alternative except to continue these present excise taxes on so-called luxuries if individual income taxes are to be eased, as promised by Republicans.

The Grant bill would have this effect:

Liquor—The levy would remain at $9 a proof gallon instead of dropping to $6. A reduction in the liquor rate alone would mean an $800,000,000 annual loss of revenue.

Furs, jewelry, luggage, cosmetics and theater tickets—The rate would remain at 20 per cent, instead of falling to 10.

Night Clubs, Phones Affected

Night clubs—20 per cent, instead of five.

Telephones—Long distance calls, 25 per cent of bill, instead of 20; local service, 15 instead of 10.

Transportation of persons—15 per cent on tickets instead of 10.

Wines—Present high rates, instead of lower figures, varying according to quality.

Beer—$8 a barrel instead of $7.

Dues or membership fees—20 per cent instead of 11.

Imported perfumes—$9 a gallon, instead of $6.

Billiard and pool tables and bowling alleys—$20 a year per table or alley, instead of $10.

Electric light bulbs and tubes—20 per cent instead of five.

Domestic telegraph—15 per cent instead of 10.

Leased wires—25 per cent instead of 15.

Coast Guard Rushes Aid To Burning Fishing Boat

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (AP)—The Coast Guard said tonight it had received word that a fishing vessel, the Balila, was on fire 50 miles off Cape Henry, Va., and that the Norfolk station of the Coast Guard had dispatched a picket boat to aid it.

The Coast Guard was not informed of the number in the crew of the Balila. The guard said the merchant vessel Temagami Park first went to the aid of the Balila, leaving when the fire was reported out. After the Temagami Park left, the Balila caught fire again.

Bill Calls For Treasury To Take All Money Won In Portal Suits As Taxes

Employers Would Be Allowed To Charge Off Any Payments On Their Income Tax

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Sen. O'Daniel (D-Tex) today introduced legislation to recover for the Treasury all money workers may receive from portal-to-portal pay suits.

The Texas lawmaker's bill would allow employers to charge off on their income tax the full amount of any portal claims they are required to pay by court order under the Fair Labor Standards Act.

O'Daniel took this action after the American Federation of Labor and a CIO union joined in apposing anti-portal-pay legislation previously introduced. The AFL said it would deprive "millions of workers" of their rights.

The suits were mostly filed by CIO unions. The AFL leadership frowns on such court actions but takes the position that the legislation is not the answer to them.

O'Daniel Issues Statement

O'Daniel said in a statement:

"I hope to prevent the CIO racketeering labor bosses from reducing prosperous American industrial communities to the status of ghost villages."

O'Daniel's proposed legislation is in the form of an amendment to the internal revenue code.

He said it would change the code "so that all the money received in portal-to-portal pay suits would be taxed 100 per cent by the government."

He added that "100 per cent of amounts paid on account of such suits would be deductible by employers from the amount due on their income tax for 1947 or future years."

The amendment is titled one to provide a tax on "unjust enrichment."

It applies to the "windfall" income received by any person "under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction in accordance with provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act."

Suits Favored And Opposed

Earlier, the AFL and the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America laid before a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee the first arguments it had heard against legislation previously introduced to wipe out or curb portal suits.

On the other side, Thomas W. Howard, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, agreed with other industry representatives that portal-pay claims should be outlawed. He said pending suits threaten "complication" of many businesses.

Walter J. Mason, the AFL's national legislative representative, said enactment of the legislation would set "American workers back several generations to the time when they were paid by the day regardless of the number of hours worked."

The back pay claims, which prompted bills by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) and Wiley (R-Wis), stemmed from a Supreme Court decision that workers are entitled to pay for time they are required to spend on an employers premises, not just the time they work.

Acheson, Clayton Deny Accusations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Undersecretaries of State Dean Acheson and William L. Clayton denied in statements today charges by Rep. Shafer (R-Mich.) that they had made big profits in private business as a result of their public offices.

Acheson said he had resigned his private law practice February 1, 1941, and had had no financial interest since then in his former firm.

Clayton, in a more detailed reply, said that "whatever his intention, Mr. Shafer's statement is clearly wrong on its facts."

Shafer told the House yesterday there were reports that Acheson's former law firm stands to get a big fee if a loan to Poland goes through.

The Michigan Representative said that Clayton and members of his family received more than $5,500,000 from the cotton brokerage firm of Anderson, Clayton and Company in the year in which Great Britain obtained a $3,750,000,000 loan.

Clayton commented that the loan was approved last July 13 whereas the fiscal year of the brokerage firm ended the following July 31, "so that obviously the loan could not affect the profits to which Mr. Shafer refers."

Seven Are Killed, 71 Hurt As Train Plows Into Ditch

Broken Rail Causes Wreck In California

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Jan. 17 (AP)—A broken rail sent five cars of the Southern Pacific Owl, San Francisco-Los Angeles passenger train, careening into a ditch 12 miles northwest of here early today, killing seven persons and injuring scores.

Coroner Norman Houze said it is unlikely there are any more bodies in the wreckage. The railroad placed the number of injured at 71 and said only a few of those were seriously hurt.

Four Of Dead Identified

Three of the dead were not identified. The known fatalities:

James Leroy Hall, Kansas City, Mo.; Bessie Diles, Richmond, Calif.; Pvt. Joseph Bernavich, 18, Richmond, Calif., and Mrs. Erma Duvall, Beaumont, Tex.

Highway Patrolman Jack Bordeau credited two soldiers — Marvin Stansberry, Moulton, Iowa, and Orvis Humphrey, Kidder, Mo., with heroism in rescuing passengers. Bordeau said the two men, themselves hurt, smashed in windows and broke down doors of the overturned cars and dragged many passengers to safety. Bordeau said their prompt action probably saved the lives of some of the more seriously injured.

Dr. Robert J. Dowds, Southern Pacific district surgeon, arrived shortly after the tragedy and personally helped remove about 15 from the wreckage, treating them as best he could on the spot. Dr. Dowds said he saw one man's leg crushed from his body by an overturned car and another small boy with his arm torn off.

71 Persons Injured

J. M. Corbett, Southern Pacific general manager, said the injured totaled 71.

Four coaches and a tourist sleeper were overturned, landing far off the tracks. The other seven cars left the rails but remained upright. The locomotive stayed on the tracks, and its crew was uninjured.

Lester Ford, San Francisco, a porter, said he was dozing at the rear of the car.

"A grinding roar woke me up," he declared. "I felt the engineer hit the air (apply the brakes) and then I knew we were in for it. I was thrown to the floor and the shock dazed me. Next thing I remember was hearing a woman screaming."

Vanishing Slayer Of Baby Turns Out To Be Myth

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—(AP)—The vanishing slayer of a six-month-old baby today turned out to be a myth—fabricated, authorities said, by a frenzied father who dropped the child accidentally and was afraid to admit it to his wife.

The father, Frederick Schuchman, who rushed his dead daughter to a hospital last night, admitted, police said, that he was so horrified he had dreamed up a story of an intruder, even cutting himself with a razor blade to back up the tale.

Schuchman was released by police after a medical report showed the child had died of a ruptured stomach and authorities had pronounced the death accidental. No charges were placed against Schuchman.

Operation On Sen. Bilbo Delayed Until Monday

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17 (AP) — Sen. Theodore V. Bilbo (D-Miss) was booked today to undergo his second mouth operation Monday morning at Touro Infirmary.

The Senator was to have had the operation today. Hospital officials said, however, that emergency cases intervened, and that the Senator would be given a day or two more to recover some lost weight.

Camp At Little America, Abandoned In 1941, Found Untouched By Blakeslee

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

WITH NAVY EXPEDITION AT BAY OF WHALES, Jan. 16—(Delayed)—(AP)—I dropped through a skylight today into the subzero buildings and tunnels of Little America, completely buried under 20 feet of snow where everything was perfectly preserved and untouched since the camp was abandoned six years ago.

Eleven men in our scouting party came to the old camp of the 1939-1941 expedition and for three of them, this was a gleeful homecoming. By light of a flashlight and lanterns, they shouted their discoveries of old bunks and forgotten supplies in the camp they left on February 1941.

No one had set foot inside the buildings and interconnecting tunnels since then until today when we pierced through the snow cover. The buildings are now completely buried in glacier snow and ice. We couldn't stay long inside where temperature was below zero, possibly 10 to 20 degrees below while on top of the camp it is perhaps only 25 degrees even with the wind blowing.

Icicles of beautiful crystallized design hung from the ceilings. The narrow tunnels are jumbled with huge stores of food, pails, dynamite, nails and junk. We found a couple of chickens and hams well frozen and in the galley there were steaks already cut, waiting only to be grilled when 30 men abandoned camp after spending 13 months there.

In rooms each with a potbellied stove there are notes scribbled on the bare walls, a poster advertising the movie "Love Affair" starring Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer. Cans of peaches, socks hanging from rafters, a big box of candy, cans of Graham crackers, and memories which thrilled three veterans, Dr. Paul Siple, Erie, Pa., who commanded the base, Lt. Comdr. James

16 Die When Truck Loaded With German Shells Blows Up

MUIDEN, Holland, Jan. 17. (AP)—A truck loaded with 150-pound German shells exploded here this afternoon, killing 14 Dutch soldiers and two civilians. The blast was so terrific it drove the bodies of some victims deep into the ground and shattered windows in every home in this town of 3,000 just eight miles southeast of Amsterdam.

Many residents were injured, but none seriously, by the shattered glass and a rain of roofing tiles. The blast caused a crater 150 feet in diameter.

Arnall Sets Up Capitol Of His Own In Atlanta

Talmadge Aide Grabs Statehouse Office

ATLANTA, Jan. 17 (AP) — Ellis Arnall lost his temporary offices in the Statehouse rotunda today as his rival governor claimant, Herman Talmadge, took charge and Arnall promptly set up a capitol of his own in a downtown office building.

Arnall was barred from his rotunda office, established yesterday after Talmadge seized control of the executive offices which Arnall had occupied for the past four years, by a Talmadge lieutenant when he showed up for work this morning.

Reiterating his claims that he is the "legal governor" and that he was ousted from the Statehouse by a "military coup d'etat," the 39-year-old Arnall said he would function from the business section office building "until the courts remove the pretender who by force and storm troopers" denied him a desk at the Capitol.

Talmadge made no comment on Arnall's charges at a news conference but asserted "everything is quiet." He said earlier that four state troopers were assigned to Arnall on his Capitol visit today because "the temper of the people is such anything might happen."

Arnall Goes On Air

After being frozen out there, Arnall in a radio address urged the people of Georgia to discuss the gubernatorial issue with legislators who elected Herman early Wednesday, declaring that they had "been robbed of their rights."

"Free elections by the people will be done away with unless you fight for your rights," he said.

Rep. Jimmy Dykes, a Talmadge aide, blocked Arnall from the rotunda desk set up yesterday when Arnall was denied entry into his former offices.

"Jimmy, I'm governor," Arnall said as he asked for the desk.

"You remind me of a hog," Dykes retorted. "You got your head in the trough and you just can't stop."

Hisses and cheers echoed through the corridors when Arnall, speaking to the crowd that surrounded him, declared he was moving downtown "to function as chief executive" in order "not to discredit the people of Georgia and to create a disturbance."

"I'm sure the courts will uphold me as legal governor and not the forces bent on violence," he said.

Talmadge Reiterates Views

Arnall's reference was to the suit he instituted in his contention that

Further Food Price Drops Cheer Housewives

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP) — Further drops in food prices cheered housewives in many sections of the nation today.

Butter again headed the list, falling as low as 65 cents a pound in New York compared with the $1-a-pound peak for the golden commodity last winter. OPA's old ceiling price was 67 cents a pound.

In Washington, government officials forecast a fairly general reduction in the price of milk by February 1. Cuts of about one cent a quart at retail were ordered today for five northeastern areas.

On the other hand, OPA authorized an increase in the cost of sugar which it said would amount to above one-quarter cent a pound at retail.

$563,888,579 Is Unrequired, Congress Told

Big Slashes In Army, Navy Funds Requested

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP) — President Truman asked Congress today to repeal appropriations of $563,888,579, including $132,000,000 of spending authorizations.

Announcement of his request followed by several days a demand from Chairman Taber (R-NY), of the House Appropriations Committee, for a detailed report on the current status of all appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Taber said he believed "untold millions" could be recaptured from unspent funds.

A White House statement said the $563,888,579 figure was in addition to five previous recommendations for reductions in appropriations made but found not to be needed. It said these others, which included great slashes in Army and Navy appropriations, reduced the net authorized federal program by more than $64,000,000,000.

"The President's action," the statement said, "is in accord with objectives expressed by the Congress—to maintain a continuous review of unrequired appropriation balances with a view of their recovery."

Shipbuilding Funds Unspent

The main saving he asked is $325,000,000 which was made available by liquidation of wartime shipbuilding programs.

Aiso involved is the $132,000,000 contractural authority given the commission as well as the appropriations.

Four Navy items account for the return of $119,000,000, including $50,000,000 not needed to meet contract termination costs, $50,000,000 of War Department funds advanced to the Navy for purchase of aircraft material and ordnance, $15,000,000 for public works, and $4,000,000 for emergency ship facilities no longer required.

Mr. Truman also asked that $40,000,000 be trimmed from funds for the Atomic Energy Commission, which the commission reported will not be needed in the fiscal year expiring June 30.

War Department savings recommended totalled $33,500,000. Of this, $17,500,000 had been intended for construction of buildings and utilities and equipment purchases, $15,000,000 represented a net gain to the government in interest on guaranteed loans to war contractors, and most of the balance was earmarked for defense housing, seacoast defenses and similar items.

$10,000,000 From Treasury

He asked that $10,000,000 be cut from Treasury Department appropriations as not now usable for acquisition of vessels and shore facilities by the Coast Guard.

The president cut in half the five million dollar emergency fund appropriated for his own use. It was said his recommendations for savings were taken into account in estimating expenditures in the 1948 budget, which he recently estimated at $200,000,000 less than anticipated income.

The President said that he is ordering returned to the Treasury unneeded lend-lease funds, not available for obligation after June 30, 1946. He said approximately $805,000,000 of the unexpended balance of these appropriations is being withdrawn from various agencies and carried to the surplus fund of the Treasury.

In addition, he reported there is being deposited in the Treasury approximately $114,000,000 of funds received from foreign governments under reverse lend-lease.

Reece "Confidently Expects" GOP Victory

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP)—B. Carroll Reece, Republican National Chairman, said today that he "confidently expects" a Republican victory in the 1948 presidential election and that the party had "no objection to President Truman as our opposition."

Here to address a precinct committeemen's meeting tomorrow and to confer with midwest GOP state chairmen, Reece told a news conference:

"Never has there been a time when the Republicans had so large a group of men for presidential possibilities as now."

Bill Coming Up

Congress Must Decide If Drinker Drinks More Standing Or Sitting

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Congress comes up with the most surprising things to worry about.

For instance, it soon will have to decide this question:

Can a drinker drink more hard likker, or even semi-hard likker, standing up than he can sitting down?

Right now only sitters can drink in District of Columbia bars.

Who says so? Uncle Sam says so. It's the law of the land.

But Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West said today he will draw up a bill which will permit the customers to drink standing up.

He then will send it up to Congress. For Congress—lawmaker for the nation—is also Washington's Board of Aldermen.

How did the sitting-down drinking law originate?

"Right after prohibition," West told a reporter, "the idea got around that if a person sat down, he wouldn't drink as much.

"Then, too, if he had to wait for a waiter, he wasn't as likely to dash into a bar for a quickie.

"I don't know whether the theory is right or wrong. But that's the way the law reads for the District of Columbia."

Some drinkers have complained that it's silly to stand around waiting for a seat when all they want is a glass of beer. And barkeeps, naturally, think the same thing.

But in this town, it's what Congress thinks that matters.

Have More "Verve"

1947 Valentines Shed War Paint; Emerge Gaudier, More Carefree

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (AP)—This February 14 you can have plastic hearts, real lace, mirrors, cellophane windows or real hair on the tender message you send to your Valentine —if he or she commands the 25-cents-and-up variety.

And, says Mrs. Valentine, even in the lower brackets, this year's Valentines have more "verve" than they've had for years.

"Verve" is the term Mr. Valentine, also known as Stephen Q. Shannon, head of Greeting Card Industry, Inc., used today to describe a trend toward gayer, more carefree Valentines than Valentine-senders have seen in years.

One thing that helps to produce it is the return of plastics and other materials that disappeared during the war. During the war years Mr. Valentine shook his head sadly at each new crop, bewailing their lack of "punch."

Now the ladies on the sentimental billets-doux have real rhinestones in their hair, real lace on their gowns and real hair. The plastic arts have produced everything from glowing hearts to "peas in a pod" that look like real ones.

The carefree motif, Mr. Valentine continued, has led to more of what he calls "cutie pie" Valetines.

The "cutie pie" type, he explained, used to be confined mainly to Valentines sent by or to children. Now, apparently, adult Valentines are likely to be "cuter" than the kids'.

TRUMAN ASKS APPROPRIATION CUT

Trading Restored To "Margin" Basis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board tonight restored security trading to a credit or "margin" basis effective February 1.

Chairman Marriner S. Eccles announced that postwar "inflation has largely run its course"—provided government debt reduction continues and "further wage increases that bring about increased prices" are avoided.

The margin for buying and carrying stocks and bonds will be 75 per cent of the value of the securities, the same as it was last January 21 when the "100 per cent margin" required was imposed.

This means that a broker may lend his customer 25 per cent of the value of securities in the customer's account to help finance his future trading. At present such loans are barred.

Ban Brought Criticism

Eccles' statement noted that stock prices as a result of the September break are now about where they were when the margin-trading ban was imposed. There was some criticism of the margin ban following the slump, critics blaming the decline in part on the "thinness" of buying due to inability of buyers to get credit.

The allowance of 25 per cent credit on securities, however, applies both to those buying for investment or in hope of an advance in price and to those selling short in anticipation of a decline.

Relaxing the credit restrictions on stocks was in line with removal of various government controls and with an easing recently by the Federal Reserve Board of controls over consumer credit, affecting various retail purchases.

Aside from the lower level of share prices now, Eccles listed these other factors on the anti-inflation front as contributing to the board's decision to ease the margin ban:

Budget Surplus In Prospect

1. "The supply of money was reduced during the year as a result of a substantial decrease of the government debt held by the banking system."

2. A budget surplus is in prospect if economy in spending is combined with "continued high levels of taxation."

3. Veterans and war workers have been "largely absorbed in peacetime production." He added that "full and sustaining production depends on an extended period of industrial peace, the avoidance of further wage increases that bring about increased prices and the downward adjustment of prices which are now out of line."

4. "The supply of goods and services is now more nearly in balance with demand than was the case a year ago." Eccles observed that "as a result of higher prices and the narrowing margin between individual incomes and expenditures, the intensity of demand has abated considerably."

Marine Pleads Innocent To Chinese Girl's Charge

With the opening of the trial, names of the principals were made public for the first time, the Marines identifying the defendant as Cpl. William Gaither Pierson and the girl as Shen Chung, a student at the National University.

Minister, Choir Singer Arrested In Grand Rapids

Held On Warrant Charging Adultery

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 17—(AP)—A middle-aged Methodist minister, who abandoned his pulpit after 27 years and embarked on a cross-country tour with an attractive, married choir singer, was arrested with her in a hotel room today on a warrant charging adultery.

Rev. Daniel L. Reedy, 54-year-old grandfather, and brown-haired Mrs. Mary Marguerite Cowles, 40-year-old wife of a salesman and mother of a grown son, gave themselves up by telephone to end a three-day police search that extended as far south as Texas.

The prosecutor added the pastor left a note behind for Mrs. Reedy saying only that he was leaving and giving no destination.

Rev. Reedy demanded an examination when arraigned late today on an adultery charge. It was scheduled for February 7 and bond was set at $1,000. Mrs. Cowles' arraignment was deferred.

Bolt said the minister denied having illicit relations with Mrs. Cowles in Grand Rapids as charged in the warrant.

Bolt said the couple, driving the minister's car, visited Kalamazoo, Mich., Huntington, Cairo, Ill., Little Rock, Ark., and Dallas, Tex.

Couples Are Reunited

They telephoned their respective mates from Sherman, Tex., to tell them they were en route home, and again this morning from a Kalamazoo, Mich., hotel to reveal their whereabouts.

Paul Cowles, 40, who made the adultery complaint, and Mrs. Reedy accompanied Grand Rapids detectives 60 miles to Kalamazoo where the minister and his medium-built companion were taken into custody.

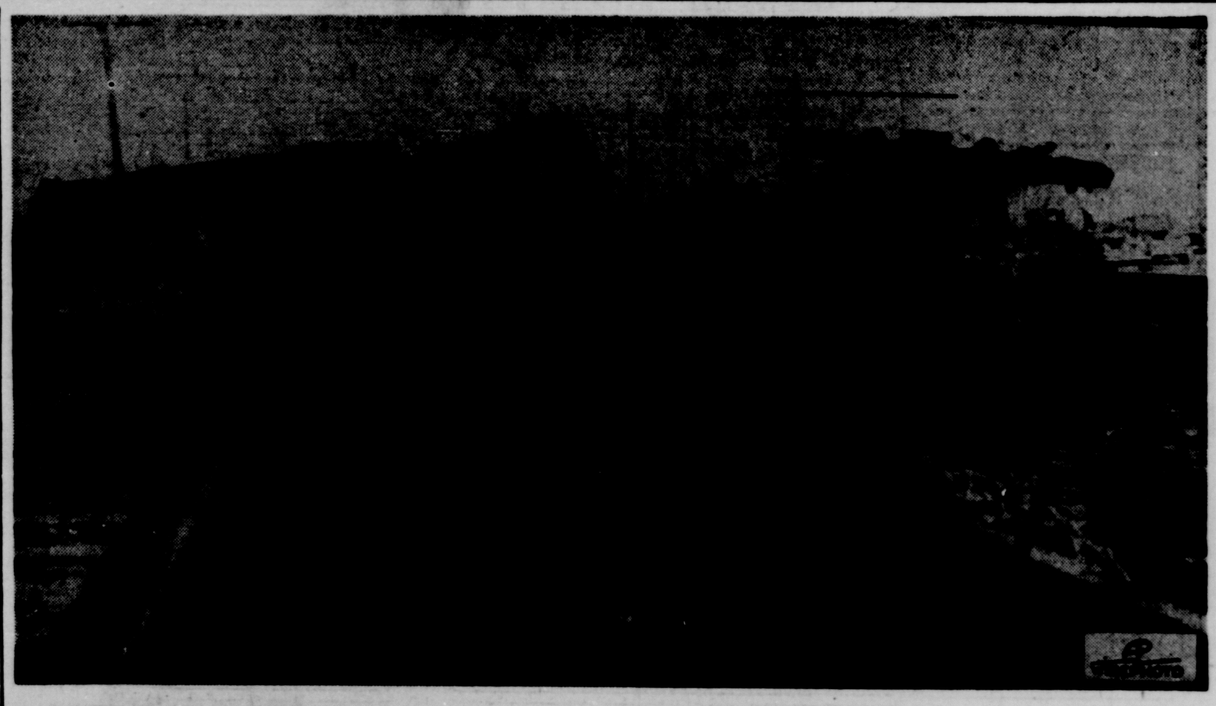
Their reunion was calm with no vocal recriminations, the officers said. Cowles and Mrs. Reedy were noncommittal in their attitude toward the wandering couple.

Halsey Says Powerful Navy Is "Necessity"

CINCINNATI, Jan. 17 (AP) — Maintenance of our postwar Navy at its current strength and support of a large naval reserve was recommended tonight by Fleet Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr., "to guarantee a sound, fair and lasting peace."

"Strength has always been the best insurance against aggression," he said in an address before the Navy League of Cincinnati.

"I firmly believe that a powerful Navy, both in active and reserve forces, is an urgent necessity. I propose . . . maintenance of our postwar Navy at its current strength and support of a large and efficient naval reserve."



WRECK OF "OWL"—Tracks on the Southern Pacific's right-of-way 12 miles north of Bakersfield, Calif., were left in this condition after the "Owl," overnight passenger train bound for Los Angeles from San Francisco, struck a broken rail yesterday. Seven passengers were killed and 71 were injured. In the background is an overturned car and several others which were derailed.

House Committee Okays Continued High Excise Taxes

War Postal Rates May Be Extended

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP)—Legislation freezing indefinitely the high wartime excises on liquor, furs, jewelry, theaters, transportation and many other goods and services was approved unanimously today by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Simultaneously, Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) announced a bill will be introduced to make permanent the war increases in postal rates. This would hold the local mailing cost at three cents, instead of letting it drop back to two cents.

The excise bill was hurried to the House floor, where quick action is expected next week. Knutson predicted it would pass unanimously. The Senate then must act.

The committee took no vote on Knutson's bill for a 20 per cent slash in individual income taxes. He explained this measure, House Bill No. 1, would not be called up until the Senate-House budget committee has put a ceiling on federal spending.

Prevent Loss To Treasury

Continuation of the wartime excise and postal rates would prevent an annual loss to the Treasury of about $1,200,000,000. The 1943 revenue act stipulates that both shall be rolled back on July 1, unless Congress decides otherwise.

The tax-writing Ways and Means group, under Republican domination for the first time in 16 years, followed President Truman's recommendation on freezing the high excises.

Rep. Grant (R-Ind), author of the bill nailing the levies where they are, told reporters "there seems no alternative except to continue these present excise taxes on so-called luxuries if individual income taxes are to be eased, as promised by Republicans.

The Grant bill would have this effect:

Liquor—The levy would remain at $9 a proof gallon instead of dropping to $6. A reduction in the liquor rate alone would mean an $800,000,000 annual loss of revenue.

Furs, jewelry, luggage, cosmetics and theater tickets—The rate would remain at 20 per cent, instead of falling to 10.

Night Clubs, Phones Affected

Night clubs—20 per cent, instead of five.

Telephones—Long distance calls, 25 per cent of bill, instead of 20; local service, 15 instead of 10.

Transportation of persons—15 per cent on tickets instead of 10.

Wines—Present high rates, instead of lower figures, varying according to quality.

Beer—$8 a barrel instead of $7.

Dues or membership fees—20 per cent instead of 11.

Imported perfumes—$9 a gallon, instead of $6.

Billiard and pool tables and bowling alleys—$20 a year per table or alley, instead of $10.

Electric light bulbs and tubes—20 per cent instead of five.

Domestic telegraph—15 per cent instead of 10.

Coast Guard Rushes Aid To Burning Fishing Boat

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (AP)—The Coast Guard said tonight it had received word that a fishing vessel, the Balila, was on fire 50 miles off Cape Henry, Va., and that the Norfolk station of the Coast Guard had dispatched a picket boat to aid it.

The Coast Guard was not informed of the number in the crew of the Balila. The guard said the merchant vessel Temagami Park first went to the aid of the Balila, leaving when the fire was reported out. After the Temagami Park left, the Balila caught fire again.

Bill Calls For Treasury To Take All Money Won In Portal Suits As Taxes

Employers Would Be Allowed To Charge Off Any Payments On Their Income Tax

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Sen. O'Daniel (D-Tex) today introduced legislation to recover for the Treasury all money workers may receive from portal-to-portal pay suits.

The Texas lawmaker's bill would allow employers to charge off on their income tax the full amount of any portal claims they are required to pay by court order under the Fair Labor Standards Act.

O'Daniel took this action after the American Federation of Labor and a CIO union joined in apposing anti-portal-pay legislation previously introduced. The AFL said it would deprive "millions of workers" of their rights.

The suits were mostly filed by CIO unions. The AFL leadership frowns on such court actions but takes the position that the legislation is not the answer to them.

O'Daniel Issues Statement

O'Daniel said in a statement:

"I hope to prevent the CIO racketeering labor bosses from reducing prosperous American industrial communities to the status of ghost villages."

O'Daniel's proposed legislation is in the form of an amendment to the internal revenue code.

He said it would change the code "so that all the money received in portal-to-portal pay suits would be taxed 100 per cent by the government."

He added that "100 per cent of amounts paid on account of such suits would be deductible by employers from the amount due on their income tax for 1947 or future years."

The amendment is titled one to provide a tax on "unjust enrichment."

It applies to the "windfall" income received by any person "under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction in accordance with provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act."

Suits Favored And Opposed

Earlier, the AFL and the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America laid before a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee the first arguments it had heard against legislation previously introduced to wipe out or curb portal suits.

On the other side, Thomas W. Howard, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, agreed with other industry representatives that portal-pay claims should be outlawed. He said pending suits threaten "complication" of many businesses.

Walter J. Mason, the AFL's national legislative representative, said enactment of the legislation would set "American workers back several generations to the time when they were paid by the day regardless of the number of hours worked."

The back pay claims, which prompted bills by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) and Wiley (R-Wis), stemmed from a Supreme Court decision that workers are entitled to pay for time they are required to spend on an employers premises, not just the time they work.

Acheson, Clayton Deny Accusations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Undersecretaries of State Dean Acheson and William L. Clayton denied in statements today charges by Rep. Shafer (R-Mich.) that they had made big profits in private business as a result of their public offices.

Acheson said he had resigned his private law practice February 1, 1941, and had had no financial interest since then in his former firm.

Clayton, in a more detailed reply, said that "whatever his intention, Mr. Shafer's statement is clearly wrong on its facts."

Shafer told the House yesterday there were reports that Acheson's former law firm stands to get a big fee if a loan to Poland goes through.

The Michigan Representative said that Clayton and members of his family received more than $5,500,000 from the cotton brokerage firm of Anderson, Clayton and Company in the year in which Great Britain obtained a $3,750,000,000 loan.

Clayton commented that the loan was approved last July 13 whereas the fiscal year of the brokerage firm ended the following July 31, "so that obviously the loan could not affect the profits to which Mr. Shafer refers."

Camp At Little America, Abandoned In 1941, Found Untouched By Blakeslee

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

WITH NAVY EXPEDITION AT BAY OF WHALES, Jan. 16—(Delayed)—(AP)—I dropped through a skylight today into the subzero buildings and tunnels of Little America, completely buried under 20 feet of snow where everything was perfectly preserved and untouched since the camp was abandoned six years ago.

Eleven men in our scouting party came to the old camp of the 1939-1941 expedition and for three of them, this was a gleeful homecoming. By light of a flashlight and lanterns, they shouted their discoveries of old bunks and forgotten supplies in the camp they left on February 1941.

No one had set foot inside the buildings and interconnecting tunnels since then until today when we pierced through the snow cover. The buildings are now completely buried in glacier snow and ice. We couldn't stay long inside where temperature was below zero, possibly 10 to 20 degrees below while on top of the camp it is perhaps only 25 degrees even with the wind blowing.

Icicles of beautiful crystallized design hung from the ceilings. The narrow tunnels are jumbled with huge stores of food, pails, dynamite, nails and junk. We found a couple of chickens and hams well frozen and in the galley there were steaks already cut, waiting only to be grilled when 30 men abandoned camp after spending 13 months there.

In rooms each with a potbellied stove there are notes scribbled on the bare walls, a poster advertising the movie "Love Affair" starring Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer. Cans of peaches, socks hanging from rafters, a big box of candy, cans of Graham crackers, and memories which thrilled three veterans, Dr. Paul Siple, Erie, Pa., who commanded the base, Lt. Comdr. James

Broken Rail Causes Wreck In California

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Jan. 17 (AP)—A broken rail sent five cars of the Southern Pacific Owl, San Francisco-Los Angeles passenger train, careening into a ditch 12 miles northwest of here early today, killing seven persons and injuring scores.

Coroner Norman Houze said it is unlikely there are any more bodies in the wreckage. The railroad placed the number of injured at 71 and said only a few of those were seriously hurt.

Four Of Dead Identified

Three of the dead were not identified. The known fatalities:

James Leroy Hall, Kansas City, Mo.; Bessie Diles, Richmond, Calif.; Pvt. Joseph Bernavich, 18, Richmond, Calif., and Mrs. Erma Duvall, Beaumont, Tex.

Highway Patrolman Jack Bordeau credited two soldiers — Marvin Stansberry, Moulton, Iowa, and Orvis Humphrey, Kidder, Mo., with heroism in rescuing passengers. Bordeau said the two men, themselves hurt, smashed in windows and broke down doors of the overturned cars and dragged many passengers to safety. Bordeau said their prompt action probably saved the lives of some of the more seriously injured.

Dr. Robert J. Dowds, Southern Pacific district surgeon, arrived shortly after the tragedy and personally helped remove about 15 from the wreckage, treating them as best he could on the spot. Dr. Dowds said he saw one man's leg crushed from his body by an overturned car and another small boy with his arm torn off.

71 Persons Injured

J. M. Corbett, Southern Pacific general manager, said the injured totaled 71.

Four coaches and a tourist sleeper were overturned, landing far off the tracks. The other seven cars left the rails but remained upright. The locomotive stayed on the tracks, and its crew was uninjured.

Lester Ford, San Francisco, a porter, said he was dozing at the rear of the car.

"A grinding roar woke me up," he declared. "I felt the engineer hit the air (apply the brakes) and then I knew we were in for it. I was thrown to the floor and the shock dazed me. Next thing I remember was hearing a woman screaming."

Vanishing Slayer Of Baby Turns Out To Be Myth

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—(AP)—The vanishing slayer of a six-month-old baby today turned out to be a myth—fabricated, authorities said, by a frenzied father who dropped the child accidentally and was afraid to admit it to his wife.

The father, Frederick Schuchman, who rushed his dead daughter to a hospital last night, admitted, police said, that he was so horrified he had dreamed up a story of an intruder, even cutting himself with a razor blade to back up the tale.

Schuchman was released by police after a medical report showed the child had died of a ruptured stomach and authorities had pronounced the death accidental. No charges were placed against Schuchman.

Operation On Sen. Bilbo Delayed Until Monday

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17 (AP) — Sen. Theodore V. Bilbo (D-Miss) was booked today to undergo his second mouth operation Monday morning at Touro Infirmary.

The Senator was to have had the operation today. Hospital officials said, however, that emergency cases intervened, and that the Senator would be given a day or two more to recover some lost weight.

16 Die When Truck Loaded With German Shells Blows Up

MUIDEN, Holland, Jan. 17. (AP)—A truck loaded with 150-pound German shells exploded here this afternoon, killing 14 Dutch soldiers and two civilians. The blast was so terrific it drove the bodies of some victims deep into the ground and shattered windows in every home in this town of 3,000 just eight miles southeast of Amsterdam.

Many residents were injured, but none seriously, by the shattered glass and a rain of roofing tiles. The blast caused a crater 150 feet in diameter.

Arnall Sets Up Capitol Of His Own In Atlanta

Talmadge Aide Grabs Statehouse Office

ATLANTA, Jan. 17 (AP) — Ellis Arnall lost his temporary offices in the Statehouse rotunda today as his rival governor claimant, Herman Talmadge, took charge and Arnall promptly set up a capitol of his own in a downtown office building.

Arnall was barred from his rotunda office, established yesterday after Talmadge seized control of the executive offices which Arnall had occupied for the past four years, by a Talmadge lieutenant when he showed up for work this morning.

Reiterating his claims that he is the "legal governor" and that he was ousted from the Statehouse by a "military coup d'etat," the 39-year-old Arnall said he would function from the business section office building "until the courts remove the pretender who by force and storm troopers" denied him a desk at the Capitol.

Talmadge made no comment on Arnall's charges at a news conference but asserted "everything is quiet." He said earlier that four state troopers were assigned to Arnall on his Capitol visit today because "the temper of the people is such anything might happen."

Arnall Goes On Air

After being frozen out there, Arnall in a radio address urged the people of Georgia to discuss the gubernatorial issue with legislators who elected Herman early Wednesday, declaring that they had "been robbed of their rights."

"Free elections by the people will be done away with unless you fight for your rights," he said.

Rep. Jimmy Dykes, a Talmadge aide, blocked Arnall from the rotunda desk set up yesterday when Arnall was denied entry into his former offices.

"Jimmy, I'm governor," Arnall said as he asked for the desk.

"You remind me of a hog," Dykes retorted. "You got your head in the trough and you just can't stop."

Hisses and cheers echoed through the corridors when Arnall, speaking to the crowd that surrounded him, declared he was moving downtown "to function as chief executive" in order "not to discredit the people of Georgia and to create a disturbance."

"I'm sure the courts will uphold me as legal governor and not the forces bent on violence," he said.

Talmadge Reiterates Views

Arnall's reference was to the suit he instituted in his contention that

Further Food Price Drops Cheer Housewives

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP) — Further drops in food prices cheered housewives in many sections of the nation today.

Butter again headed the list, falling as low as 65 cents a pound in New York compared with the $1-a-pound peak for the golden commodity last winter. OPA's old ceiling price was 67 cents a pound.

In Washington, government officials forecast a fairly general reduction in the price of milk by February 1. Cuts of about one cent a quart at retail were ordered today for five northeastern areas.

On the other hand, OPA authorized an increase in the cost of sugar which it said would amount to above one-quarter cent a pound at retail.

$563,888,579 Is Unrequired, Congress Told

Big Slashes In Army, Navy Funds Requested

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP) — President Truman asked Congress today to repeal appropriations of $563,888,579, including $132,000,000 of spending authorizations.

Announcement of his request followed by several days a demand from Chairman Taber (R-NY), of the House Appropriations Committee, for a detailed report on the current status of all appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Taber said he believed "untold millions" could be recaptured from unspent funds.

A White House statement said the $563,888,579 figure was in addition to five previous recommendations for reductions in appropriations made but found not to be needed. It said these others, which included great slashes in Army and Navy appropriations, reduced the net authorized federal program by more than $64,000,000,000.

"The President's action," the statement said, "is in accord with objectives expressed by the Congress—to maintain a continuous review of unrequired appropriation balances with a view of their recovery."

Shipbuilding Funds Unspent

The main saving he asked is $325,000,000 which was made available by liquidation of wartime shipbuilding programs.

Also involved is the $132,000,000 contractural authority given the commission as well as the appropriations.

Four Navy items account for the return of $119,000,000, including $50,000,000 not needed to meet contract termination costs, $50,000,000 of War Department funds advanced to the Navy for purchase of aircraft material and ordnance, $15,000,000 for public works, and $4,000,000 for emergency ship facilities no longer required.

Mr. Truman also asked that $40,000,000 be trimmed from funds for the Atomic Energy Commission, which the commission reported will not be needed in the fiscal year expiring June 30.

War Department savings recommended totalled $33,500,000. Of this, $17,500,000 had been intended for construction of buildings and utilities and equipment purchases, $15,000,000 represented a net gain to the government in interest on guaranteed loans to war contractors, and most of the balance was earmarked for defense housing, seacoast defenses and similar items.

$10,000,000 From Treasury

He asked that $10,000,000 be cut from Treasury Department appropriations as not now usable for acquisition of vessels and shore facilities by the Coast Guard.

The president cut in half the five million dollar emergency fund appropriated for his own use. It was said his recommendations for savings were taken into account in estimating expenditures in the 1948 budget, which he recently estimated at $200,000,000 less than anticipated income.

The President said that he is ordering returned to the Treasury unneeded lend-lease funds, not available for obligation after June 30, 1946. He said approximately $805,000,000 of the unexpended balance of these appropriations is being withdrawn from various agencies and carried to the surplus fund of the Treasury.

In addition, he reported there is being deposited in the Treasury approximately $114,000,000 of funds received from foreign governments under reverse lend-lease.

Reece "Confidently Expects" GOP Victory

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP)—B. Carroll Reece, Republican National Chairman, said today that he "confidently expects" a Republican victory in the 1948 presidential election and that the party had "no objection to President Truman as our opposition."

Here to address a precinct committeemen's meeting tomorrow and to confer with midwest GOP state chairmen, Reece told a news conference:

"Never has there been a time when the Republicans had so large a group of men for presidential possibilities as now."

Bill Coming Up

Congress Must Decide If Drinker Drinks More Standing Or Sitting

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Congress comes up with the most surprising things to worry about.

For instance, it soon will have to decide this question:

Can a drinker drink more hard likker, or even semi-hard likker, standing up than he can sitting down?

Right now only sitters can drink in District of Columbia bars.

Who says so? Uncle Sam says so. It's the law of the land.

But Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West said today he will draw up a bill which will permit the customers to drink standing up.

He then will send it up to Congress. For Congress—lawmaker for the nation—is also Washington's Board of Aldermen.

How did the sitting-down drinking law originate?

"Right after prohibition," West told a reporter, "the idea got around that if a person sat down, he wouldn't drink as much.

"Then, too, if he had to wait for a waiter, he wasn't as likely to dash into a bar for a quickie.

"I don't know whether the theory is right or wrong. But that's the way the law reads for the District of Columbia."

Some drinkers have complained that it's silly to stand around waiting for a seat when all they want is a glass of beer. And barkeeps, naturally, think the same thing.

But in this town, it's what Congress thinks that matters.

1947 Valentines Shed War Paint; Emerge Gaudier, More Carefree

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (AP)—This February 14 you can have plastic hearts, real lace, mirrors, cellophane windows or real hair on the tender message you send to your Valentine—if he or she commands the 25-cents-and-up variety.

And, says Mrs. Valentine, even in the lower brackets, this year's Valentines have more "verve" than they've had for years.

"Verve" is the term Mr. Valentine, also known as Stephen Q. Shannon, head of Greeting Card Industry, Inc., used today to describe a trend toward gayer, more carefree Valentines than Valentine-senders have seen in years.

One thing that helps to produce it is the return of plastics and other materials that disappeared during the war. During the war years Mr. Valentine shook his head sadly at each new crop, bewailing their lack of "punch."

Now the ladies on the sentimental billets-doux have real rhinestones in their hair, real lace on their gowns and real hair. The plastic arts have produced everything from glowing hearts to "peas in a pod" that look like real ones.

The carefree motif, Mr. Valentine continued, has led to more of what he calls "cutie pie" Valetines.

The "cutie pie" type, he explained, used to be confined mainly to Valentines sent by or to children. Now, apparently, adult Valentines are likely to be "cuter" than the kids'.

Smith Takes Part In Gulf Air Tour

W. Donald Smith, of Camden avenue, is one of thousands of participants in the Sixth Annual Gulf Air Tour to Florida, an event which is bringing into the air the largest number of private pilots in the history of aviation, Major Al Williams, noted speed flyer, Pulitzer trophy winner and head of the aviation department of the Gulf Oil Companies, disclosed today.

Designed to encourage cross-country flying, the unusual air tour is open to any pilot of a plane of 125 horsepower or less. Several thousand private pilots from all over the country are expected to take part in this flight. Pilots will use the nearest of four especially worked out Gulf Airways to Florida, all of which will converge at Orlando, branching out from that city to both Florida's east and west coasts.

Free oil and gasoline will be provided participants by Gulf dealers at some 70 intermediate refueling points along these airways. Flyers from this area may secure air tour applications from the local Gulf airport dealer. Pilots should complete the tour by January 26. They can fly individually or in groups of their own choosing and can visit any part of Florida they desire.

Canada Urged To Remove Import Duties On Coal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP) — Spokesmen for the nation's hard and soft coal industries urged yesterday that Canada remove existing import duties on the two fuels.

The Dominion now exacts a 75-cent-a-ton duty on bituminous coal imported from the United States and 50-cents-a-ton on anthracite.

The State Department's Committee on Reciprocity Information, holding public hearings to obtain data on which to base future trade-agreement negotiations with 18 nations, was told that Canada should be willing to accord United States coals "fair treatment."

Technological Advance And Its Bearing On Prices

Business justifiably fears that prices which now have to be charged place many articles beyond the reach of mass markets, according to Murray Shields, in a speech to the marketing conference of the American Management Association in New York City. This condition prevails primarily, he said, because labor efficiency ranges between 70 and 80 percent of the prewar period.

"Our chief hope that instead of pricing ourselves out of the markets, we can price many more commodities into the mass market is found in technology," he said, "for it is through technological improvement alone that real costs are reduced."

The nation is in the midst of a great technological revolution, Mr. Shields is convinced, which gives promise that new investment in productive enterprise will again be a dynamic force for economic expansion. Advances in technology, he said, offer escape from major economic dilemmas which have confronted the country, and foreshadow new high peaks in the standard of living. There may, he added, be some painful adjustments in the period immediately ahead, but no depression is likely unless "chaotic" labor policies are continued.

It is Mr. Shields' view that many of the barriers to business expansion which kept American industry in the doldrums for more than a decade have now been removed. He added:

"Expenditures by industry to take care of the new technological developments, plus expenditures to offset deferred obsolescence and maintenance, when added to plant expenditures by municipalities and by individual housing facilities, are capable of raising total investment expenditures to an average level of from four to five times what they were in the depressed 1930s and perhaps even as high as twice what they were in the prosperous 1920s. Thus, if business initiative is free to make full use of the opportunities for expanding markets and lowering costs which technology now offers, it seems likely that we will no longer have reason to fear that under-investment and over-savings will act as a powerful deflationary force in our economy."

Mr. Shields has some advice to offer for the period of readjustment, which he predicts will be followed by a long period of high level production, intense competition, a high degree of instability, a higher level of prices and a rising trend of interest rates. His advice was that production should be geared to thorough analysis of the market, and that cautious inventory policies should be followed, together with conservative financial and credit procedures.

Regardless of the use which businessmen make of this advice, the consumer will be glad to hear that technological advances may usher in the era he has been looking for: A higher standard of living, lower prices, and freedom from a serious economic depression.

Seventy per cent of the nation's lend-lease bills have been marked paid, according to a White House announcement. But the same system won't work on a taxpayer's Christmas bills.

Clew In Grim Search Has Been Found In Laboratory

Medical science, which has long groped in darkness only to arrive discouragingly at dead ends in its search for an infantile paralysis cure, at last discerns a light. Out of the laboratory of two Stanford University scientists has come the announcement that what is believed to be nearly pure polio virus has been identified and isolated.

This discovery is only a step, but it is the all-important first step which may set research experts on the path they have been seeking—that of finding a means to produce vaccine to prevent the disease and to stay its inroads on diagnosis. But the Stanford scientists caution against any conclusion that isolation of the virus will lead necessarily to production of a successful vaccine. Long and tedious work lies ahead.

The experiments have resulted in knowledge which may prove to be the key to a medical enigma. Science may yet be armed against a dark enemy which strikes in the night with suffering and death.

Alterations to radiator grills are under way at the motor car factories, and soon the 1947 models will be making their appearance.

Autos Of Future Might Be Far Beyond Self-Control

Many Americans cannot buy new autos, but they can find material for dreams about the car of the future in reports of the annual meeting of the Society of Automobile Engineers recently concluded in Detroit.

The motorist of the future will be able to drive 150 miles per hour, police permitting. He will enjoy greater comfort and safety as a result of independent suspension of wheels. It will be unnecessary for him to put his collar around his neck to avoid drafts, and his white shirt will never be flecked by dust.

Reid A. Railton, consulting engineer and racing auto designer, said small car engines capable of giving speeds of more than 150 miles an hour have been developed in Europe and that these motors could be adopted easily by American manufacturers because they are only 45 cubic inches in capacity and surprisingly close to orthodox design.

He pointed out that despite attempts to be made this year to establish new world auto speed records, "we are getting close to the limit of speed which can be attained." He said jet propulsion could increase racing car speeds but that such a type of power plant would be of little use in passenger cars.

Allan J. Carter, project engineer of the Chrysler Corporation, said further developments by organic chemists of improved automotive cements and sealers will lead to motor vehicles of greater beauty, comfort, durability and performance. These developments, he said, would include a few all-purpose cements which, applied by brush and spray, would tend to eliminate drafts, dust, wind and noise from auto interiors.

Whenever atomic energy is discussed these days, some authority points out that the physical sciences have gone too far ahead of the social sciences. It appears that the autos of the future, with potential speeds of 150 miles an hour, will have gone too far beyond the possibility of self-control on the part of the average driver.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

COMFORT FOR THE WHOOPING COUGH VICTIM

WHOOPING cough is seen most commonly during the first six years altho it is encountered occasionally even in the elderly. It is extremely dangerous to young infants. In 1944 the disease caused the death of more children under two than measles, diptheria, poliomyelitis, and scarlet fever combined.

The causative organism is the Bordet-Gengou bacillus (hemophilus pertussis). The germ gains entrance to the body by inhaling air previously contaminated by a victim. This can happen readily, for whooping cough is most contagious during the early stage that is so difficult to recognize. If the malady is suspected, however, diagnosis can be confirmed by several laboratory tests including the cough plate, throat smears, and blood tests.

In a non-immune youngster the disorder is likely to start from 3 to 14 days after contact. The usual manifestations resemble a cold, including nasal discharge, sneezing, a tickling sensation in the throat, slight fever, listlessness, and irritability. Shortly thereafter, "hacking" appears which, as the days pass, becomes more marked and troublesome especially at night.

Coughing comes in paroxysms, as if the child were trying to bring up something. The effort entailed may be so violent that the face becomes blue, the eyes bulge, and the veins in the forehead are distended. On attempting to take a deep breath, in order to get more air into the lungs, whooping ensues. At the end of the episode a small amount of thick mucus is generally expectorated and vomiting is not unusual. In infants, this is particularly serious as nutrition is disturbed. The duration of an average case is from two to three months. Whooping subsides gradually altho it may recur should a cold intervene.

For a susceptible child who has been exposed, active immunity can be produced. The preparation is made from human serum and the best results are obtained when it is given early. Obviously, the material is most valuable to tots under two years of age, and those who are weak or sickly.

When the victim is over three, not much medical care is required. The youngster should be isolated and kept in bed for at least five weeks. In this way, many secondary infections are avoided. Barking and vomiting are more prone to come on when the sufferer breathes cold air, becomes chilled, inhales smoke or dust, or overexerts himself. Bronchopneumonia is one of the most feared complications and, should it develop, sulfadiazine, penicillin, or human serum are often helpful.

Since it is well to expel the secretions, too much cough medicine is not advised unless sleep is interferred with or throwing up presents a feeding problem. Fresh air and sunshine are desirable later, weather permitting. Easily digested foods are needed and if vomiting persists, smaller but more frequent portions may be served. Streptomycin is known to kill the organisms but it has not been used in sufficient patients to judge the outcome. This drug may change our concepts as time goes by.

Through immunization the disease can often be avoided. The best time is shortly after the sixth month of life. A booster dose may be essential should exposure take place or before starting to school.

INGROWING HAIRS

V. R. writes: What causes chronic ingrowing hairs on the neck of a man?

REPLY

This is a shaving problem. Now and then the angle of the hair shaft is disturbed so that the tiny stubble does not emerge thru its natural pathway but burrows beneath the uppermost layers of the skin. In its new position, it behaves like a sliver and becomes festered. This is more likely to occur in those who have soft skin with a heavy, black beard.

HEADACHES AND CIRCULATION

F. L. writes: Can poor circulation cause headaches?

REPLY

Challenge In The Smog

When I heard that "Duel In the Sun" was finally playing, I grabbed my suntan oil and box lunch and headed for the nearest theater. Of course, the Hollywood version was a little different—they called it "Challenge in the Smog."

The epic cost Selznick six million dollars—four million was spent waiting for the sun to come out.

It's a great picture, though, and Jennifer Jones, who plays the part of an Indian girl, is so good everyone's trying to get reservations. And that Gregory Peck makes a wonderful cowboy. He's a little tall though—in fact, they had to jack up the horse before he could get on.

I love those wild western movies with all the shooting going on—it gives me a chance to explode my popcorn bags without the manager knowing.

I'm glad I took that box lunch with me—that picture was so long the ushers had to run out during the intermission to get more ammunition. I won't say how long it is, but the couples are sitting in the theater so long they're thinking of putting a justice of the peace in the balcony.

Hollywood is now making all its pictures very long—a sort of six-day bike race with a loge.

Yes sir, now I know why they call it "The Year of the Yearling." By the time the picture's over the yearling has full-grown antlers.

But if you want to spend the "best year of your life," just go and see it. They will punch your ticket stub on the way in and your social security on the way out.

THE EBBING TIDE

Prices Will Drop If Production Costs "Stay Put"

By MARK SULLIVAN

Mr. Henry Ford's reduction of car prices has many beneficences. The most potent is that it calls the public's attention to the country's economic situation—at a moment when that situation is at once dramatic and easy for the people to understand. It consists in the main of two pictures, two contrary forces or trends.

Prices of goods, cost of living, are going down. Milk has dropped materially and is certain to drop further during February. Poultry, varying in different parts of the country, is down almost to half the price a year ago. Butter had a severe drop during the past ten days, following another about Christmastime. In addition to the drops actually accomplished, it is the common judgment of producers, dealers and experts that the prices of substantially all foods are headed downward. In fields other than food, the same tendency is under way, as illustrated by the reduction in prices of Ford cars.

An essential part of this picture is that the drops in prices are willingly accepted by producers. Some are made voluntarily. That is the case of Mr. Ford. He could readily have maintained the prices of his cars. He cuts them in the public interest, including his own business interest. He reduces prices "to halt the insane spiral of costs and rising prices." An Administration official, Mr. John Steelman, congratulating Mr. Ford says the Ford "price reduction is good for the country."

Farmers Expect Levelling Off

In the same spirit the spokesman for an association of poultry procurers says their course will be "in the direction of stimulating buying by providing the housewife a better product at a lower price; we believe firmly in the law of supply and demand functioning in a free economy." This is the sentiment and attitude of farmers generally. They have considered prices of their crops to be abnormally high, have expected a levelling off and are willing to accept it.

Willing to accept it, that is, provided the reduction is general, applying to all kinds of goods. Only if the reduction is general can it take place at all. If farmers must pay more for what they buy, they cannot accept less for what they sell. That applies to the whole world of industry and business.

This brings us to the other picture. The principal factor in it is a policy of CIO and steps taken by it. CIO unions and leaders have demanded wage raises in several industries, conspicuously steel. Negotiations between steel industry heads and CIO head Philip Murray are to begin next week. Whether a wage raise would need to be followed by a price increase will be hotly argued. A year ago the steelworkers' union got a wage raise of 18½ cents per hour, and immediately afterward the price of steel was increased $5 a ton.

Obligation On Steel Industry

Upon the heads of the steel industry is an obligation of economic statesmanship. The price of steel is perhaps the most important price in all industry, because of its effect on other prices. An increase in the price of steel at this time would reverse the whole trend toward lower prices.

If the steel industry is able to raise wages, it would be able, with the same money, to reduce the price of steel. Reduction of prices is in itself the equivalent of an increase in wages. An increase in wages benefits directly only those who receive it. A reduction of prices directly benefits everybody. Mr. Ford's reduction in the price of his cars is to that extent the equivalent of an increase in income for all who buy Ford cars, including Mr. Ford's workers.

Mr. Ford utters a guarded warning: "We hope as we move forward we will be able to reduce prices further, and that we will not be forced to raise them again to compensate for cost increases."

Mr. Ford makes no direct allusion to wage raises. But it is an economic fact that raises in wages are increases in costs. Wage raises now, if general or taking place in basic industries would not only frustrate Mr. Ford's action, but reverse the whole present trend toward lower prices.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—When the average American thinks of the Senate Judiciary Committee, he thinks of a dignified group of legislators solemnly pondering important legal problems. When the new Judiciary Committee met in executive session the other morning, that, however, was not the prevailing atmosphere. Nor is it likely to be during the next two years, in view of the strong personalities sitting on opposite sides of the table.

New chairman is pontifical Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, Republican, who never did get along with pompous Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada. McCarran is now ranking Democrat on the Committee, while the ranking Republican behind Wiley is fearless, unpredictable Senator Bill Langer of North Dakota. Committee members are looking for some beautiful scraps.

A forerunner came this week. McCarran was arguing for an early decision regarding committee personnel—how many clerks and secretaries would be assigned to the Democrats, and which members of the staff.

Testily, Chairman Wiley advised: "Hold your horses."

"I am holding my horses, but I can't hold them forever while you make up your mind," shot back McCarran.

"I guess I should have said 'hold your jackasses'," replied Wiley, his face lighting up in appreciation of his own wit.

"When I think of jackasses," countered the Democratic Senator from Nevada, "I think of you."

"You'd better be careful," snapped Wiley. "This is a jackass that will kick."

"I'm not worried," said McCarran. "I've always been able to step back out of the way in time."

FDR Jr. Blasts Housing

The office of new housing expediter Frank Creedon is still reverberating from a tongue-lashing administered by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., over veterans housing.

F.D.R., Jr., won out, but not before some un-parlorlike language singed the long-distance wires between Washington and New York.

The son of the late President had learned of an order on veterans' rental housing, sent confidentially to regional housing officials, by which the American Legion would have dominated nationwide meetings on veterans' rental problems. The order instructed field officials to contact Legion and Chamber of Commerce representatives to assist in sponsoring the meetings.

It so happens that both the Legion and the Chamber of Commerce vigorously opposed the Wyatt housing program, yet no other organizations were mentioned by name in the official order.

When F.D.R. Jr., national housing chairman of the American Veterans Committee, was shown a copy of the confidential order, he grabbed a telephone and put in a call to new housing expediter Creedon. Creedon had left for the day, so the call was taken by a special assistant, William E. O'Brien.

"I'm new on the job here," O'Brien pleaded when young Roosevelt began to protest about the order. "Ill check and call you back tomorrow morning."

"Well, you'd better make damn sure that memorandum is changed," declared Roosevelt.

Roosevelt Opposes Legion

O'Brien called back next day to explain that the order had been issued by Federal Housing Administrator Raymond Foley. Creedon had nothing to do with it, O'Brien said.

"I don't care who is responsible; I want it changed," demanded Roosevelt. "All five of the major veterans groups should be asked to participate in the rent meetings. Furthermore, labor, consumer and civic groups should be represented in addition to business leaders."

"I'll do my best," promised O'Brien.

"I wont be satisfied with anything less than a complete change of the order," said Roosevelt. "Otherwise, I intend to blast this thing wide open in the newspapers."

A short time later, Roosevelt's New York telephone began buzzing again. This time Sam Riddick, Creedon's expert on veterans' affairs, was on the line.

"What's the trouble, Frank?" he inquired. "You've tossed a bombshell into the agency down here."

"I'm going to begin tossing some real bombshells unless that order is withdrawn and amended," replied Roosevelt. "What are you trying to do—turn the housing program over to the Chamber of Commerce and Paul Griffith of the American Legion?"

Riddick assured Roosevelt that the A.V.C. and all other vet groups would be equally represented at the rental meetings. He also promised to see that local housing expediters set up advisory committees of the five veterans' groups to meet with business, labor and civic leaders in different communities.

"Veterans who have the consumer, not the producer, viewpoint should be named to the committees," said Roosevelt. "I mean war veterans who have had housing problems of their" own.

Church and Labor

It hasn't been announced officially, but prominent church leaders are beginning an important behind-the-scenes study in connection with the Government's efforts to maintain industrial peace. There have been several private meetings recently at which both Protestant and Catholic clergymen sat down and traded ideas with industrial and labor spokesmen on the question of labor relations.

Already one important meeting has been held at the McCormick Spice Company plant in Baltimore, one of the pioneers in profit-sharing and enlightened labor relations.

The study will reach full-dress proportions at a meeting in Pittsburgh, February 18 to 20, to be sponsored by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ. Churchmen and lay leaders, representing industry and labor, will be brought together to draft a "code of moral ethics" for management-labor dealings.

Officials of the National Catholic Welfare conference, who took a leading part in the Baltimore meeting, also will be invited to the Pittsburgh Protestant conference.

While the churchmen deny that they are endeavoring to make religion a "bargaining factor" in the settlement of labor disputes, they feel that the church should play a definite part in improving work and pay standards. They also believe it is the duty of the church to inject a "greater sense of moral responsibility and understanding" in bargaining between employers and employees.

Opposition To Making Any Change In Labor Laws Is Now Developing

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Already pressure is being exerted on the Republican majority in Congress to soften, if not forget altogether, the demand for revision of the labor laws.

The pressure takes on different forms but the pattern is all too familiar.

The first approach is to argue that "laws will never cure labor troubles." This sounds plausible, but the moment anyone suggests that the repeal of the Wagner Labor Relations Law thereby becomes logical, there is vehement protest. What is not realized, of course, by the "left wingers" who are responsible for the propaganda is that it is the Wagner Labor law that has done so much to promote hostility between employers and employees and bring to a climax the class warfare and ideological conflict which is basically at the heart of the Communist maneuver to divide America.

By curtailing free speech and limiting the opportunities of the employer to discuss problems of mutual concern with his own employees, the interpretations of the Wagner law, handed down by the National Labor Relations Board have produced an atmosphere in which collective bargaining cannot be carried out effectively.

Opposition From Democrats

The second line of attack against those who would revise the Wagner law is to bring in statistics showing that strikes on the right to organize have been reduced to the minimum. But nothing is said about the strikes that have resulted as a consequence of fraud and misrepresentation by unions in getting their majority. Nothing is said about the bad feeling existent in so many cases between employees as a result of acts of intimidation and coercion which the Wagner act does not forbid.

Every effort to amend the Wagner law so that "unfair labor practices" by both employers and unions would be defined has been resisted heretofore by the Democratic majority. Now, when Congress is about to act, there is a protest from the "left wingers" on the ground that no legislation is really necessary.

Completely overlooked also is the fact that several labor unions from coast to coast have been guilty of violence in mass picketing. Just why violence should not be prohibited by Federal law, inasmuch as the law covers employers in their unfair labor practices, is unexplained. Only the passage of a Federal law can do away with the acts of brutality which have occurred on the strike front.

For years the typical labor union answer to this has been to say that employers hired "thugs." But the Wagner law now reaches employers who try that sort of tactics, and today only the labor unions employ the goons and strong-arm men. Picketing should be limited to employees actually on strike. The Congress, when the Wagner Act was passed in 1935, was importuned to forbid "coercion from any source" but the union lobby was successful in defeating such an amendment when it was proposed by Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democrat.

Those who say no new laws or revisions are needed forget that in the files of newspaper offices are thousands of action photographs, taken on the strike front, showing how mass picketing actually interferes with the right of the citizen to work. Clearly, to refrain from writing a law on mass picketing and to say "laws will not cure the situation" is equivalent to saying that the laws against murder and robbery are equally valueless in America.

Should Extend Authority

If laws are superfluous, then American industry and business should be asking for the repeal of the Anti-Trust laws, too, because surely if monopolies aren't prevented by law and the Anti-Trust statues have become superfluous, there can be no objection to putting business executives on the same parity with labor unions.

The answer, of course, is not to repeal the Anti-Trust laws at all but to extend their authority to cover those labor unions which engage in monopolistic practices and interfere with commerce by restraints both physical and economic.

To grant a National Labor Union a monopoly while denying monopolies to corporations is transparently uneven. The subject can be reached only by legislation.

Also it might be asked where the nation would be today if the coal strike of last month had not been broken by the use of the Smith-Connally Law which gave the government seizure rights and enabled it to apply for an injunction. To say laws are unnecessary to govern labor relations is to invite another paralysis of the economic system by unrestrained labor union executives. Clearly an amendment is necessary to the Norris-LaGuardia Law to grant the government the specific right to apply for injunctions when the national welfare is threatened.

Yet, despite the obvious needs for more law and revision of old laws, the propaganda being fired at Congress naively claims that "labor troubles will never be cured by law." The propaganda boldly ignores the realities of present-day labor strife in America.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (CP)—Look for the nation's airlines to fly through some bumpy weather before they are able to get back on the beam again.

Air crashes, reduced passenger mileage, the recent TWA pilot's strike and growing pains have combined to give the major lines a rough time.

To cap it all, came the bad weather which "socked in" all eastern fields during both the Christmas and New Year holidays. Thousands had to turn to the railroads at the last minute, which induced many not to rely on plane reservations in the future for any "must" trip.

Transport

Economic observers hold that the airlines, despite their wartime growth, are still in the fledgling stage as far as realizing full potentialities are concerned.

They note that most major firms, in expanding, have spread themselves pretty thin. Moreover, they note, the airlines have not been able to complete their programs, including modernization of terminals, as fast as they wished and the public has grown tired of the inconveniences at many major airports.

The result has been a decline in revenues which, in turn, forces some lines to curtail operations in order to weather the emergency. However, there is considerable confidence that, by a thorough overhauling, including the elimination of some "window dressing" personnel and the adoption of strict business methods, the airlines will come through, because of the inherent steady demand for fast transportation.

The movement known as the Republican Open Forum has been making itself heard around Washington lately. Known more commonly as the ROF, it is actually an association of local groups, spread around the country, which gathers the opinions of Republicans, as expressed at meetings, and makes reports on "grass roots" thinking for party leaders in and out of Congress.

The Republican National committee acknowledged the "excellent work" of the ROF, but refused support. Observers find little difficulty in understanding this lack of direct assistance, since the organization was formed under the protective wing of Harold Stassen, an avowed presidential candidate, who remains chairman of the ROF advisory board.

However, Henry T. McKnight, ROF executive director and a Stassen adherent, maintains the organization will not develop into a group of Stassen-for-President clubs, despite the liberal contributions to ROF by the "Minnesota Fund" which also contributes to the Stassen campaign.

Washington politicos agree with McKnight that the forum would lose some party value if they became too Stassen-minded, but they have grave doubts that the present impartiality will last.

While politicians roar in strictly political speeches in demands for "open diplomacy" they are generally reluctant to having the same principle apply to party politics. Hence a number were somewhat shocked when Senator Wilson of Iowa, swept in in the Republican landslide, proposed that the recent Republican conference of senators prior to taking over Senate control be open to the public.

He didn't push the suggestion but he thoroughly believes in such conduct of political matters. Semi-official as well as official proceedings, he is convinced, should be thrown open. He has proved the sincerity of his convictions, too. While governor of Iowa he insisted that the door of his private office be kept open at all time. Waiting visitors could always see who sat across the desk from Wilson. Some politicians who liked to decide things in secret huddles were annoyed.

In Iowa, he also threw open session of his executive council, which transacts most of the state's executive business. Officials participating were at first embarrassed, but Wilson insists the plan worked. "There were no misunderstandings about what we were doing," he says, "and we had nothing to hide."

Today's Talk

PEOPLE

Nothing in this world is so interesting, or as important, as people. Each of us being one of them, nothing could be more natural. Obvious it is, though curious, that no two of the billions created have ever been exactly the same. Fundamentally, however, we are all of a common fabric—all akin.

I like people, every kind and variety, domestic or foreign. It's too bad that there isn't a common language. That would do more than anything else to unite all nations and peoples. We are intolerant toward people because we do not understand them. Nations have personalities, the same as individuals.

The snob is never important, no matter what his wealth or position. The quiet thinker always is important—even when he isn't saying anything! He bides his time. Then people listen to him. I like to talk with simple folks—not simple in mind, but simple in living and expression. Tillers of the soil, fisher folk, the common toilers, who do the bulk of the work of the world. They do a deal of thinking as they toil on, day in and day out. Even the failure is most interesting. You learn from him far more than you do from the successful. His is the dramatic life.

People who keep in the limelight, and who keep attracting attention, are not the great people. The great people are those who move silently in the world, easing pain, comforting the discouraged, and seeing the good in things and people.

Masterpieces have been written in prisons, and upon beds while their authors were dying. Silent people at work. These are the sort of people who have often changed the course of history. I have no idea that Henry D. Thoreau had no headlines, or spreads, in the newspapers of his day. He, and his humble cabin, were probably looked upon askance by his neighbors, and by those who heard his name mentioned. But in him existed one of the great minds of America.

The statement, attributed to Lincoln, that God must have liked the common people because He made so many of them, still holds. They are our kin.

Technological Advance And Its Bearing On Prices

Business justifiably fears that prices which now have to be charged place many articles beyond the reach of mass markets, according to Murray Shields, in a speech to the marketing conference of the American Management Association in New York City. This condition prevails primarily, he said, because labor efficiency ranges between 70 and 80 percent of the prewar period.

"Our chief hope that instead of pricing ourselves out of the markets, we can price many more commodities into the mass market is found in technology," he said, "for it is through technological improvement alone that real costs are reduced."

The nation is in the midst of a great technological revolution, Mr. Shields is convinced, which gives promise that new investment in productive enterprise will again be a dynamic force for economic expansion. Advances in technology, he said, offer escape from major economic dilemmas which have confronted the country, and foreshadow new high peaks in the standard of living. There may, he added, be some painful adjustments in the period immediately ahead, but no depression is likely unless "chaotic" labor policies are continued.

It is Mr. Shields' view that many of the barriers to business expansion which kept American industry in the doldrums for more than a decade have now been removed. He added:

"Expenditures by industry to take care of the new technological developments, plus expenditures to offset deferred obsolescence and maintenance, when added to plant expenditures by municipalities and by individual housing facilities, are capable of raising total investment expenditures to an average level of from four to five times what they were in the depressed 1930s and perhaps even as high as twice what they were in the prosperous 1920s. Thus, if business initiative is free to make full use of the opportunities for expanding markets and lowering costs which technology now offers, it seems likely that we will no longer have reason to fear that under-investment and over-savings will act as a powerful deflationary force in our economy."

Mr. Shields has some advice to offer for the period of readjustment, which he predicts will be followed by a long period of high level production, intense competition, a high degree of instability, a higher level of prices and a rising trend of interest rates. His advice was that production should be geared to thorough analysis of the market, and that cautious inventory policies should be followed, together with conservative financial and credit procedures.

Regardless of the use which businessmen make of this advice, the consumer will be glad to hear that technological advances may usher in the era he has been looking for: A higher standard of living, lower prices, and freedom from a serious economic depression.

Seventy per cent of the nation's lend-lease bills have been marked paid, according to a White House announcement. But the same system won't work on a taxpayer's Christmas bills.

Clew In Grim Search Has Been Found In Laboratory

Medical science, which has long groped in darkness only to arrive discouragingly at dead ends in its search for an infantile paralysis cure, at last discerns a light. Out of the laboratory of two Stanford University scientists has come the announcement that what is believed to be nearly pure polio virus has been identified and isolated.

This discovery is only a step, but it is the all-important first step which may set research experts on the path they have been seeking—that of finding a means to produce vaccine to prevent the disease and to stay its inroads on diagnosis. But the Stanford scientists caution against any conclusion that isolation of the virus will lead necessarily to production of a successful vaccine. Long and tedious work lies ahead.

The experiments have resulted in knowledge which may prove to be the key to a medical enigma. Science may yet be armed against a dark enemy which strikes in the night with suffering and death.

Alterations to radiator grills are under way at the motor car factories, and soon the 1947 models will be making their appearance.

Autos Of Future Might Be Far Beyond Self-Control

Many Americans cannot buy new autos, but they can find material for dreams about the car of the future in reports of the annual meeting of the Society of Automobile Engineers recently concluded in Detroit.

The motorist of the future will be able to drive 150 miles per hour, police permitting. He will enjoy greater comfort and safety as a result of independent suspension of wheels. It will be unnecessary for him to put his collar around his neck to avoid drafts, and his white shirt will never be flecked by dust.

Reid A. Railton, consulting engineer and racing auto designer, said small car engines capable of giving speeds of more than 150 miles an hour have been developed in Europe and that these motors could be adopted easily by American manufacturers because they are only 45 cubic inches in capacity and surprisingly close to orthodox design.

He pointed out that despite attempts to be made this year to establish new world auto speed records, "we are getting close to the limit of speed which can be attained." He said jet propulsion could increase racing car speeds but that such a type of power plant would be of little use in passenger cars.

Allan J. Carter, project engineer of the Chrysler Corporation, said further developments by organic chemists of improved automotive cements and sealers will lead to motor vehicles of greater beauty, comfort, durability and performance. These developments, he said, would include a few all-purpose cements which, applied by brush and spray, would tend to eliminate drafts, dust, wind and noise from auto interiors.

Whenever atomic energy is discussed these days, some authority points out that the physical sciences have gone too far ahead of the social sciences. It appears that the autos of the future, with potential speeds of 150 miles an hour, will have gone too far beyond the possibility of self-control on the part of the average driver.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

COMFORT FOR THE WHOOPING COUGH VICTIM

WHOOPING cough is seen most commonly during the first six years altho it is encountered occasionally even in the elderly. It is extremely dangerous to young infants. In 1944 the disease caused the death of more children under two than measles, diptheria, poliomyelitis, and scarlet fever combined.

The causative organism is the Bordet-Gengou bacillus (hemophilus pertussis). The germ gains entrance to the body by inhaling air previously contaminated by a victim. This can happen readily, for whooping cough is most contagious during the early stage that is so difficult to recognize. If the malady is suspected, however, diagnosis can be confirmed by several laboratory tests including the cough plate, throat smears, and blood tests.

In a non-immune youngster the disorder is likely to start from 3 to 14 days after contact. The usual manifestations resemble a cold, including nasal discharge, sneezing, a tickling sensation in the throat, slight fever, listlessness, and irritability. Shortly thereafter, "hacking" appears which, as the days pass, becomes more marked and troublesome especially at night.

Coughing comes in paroxysms, as if the child were trying to bring up something. The effort entailed may be so violent that the face becomes blue, the eyes bulge, and the veins in the forehead are distended. On attempting to take a deep breath, in order to get more air into the lungs, whooping ensues. At the end of the episode a small amount of thick mucus is generally expectorated and vomiting is not unusual. In infants, this is particularly serious as nutrition is disturbed. The duration of an average case is from two to three months. Whooping subsides gradually altho it may recur should a cold intervene.

For a susceptible child who has been exposed, active immunity can be produced. The preparation is made from human serum and the best results are obtained when it is given early. Obviously, the material is most valuable to tots under two years of age, and those who are weak or sickly.

When the victim is over three, not much medical care is required. The youngster should be isolated and kept in bed for at least five weeks. In this way, many secondary infections are avoided. Barking and vomiting are more prone to come on when the sufferer breathes cold air, becomes chilled, inhales smoke or dust, or overexerts himself. Bronchopneumonia is one of the most feared complications and, should it develop, sulfadiazine, penicillin, or human serum are often helpful.

Since it is well to expel the secretions, too much cough medicine is not advised unless sleep is interferred with or throwing up presents a feeding problem. Fresh air and sunshine are desirable later, weather permitting. Easily digested foods are needed and if vomiting persists, smaller but more frequent portions may be served. Streptomycin is known to kill the organisms but it has not been used in sufficient patients to judge the outcome. This drug may change our concepts as time goes by.

Through immunization the disease can often be avoided. The best time is shortly after the sixth month of life. A booster dose may be essential should exposure take place or before starting to school.

INGROWING HAIRS

V. R. writes: What causes chronic ingrowing hairs on the neck of a man?

REPLY

This is a shaving problem. Now and then the angle of the hair shaft is disturbed so that the tiny stubble does not emerge thru its natural pathway but burrows beneath the uppermost layers of the skin. In its new position, it behaves like a sliver and becomes festered. This is more likely to occur in those who have soft skin with a heavy, black beard.

HEADACHES AND CIRCULATION

F. L. writes: Can poor circulation cause headaches?

REPLY

Challenge In The Smog

When I heard that "Duel In the Sun" was finally playing, I grabbed my suntan oil and box lunch and headed for the nearest theater. Of course, the Hollywood version was a little different—they called it "Challenge in the Smog."

The epic cost Selznick six million dollars—four million was spent waiting for the sun to come out.

It's a great picture, though, and Jennifer Jones, who plays the part of an Indian girl, is so good everyone's trying to get reservations. And that Gregory Peck makes a wonderful cowboy. He's a little tall though—in fact, they had to jack up the horse before he could get on.

I love those wild western movies with all the shooting going on—it gives me a chance to explode my popcorn bags without the manager knowing.

I'm glad I took that box lunch with me—that picture was so long the ushers had to run out during the intermission to get more ammunition. I won't say how long it is, but the couples are sitting in the theater so long they're thinking of putting a justice of the peace in the balcony.

Hollywood is now making all its pictures very long—a sort of six-day bike race with a loge.

Yes sir, now I know why they call it "The Year of the Yearling." By the time the picture's over the yearling has full-grown antlers.

But if you want to spend the "best year of your life," just go and see it. They will punch your ticket stub on the way in and your social security on the way out.

THE EBBING TIDE

Prices Will Drop If Production Costs "Stay Put"

By MARK SULLIVAN

Mr. Henry Ford's reduction of car prices has many beneficences. The most potent is that it calls the public's attention to the country's economic situation—at a moment when that situation is at once dramatic and easy for the people to understand. It consists in the main of two pictures, two contrary forces or trends.

Prices of goods, cost of living, are going down. Milk has dropped materially and is certain to drop further during February. Poultry, varying in different parts of the country, is down almost to half the price a year ago. Butter had a severe drop during the past ten days, following another about Christmastime. In addition to the drops actually accomplished, it is the common judgment of producers, dealers and experts that the prices of substantially all foods are headed downward. In fields other than food, the same tendency is under way, as illustrated by the reduction in prices of Ford cars.

An essential part of this picture is that the drops in prices are willingly accepted by producers. Some are made voluntarily. That is the case of Mr. Ford. He could readily have maintained the prices of his cars. He cuts them in the public interest, including his own business interest. He reduces prices "to halt the insane spiral of costs and rising prices." An Administration official, Mr. John Steelman, congratulating Mr. Ford says the Ford "price reduction is good for the country."

Farmers Expect Levelling Off

In the same spirit the spokesman for an association of poultry prorucers says their course will be "in the direction of stimulating buying by providing the housewife a better product at a lower price; we believe firmly in the law of supply and demand functioning in a free economy." This is the sentiment and attitude of farmers generally. They have considered prices of their crops to be abnormally high, have expected a levelling off and are willing to accept it.

Willing to accept it, that is, provided the reduction is general, applying to all kinds of goods. Only if the reduction is general can it take place at all. If farmers must pay more for what they buy, they cannot accept less for what they sell. That applies to the whole world of industry and business.

This brings us to the other picture. The principal factor in it is a policy of CIO and steps taken by it. CIO unions and leaders have demanded wage raises in several industries, conspicuously steel. Negotiations between steel industry heads and CIO head Philip Murray are to begin next week. Whether a wage raise would need to be followed by a price increase will be hotly argued. A year ago the steelworkers' union got a wage raise of 18½ cents per hour, and immediately afterward the price of steel was increased $5 a ton.

Obligation On Steel Industry

Upon the heads of the steel industry is an obligation of economic statesmanship. The price of steel is perhaps the most important price in all industry, because of its effect on other prices. An increase in the price of steel at this time would reverse the whole trend toward lower prices.

If the steel industry is able to raise wages, it would be able, with the same money, to reduce the price of steel. Reduction of prices is in itself the equivalent of an increase in wages. An increase in wages benefits directly only those who receive it. A reduction of prices directly benefits everybody. Mr. Ford's reduction in the price of his cars is to that extent the equivalent of an increase in income for all who buy Ford cars, including Mr. Ford's workers.

Mr. Ford utters a guarded warning: "We hope as we move forward we will be able to reduce prices further, and that we will not be forced to raise them again to compensate for cost increases."

Mr. Ford makes no direct allusion to wage raises. But it is an economic fact that raises in wages are increases in costs. Wage raises now, if general or taking place in basic industries would not only frustrate Mr. Ford's action, but reverse the whole present trend toward lower prices.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—When the average American thinks of the Senate Judiciary Committee, he thinks of a dignified group of legislators solemnly pondering important legal problems. When the new Judiciary Committee met in executive session the other morning, that, however, was not the prevailing atmosphere. Nor is it likely to be during the next two years, in view of the strong personalities sitting on opposite sides of the table.

New chairman is pontifical Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, Republican, who never did get along with pompous Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada. McCarran is now ranking Democrat on the Committee, while the ranking Republican behind Wiley is fearless, unpredictable Senator Bill Langer of North Dakota. Committee members are looking for some beautiful scraps.

A forerunner came this week. McCarran was arguing for an early decision regarding committee personnel—how many clerks and secretaries would be assigned to the Democrats, and which members of the staff.

Testily, Chairman Wiley advised: "Hold your horses."

"I am holding my horses, but I can't hold them forever while you make up your mind," shot back McCarran.

"I guess I should have said 'hold your jackasses'," replied Wiley, his face lighting up in appreciation of his own wit.

"When I think of jackasses," countered the Democratic Senator from Nevada, "I think of you."

"You'd better be careful," snapped Wiley. "This is a jackass that will kick."

"I'm not worried," said McCarran. "I've always been able to step back out of the way in time."

FDR Jr. Blasts Housing

The office of new housing expediter Frank Creedon is still reverberating from a tongue-lashing administered by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., over veterans housing.

F.D.R., Jr., won out, but not before some un-parlorlike language singed the long-distance wires between Washington and New York.

The son of the late President had learned of an order on veterans' rental housing, sent confidentially to regional housing officials, by which the American Legion would have dominated nationwide meetings on veterans' rental problems. The order instructed field officials to contact Legion and Chamber of Commerce representatives to assist in sponsoring the meetings.

It so happens that both the Legion and the Chamber of Commerce vigorously opposed the Wyatt housing program, yet no other organizations were mentioned by name in the official order.

When F.D.R. Jr., national housing chairman of the American Veterans Committee, was shown a copy of the confidential order, he grabbed a telephone and put in a call to new housing expediter Creedon. Creedon had left for the day, so the call was taken by a special assistant, William E. O'Brien.

"I'm new on the job here," O'Brien pleaded when young Roosevelt began to protest about the order. "Ill check and call you back tomorrow morning."

"Well, you'd better make damn sure that memorandum is changed," declared Roosevelt.

Roosevelt Opposes Legion

O'Brien called back next day to explain that the order had been issued by Federal Housing Administrator Raymond Foley. Creedon had nothing to do with it, O'Brien said.

"I don't care who is responsible; I want it changed," demanded Roosevelt. "All five of the major veterans groups should be asked to participate in the rent meetings. Furthermore, labor, consumer and civic groups should be represented in addition to business leaders."

"I'll do my best," promised O'Brien.

"I wont be satisfied with anything less than a complete change of the order," said Roosevelt. "Otherwise, I intend to blast this thing wide open in the newspapers."

A short time later, Roosevelt's New York telephone began buzzing again. This time Sam Riddick, Creedon's expert on veterans' affairs, was on the line.

"What's the trouble, Frank?" he inquired. "You've tossed a bombshell into the agency down here."

"I'm going to begin tossing some real bombshells unless that order is withdrawn and amended," replied Roosevelt. "What are you trying to do—turn the housing program over to the Chamber of Commerce and Paul Griffith of the American Legion?"

Riddick assured Roosevelt that the A.V.C. and all other vet groups would be equally represented at the rental meetings. He also promised to see that local housing expediters set up advisory committees of the five veterans' groups to meet with business, labor and civic leaders in different communities.

"Veterans who have the consumer, not the producer, viewpoint should be named to the committees," said Roosevelt. "I mean war veterans who have had housing problems of their" own.

Church and Labor

It hasn't been announced officially, but prominent church leaders are beginning an important behind-the-scenes study in connection with the Government's efforts to maintain industrial peace. There have been several private meetings recently at which both Protestant and Catholic clergymen sat down and traded ideas with industrial and labor spokesmen on the question of labor relations.

Already one important meeting has been held at the McCormick Spice Company plant in Baltimore, one of the pioneers in profit-sharing and enlightened labor relations.

The study will reach full-dress proportions at a meeting in Pittsburgh, February 18 to 20, to be sponsored by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ. Churchmen and lay leaders, representing industry and labor, will be brought together to draft a "code of moral ethics" for management-labor dealings.

Officials of the National Catholic Welfare conference, who took a leading part in the Baltimore meeting, also will be invited to the Pittsburgh Protestant conference.

While the churchmen deny that they are endeavoring to make religion a "bargaining factor" in the settlement of labor disputes, they feel that the church should play a definite part in improving work and pay standards. They also believe it is the duty of the church to inject a "greater sense of moral responsibility and understanding" in bargaining between employers and employees.

Opposition To Making Any Change In Labor Laws Is Now Developing

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Already pressure is being exerted on the Republican majority in Congress to soften, if not forget altogether, the demand for revision of the labor laws.

The pressure takes on different forms but the pattern is all too familiar.

The first approach is to argue that "laws will never cure labor troubles." This sounds plausible, but the moment anyone suggests that the repeal of the Wagner Labor Relations Law thereby becomes logical, there is vehement protest. What is not realized, of course, by the "left wingers" who are responsible for the propaganda is that it is the Wagner Labor law that has done so much to promote hostility between employers and employees and bring to a climax the class warfare and ideological conflict which is basically at the heart of the Communist maneuver to divide America.

By curtailing free speech and limiting the opportunities of the employer to discuss problems of mutual concern with his own employees, the interpretations of the Wagner law, handed down by the National Labor Relations Board have produced an atmosphere in which collective bargaining cannot be carried out effectively.

Opposition From Democrats

The second line of attack against those who would revise the Wagner law is to bring in statistics showing that strikes on the right to organize have been reduced to the minimum. But nothing is said about the strikes that have resulted as a consequence of fraud and misrepresentation by unions in getting their majority. Nothing is said about the bad feeling existent in so many cases between employees as a result of acts of intimidation and coercion which the Wagner act does not forbid.

Every effort to amend the Wagner law so that "unfair labor practices" by both employers and unions would be defined has been resisted heretofore by the Democratic majority. Now, when Congress is about to act, there is a protest from the "left wingers" on the ground that no legislation is really necessary.

Completely overlooked also is the fact that several labor unions from coast to coast have been guilty of violence in mass picketing. Just why violence should not be prohibited by Federal law, inasmuch as the law covers employers in their unfair labor practices, is unexplained. Only the passage of a Federal law can do away with the acts of brutality which have occurred on the strike front.

For years the typical labor union answer to this has been to say that employers hired "thugs." But the Wagner law now reaches employers who try that sort of tactics, and today only the labor unions employ the goons and strong-arm men. Picketing should be limited to employees actually on strike. The Congress, when the Wagner Act was passed in 1935, was importuned to forbid "coercion from any source" but the union lobby was successful in defeating such an amendment when it was proposed by Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democrat.

Those who say no new laws or revisions are needed forget that in the files of newspaper offices are thousands of action photographs, taken on the strike front, showing how mass picketing actually interferes with the right of the citizen to work. Clearly, to refrain from writing a law on mass picketing and to say "laws will not cure the situation" is equivalent to saying that the laws against murder and robbery are equally valueless in America.

Should Extend Authority

If laws are superfluous, then American industry and business should be asking for the repeal of the Anti-Trust laws, too, because surely if monopolies aren't prevented by law and the Anti-Trust statues have become superfluous, there can be no objection to putting business executives on the same parity with labor unions.

The answer, of course, is not to repeal the Anti-Trust laws at all but to extend their authority to cover those labor unions which engage in monopolistic practices and interfere with commerce by restraints both physical and economic.

To grant a National Labor Union a monopoly while denying monopolies to corporations is transparently uneven. The subject can be reached only by legislation.

Also it might be asked where the nation would be today if the coal strike of last month had not been broken by the use of the Smith-Connally Law which gave the government seizure rights and enabled it to apply for an injunction. To say laws are unnecessary to govern labor relations is to invite another paralysis of the economic system by unrestrained labor union executives. Clearly an amendment is necessary to the Norris-LaGuardia Law to grant the government the specific right to apply for injunctions when the national welfare is threatened.

Yet, despite the obvious needs for more law and revision of old laws, the propaganda being fired at Congress naively claims that "labor troubles will never be cured by law." The propaganda boldly ignores the realities of present-day labor strife in America.

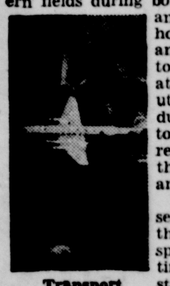
INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (CP)—Look for the nation's airlines to fly through some bumpy weather before they are able to get back on the beam again.

Air crashes, reduced passenger mileage, the recent TWA pilot's strike and growing pains have combined to give the major lines a rough time.

To cap it all, came the bad weather which "socked in" all eastern fields during both the Christmas and New Year holidays. Thousands had to turn to the railroads at the last minute, which induced many not to rely on plane reservations in the future for any "must" trip.



Transport

Economic observers hold that the airlines, despite their wartime growth, are still in the fledgling stage as far as realizing full potentialities are concerned.

They note that most major firms, in expanding, have spread themselves pretty thin. Moreover, they note, the airlines have not been able to complete their programs, including modernization of terminals, as fast as they wished and the public has grown tired of the inconveniences at many major airports.

The result has been a decline in revenues which, in turn, forces some lines to curtail operations in order to weather the emergency. However, there is considerable confidence that, by a thorough overhauling, including the elimination of some "window dressing" personnel and the adoption of strict business methods, the airlines will come through, because of the inherent steady demand for fast transportation.

The movement known as the Republican Open Forum has been making itself heard around Washington lately. Known more commonly as the ROF, it is actually an association of local groups, spread around the country, which gathers the opinions of Republicans, as expressed at meetings, and makes reports on "grass roots" thinking for party leaders in and out of Congress.

The Republican National committee acknowledged the "excellent work" of the ROF, but refused support. Observers find little difficulty in understanding this lack of direct assistance, since the organization was formed under the protective wing of Harold Stassen, an avowed presidential candidate, who remains chairman of the ROF advisory board.

However, Henry T. McKnight, ROF executive director and a Stassen adherent, maintains the organization will not develop into a group of Stassen-for-President clubs, despite the liberal contributions to ROF by the "Minnesota Fund" which also contributes to the Stassen campaign.

Washington politicos agree with McKnight that the forum would lose some party value if they became too Stassen-minded, but they have grave doubts that the present impartiality will last.

While politicians roar in strictly political speeches in demands for "open diplomacy" they are generally reluctant to having the same principle apply to party politics. Hence a number were somewhat shocked when Senator Wilson of Iowa, swept in in the Republican landslide, proposed that the recent Republican conference of senators prior to taking over Senate control be open to the public.

He didn't push the suggestion but he thoroughly believes in such conduct of political matters. Semi-official as well as official proceedings, he is convinced, should be thrown open. He has proved the sincerity of his convictions, too. While governor of Iowa he insisted that the door of his private office be kept open at all time. Waiting visitors could always see who sat across the desk from Wilson. Some politicians who liked to decide things in secret huddles were annoyed.

In Iowa, he also threw open session of his executive council, which transacts most of the state's executive business. Officials participating were at first embarrassed, but Wilson insists the plan worked. "There were no misunderstandings about what we were doing," he says, "and we had nothing to hide."

Today's Talk

PEOPLE

Nothing in this world is so interesting, or as important, as people. Each of us being one of them, nothing could be more natural. Obvious it is, though curious, that no two of the billions created have ever been exactly the same. Fundamentally, however, we are all of a common fabric—all akin.

I like people, every kind and variety, domestic or foreign. It's too bad that there isn't a common language. That would do more than anything else to unite all nations and peoples. We are intolerant toward people because we do not understand them. Nations have personalities, the same as individuals.

The snob is never important, no matter what his wealth or position. The quiet thinker always is important—even when he isn't saying anything! He bides his time. Then people listen to him. I like to talk with simple folks—not simple in mind, but simple in living and expression. Tillers of the soil, fisher folk, the common toilers, who do the bulk of the work of the world. They do a deal of thinking as they toil on, day in and day out. Even the failure is most interesting. You learn from him far more than you do from the successful. His is the dramatic life.

People who keep in the limelight, and who keep attracting attention, are not the great people. The great people are those who move silently in the world, easing pain, comforting the discouraged, and seeing the good in things and people.

Masterpieces have been written in prisons, and upon beds while their authors were dying. Silent people at work. These are the sort of people who have often changed the course of history. I have no idea that Henry D. Thoreau had no headlines, or spreads, in the newspapers of his day. He, and his humble cabin, were probably looked upon askance by his neighbors, and by those who heard his name mentioned. But in him existed one of the great minds of America.

The statement, attributed to Lincoln, that God must have liked the common people because He made so many of them, still holds. They are our kin.

Delay In Starting House Session Is Criticized By See

Allegany Countian's Speech Is Applauded

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 17—(AP)—With three weeks of the 1947 legislative session gone, warring factions in the Baltimore City House delegation finally came to terms today, but so delayed the House session that several county members walked out and went home for the week-end.

The county delegates, at first quietly taking it, then grumbling and at last plainly angered by the city bickering, let loose ringing applause to a speech by Delegate See (R-Allegany), who criticized the House leaders for delay in calling today's session to order.

In sharp contrast to the House difficulties, the Senate met within eight minutes of its set time and proceeded to dispatch its business within 21 minutes.

Baltimore City senators threw into the legislative processes 10 bills—all a part of the city improvement program—calling for a total bond issue of $56,000,000.

The other two measures introduced were local and minor.

There obviously was some behind-the-scenes maneuvering in the House to placate the 36-member city delegation in its efforts to pick a chairman, and the House wasn't called to order by Speaker Sybert (D-Howard), until 12:07 p. m., an hour and seven minutes late.

Committee Membership Increased

Then an order was read increasing the membership of 10 committees from nine to 11 members, and five of those named to the committees were supporters of city forces which opposed Gov. Lane in the Democratic primary election.

The speaker declined to name a chairman, as he had been requested to do yesterday by Delegate Buffington (D-Balto 3rd), who resigned after he had been elected chairman by a "rump" caucus of 18 city men.

However, immediately following today's session, the city legislators met with the speaker, at his invitation, and unanimously elected Leroy W. Preston (D-Balto 5th).

See's critical address at the beginning of the House session today was the first sign of displeasure with legislative leadership since the convening of the legislature.

He complained that "many of us have made appointments with our constituents and it is not fair, sir, to the people we have contacted." See contended that there was no excuse for meeting so late on Friday when those from Western Maryland are slated to take the lengthy trip home for the weekend. "If the Senate can start on time, why can't we?" The Allegany county Republican shouted.

Bill Would Hike Gasoline Tax

Sybert followed See's request for maintenance of the schedule "ordered by the previous adjournment," by promising that beginning Monday night the House will begin at the hour announced. The speaker said that delays since the opening of the 1947 Legislature had been beyond his control.

The House received seven bills today, including a proposal to raise the gasoline tax one cent per gallon for the purpose of improving Maryland highways.

Another bill, submitted by the Harford county delegation, called for an emergency statute eliminating the necessity of advertising notices of road improvement costing over $1,000, in two county newspapers.

See and Delegate Virts (D-Frederick), both blind members of the Assembly, introduced a measure to pay expenses incurred by partially or totally blind and deaf students in the pursuit of education in state public schools. A companion bill, submitted by the same delegates, would require partially or totally deaf and blind children to attend school except in cases of "necessary absence."

Meanwhile, Gov. Lane's appointments of notaries public began to trickle into the Senate. All are referred to the Senate Committee on Executive Nominations.

Both branches of the legislature adjourned until Monday at 8:30 p. m.

Abell Company Is Freed Of Contempt

BALTIMORE, Jan. 17 (AP) — The A. S. Abell Company, publishers of the Baltimore Sunpapers, Paul Patterson, its president, and Detective Capt. Henry J. Kriss all were acquitted of contempt of court today after their trial before Judge Emroy H. Niles in criminal court.

The defendants had been cited for contempt by the Baltimore Supreme Bench under bench rules which prohibit police officers or other authorities from disclosing pre-trial statements obtained from accused persons and newspapers or other agencies from publishing such statements.

The citations grew out of publication in one edition of the Evening Sun on November 23 of a story attributed to Capt. Kriss which outlined an unnamed 15-year-old boy's statement he had accidentally shot and killed a companion while they were playing with a target rifle.

Harry N. Baetjer, counsel for the company and Patterson, argued that there patently had been no obstruction of justice as a result of publication of the story, and mentioned the Sunpapers record of over a century of publication with no previous citation for contempt of court.

U. S., Britain To Raise German Industry Level

BERLIN, Jan. 17. (AP)—United States and British officials said tonight they expected to issue a directive to the German people in their zones in a few days which would set the level of German industry above that previously decided by four-power agreement.

An American official said the directive would transfer the emphasis in German economy from the traditional heavy industry to light industry and textiles.

This joint American-British step follows the action of the Russians in advising officials of the Soviet-sponsored Socialist Unity Party that industry in the Soviet zone would be increased by 200 to 300 percent, that dismantling of factories for reparations would cease in the Soviet zone, and that reparations from current German production would be cut down.

"Operation Reunion" Will Be Held At 22 Naval Air Stations

CHICAGO, Jan. 17—(AP)—Plans for an "Operation Reunion," in which 22 naval air stations throughout the country will hold an at-home day February 16 for potential reservists, were announced today by Rear Adm. Edward G. Owen, chief of the Naval Air Reserve Command.

Adm. Owen said all men interested in the organized reserve of the Naval Air Corps were invited to visit the fields, meet old service friends, and learn about the Navy's air reserve program.

"Operation Reunion" will be held at naval fields in these cities:

Norfolk, Va., and Anacostia, Md.

Hotel Fire Attributed To Lighted Cigaret

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Jan.—(AP)—A fire attributed to a lighted cigaret today swept the upper floor of the Graystone Hotel, burning three persons to death and injuring two other guests.

Fire Chief Joseph K. Dribble said the blaze may have started from a lighted cigaret in or near the room of Eugene E. Godfrey, 63, Watertown, one of the victims. Others dead were identified as William Mullen, 65, Watertown, and Samuel Poole, 65, Harrisville.

Damage was estimated unofficially at about $18,000.

Twenty-two guests fled to safety.

Majority Of Committee Oppose Closed Shop Ban

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP) — A majority of the Senate Labor Committee lined up today to resist any outright ban on the closed shop.

The five Democratic members, joined by at least two Republicans, expressed themselves against a flat prohibition of closed shop contracts. Seven is a majority.

Rep. Landis (R-Ind), of the House Labor Committee, also came out against outlawing the closed shop. He told newsmen the real problem is industry-wide strikes, and announced he will introduce a bill to prevent such strikes in essential industries because "this country can't go through another steel or coal strike."

Nationwide Hunt For Girl's Slayer

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17—(AP)—The mutilation slayer of attractive 22-year-old Elizabeth Short, whose brutal butchery was described by a police psychiatrist as that of a sex-perverted madman, was being sought on a nationwide scale today, with authorities trying particularly to locate her several "boy friends."

Her suitors were many, said Police Capt. Loren Q. Martin, Long Beach, where the girl lived until recently. He added that to hangers-on at a neighborhood drug store near where she lived she was known as "The Black Dahlia," for her raven-hair and the jet black clothing which she usually wore.

When her mutilated bisected body was found in a vacant lot Wednesday morning, her jet hair had been hennaed and was just beginning to grow out in its natural color.

Police would particularly like to question an unidentified Army lieutenant, described as "tall and handsome," whom Miss Short allegedly told friends she intended to marry. She also was frequently visited at her Long Beach hotel by a Navy man, Martin said.

Senate Leaders Set Date For Final Vote

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—A drive by Democratic senators to defeat a year's extension of the Special War Investigating Committee stretched into a second week today with a Republican declaring "they're afraid to vote."

Chairman Brewster (R-Me), of the special committee, laughingly made that accusation to Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) at the end of today's session.

Barkley replied it is not a case of being afraid, but of considerable oratory remaining. He said that after he and Sen. Hatch (D-NM), Pepper (D-Fla.) and some other Democrats speak, he would agree to a vote Monday afternoon.

Agreement Worked Out

However, after objections to trimming the debate that short, an agreement finally was worked out for a final vote at 2 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Wednesday.

The Democrats played a hidden ace as the third day of debate began at noon. Sen. Tydings (D-Md.) offered an amendment to the extension resolution which, if adopted, would turn the investigation of war frauds and excessive war profits over to the standing committee on expenditures in the executive departments.

That committee, headed by Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), includes four first-term Republicans—Sen. Bricker, of Ohio; Thye, of Minnesota; McCarthy, of Wisconsin, and Ives, of New York.

Aiken Is Undecided

Although the prospect may have appealed to them, Brewster told a reporter all four are "adamant" in holding to the general party decision to back Brewster's resolution.

Aiken himself said he had not decided how to vote. He wanted one thing made clear: If he votes for continuation of the special committee it won't be because he thinks his own team couldn't handle the work.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter he did not believe Tydings' maneuver could upset the vote margin his side claims for the Brewster resolution.

Former State Department Worker Accused Of Subversive Activities

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP)—Carl Aldo Marzani, 35, who worked on State Department intelligence for a year, was indicted today on charges of falsely stating he had never been a Communist.

At the same time, the State Department disclosed that intensive loyalty checks are being made on 53 employes who came to the department in 1945 from temporary war agencies.

Attorney General Clark announced the indictment of Marzani by a federal grand jury here. The specific charge is fraud upon the government. Possible penalties run as high as $10,000 fine and 10 years in prison.

"The indictment," said Clark in a statement, "is the result of an intensive inquiry that has been under way by government officials for some time as to federal employes suspected of subversive affiliations."

Marzani was not in custody, a Justice Department official reported tonight. A telephone call to Marzani's home in nearby Arlington, Va., brought the response that he did not wish to make any comment at this time.

Marzani joined the State Department in 1942 as an economic editor in the division of research and analysis. He went on a military status with the Office of Strategic Services in 1943, then returned to civilian status in September 1945.

From then until December 20, 1946, when he was removed, he was deputy chief of the Division of Presentation which prepares charts and such material. This is part of the Office of Intelligence Collection and Dissemination.

Clark said the indictment charges that Marzani:

1. Used the name of "Tony Whales" and "was a member and worker in the said party in New York during the years 1940 and 1941."

2. Spoke at various gatherings in New York urging defeat of the conscription bill by which the United States was seeking to build up its armed forces.

3. Served as a branch organizer for the Communist Party in New York in 1940-41 and helped recruit new members.

4. Instructed party members to sow discontent and resentment among negroes by agitating the question of racial discrimination.

Arnall Sets Up

the legislature is not empowered to elect a governor. The Assembly elected young Talmadge to fill the office to which the fiery Eugene Talmadge, his father, was named in the general election but died 23 days before inauguration.

Arnall, completing a four-year term, said he would resign when M. E. Thompson, first lieutenant governor under the new constitution, "is qualified to exercise the executive powers."

Talmadge reiterated today that the courts had no jurisdiction in the gubernatorial issue.

"The governorship is exclusively the province of the General Assembly," he told newsmen. "If the courts had authority to determine who is governor, they would also have authority to determine who are the members of the General Assembly, and you'd have the judicial trying to run the other two branches of the government."

Determination of whether Arnall or Talmadge holds the state's purse strings may come tomorrow when 28 minor Capitol employes are due wages from the executive department fund. Arnall had their checks drawn but the bank said it would not comment until they are presented.

Camp At Little

C. McCoy, Dunn, N. C., and Capt. Vernon D. Boyd, Arlington, Va.

I brought out to the surface a Tuesday, December 3, 1940, issue of the Daily Oklahoman, Oklahoma City, Okla., with news of Greek victories over Italians.

The paper was still as fresh and white as the day it was printed.

We reached the camp accidentally about noon after a three-mile hike from the Bay of Whales over vast snow icefields which are laborious walking with the ice crust breaking every few steps. Our scouting had been intended only to trace a path for unloading cargo ships getting trucks and all equipment and the tent city up over the ice barrier onto the Ross iceshelf. But our walk seeking a suitable airstrip site led in the direction of Little America was too strong a magnet to resist.

We found only ventilators sticking up four feet from snow whereas once they were six feet above the roofs of the three buildings which are 18 feet high. In places the ridge of the roofs is visible. The top of a snow cruiser was found and Boyd delightedly located an old tractor.

Axis Satellite Peace Treaties Are Completed

Byrnes Is Scheduled To Sign Them Monday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Big Four Foreign Ministers Council reported today that the peace treaties for Italy, Bulgaria, Finland, Hungary and Rumania have been finally completed and are now ready for signing.

Secretary of State Byrnes is scheduled to sign all except the Finnish treaty Monday morning, probably his last official act before turning over the conduct of foreign affairs to his successor, Gen. George C. Marshall.

Plans for Gen. Marshall's arrival here from Hawaii, where he has been resting after 13 months in China, have not yet been announced, but most officials expect that he will come in this weekend and probably be sworn in as Secretary immediately after Byrnes signs the peace treaties.

Byrnes will not sign the Finnish treaty because the United States was not at war with Finland.

After the signing here, the treaties will be forwarded to the other great power capitals with the expectation that British Foreign Minister Bevin will sign in London and Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow. The treaties will then go to Paris where they are to be signed by all the Allied and associated powers (with Ambassador Jefferson Caffery, representing the United States) and by the former enemy states on February 10.

Senate Leaders Set Date For Final Vote

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—A drive by Democratic senators to defeat a year's extension of the Special War Investigating Committee stretched into a second week today with a Republican declaring "they're afraid to vote."

Chairman Brewster (R-Me), of the special committee, laughingly made that accusation to Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) at the end of today's session.

Barkley replied it is not a case of being afraid, but of considerable oratory remaining. He said that after he and Sen. Hatch (D-NM), Pepper (D-Fla.) and some other Democrats speak, he would agree to a vote Monday afternoon.

Agreement Worked Out

However, after objections to trimming the debate that short, an agreement finally was worked out for a final vote at 2 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Wednesday.

The Democrats played a hidden ace as the third day of debate began at noon. Sen. Tydings (D-Md.) offered an amendment to the extension resolution which, if adopted, would turn the investigation of war frauds and excessive war profits over to the standing committee on expenditures in the executive departments.

That committee, headed by Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), includes four first-term Republicans—Sen. Bricker, of Ohio; Thye, of Minnesota; McCarthy, of Wisconsin, and Ives, of New York.

Aiken Is Undecided

Although the prospect may have appealed to them, Brewster told a reporter all four are "adamant" in holding to the general party decision to back Brewster's resolution.

Aiken himself said he had not decided how to vote. He wanted one thing made clear: If he votes for continuation of the special committee it won't be because he thinks his own team couldn't handle the work.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter he did not believe Tydings' maneuver could upset the vote margin his side claims for the Brewster resolution.

Former State Department Worker Accused Of Subversive Activities

the legislature is not empowered to elect a governor. The Assembly elected young Talmadge to fill the office to which the fiery Eugene Talmadge, his father, was named in the general election but died 23 days before inauguration.

Arnall, completing a four-year term, said he would resign when M. E. Thompson, first lieutenant governor under the new constitution, "is qualified to exercise the executive powers."

Talmadge reiterated today that the courts had no jurisdiction in the gubernatorial issue.

"The governorship is exclusively the province of the General Assembly," he told newsmen. "If the courts had authority to determine who is governor, they would also have authority to determine who are the members of the General Assembly, and you'd have the judicial trying to run the other two branches of the government."

Determination of whether Arnall or Talmadge holds the state's purse strings may come tomorrow when 28 minor Capitol employes are due wages from the executive department fund. Arnall had their checks drawn but the bank said it would not comment until they are presented.

Camp At Little

C. McCoy, Dunn, N. C., and Capt. Vernon D. Boyd, Arlington, Va.

I brought out to the surface a Tuesday, December 3, 1940, issue of the Daily Oklahoman, Oklahoma City, Okla., with news of Greek victories over Italians.

The paper was still as fresh and white as the day it was printed.

We reached the camp accidentally about noon after a three-mile hike from the Bay of Whales over vast snow icefields which are laborious walking with the ice crust breaking every few steps. Our scouting had been intended only to trace a path for unloading cargo ships getting trucks and all equipment and the tent city up over the ice barrier onto the Ross iceshelf. But our walk seeking a suitable airstrip site led in the direction of Little America was too strong a magnet to resist.

We found only ventilators sticking up four feet from snow whereas once they were six feet above the roofs of the three buildings which are 18 feet high. In places the ridge of the roofs is visible. The top of a snow cruiser was found and Boyd delightedly located an old tractor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP)—Carl Aldo Marzani, 35, who worked on State Department intelligence for a year, was indicted today on charges of falsely stating he had never been a Communist.

At the same time, the State Department disclosed that intensive loyalty checks are being made on 53 employes who came to the department in 1945 from temporary war agencies.

Attorney General Clark announced the indictment of Marzani by a federal grand jury here. The specific charge is fraud upon the government. Possible penalties run as high as $10,000 fine and 10 years in prison.

"The indictment," said Clark in a statement, "is the result of an intensive inquiry that has been under way by government officials for some time as to federal employes suspected of subversive affiliations."

Marzani was not in custody, a Justice Department official reported tonight. A telephone call to Marzani's home in nearby Arlington, Va., brought the response that he did not wish to make any comment at this time.

Marzani joined the State Department in 1942 as an economic editor in the division of research and analysis. He went on a military status with the Office of Strategic Services in 1943, then returned to civilian status in September 1945.

From then until December 20, 1946, when he was removed, he was deputy chief of the Division of Presentation which prepares charts and such material. This is part of the Office of Intelligence Collection and Dissemination.

Clark said the indictment charges that Marzani:

1. Used the name of "Tony Whales" and "was a member and worker in the said party in New York during the years 1940 and 1941."

2. Spoke at various gatherings in New York urging defeat of the conscription bill by which the United States was seeking to build up its armed forces.

3. Served as a branch organizer for the Communist Party in New York in 1940-41 and helped recruit new members.

4. Instructed party members to sow discontent and resentment among negroes by agitating the question of racial discrimination.

Byrnes Is Scheduled To Sign Them Monday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Big Four Foreign Ministers Council reported today that the peace treaties for Italy, Bulgaria, Finland, Hungary and Rumania have been finally completed and are now ready for signing.

Secretary of State Byrnes is scheduled to sign all except the Finnish treaty Monday morning, probably his last official act before turning over the conduct of foreign affairs to his successor, Gen. George C. Marshall.

Plans for Gen. Marshall's arrival here from Hawaii, where he has been resting after 13 months in China, have not yet been announced, but most officials expect that he will come in this weekend and probably be sworn in as Secretary immediately after Byrnes signs the peace treaties.

Byrnes will not sign the Finnish treaty because the United States was not at war with Finland.

After the signing here, the treaties will be forwarded to the other great power capitals with the expectation that British Foreign Minister Bevin will sign in London and Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow. The treaties will then go to Paris where they are to be signed by all the Allied and associated powers (with Ambassador Jefferson Caffery, representing the United States) and by the former enemy states on February 10.

Halloway Wants Air-Minded Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 17 (AP) — The Navy of the future will be just as air-minded as it is sea-minded, the Naval Academy's new superintendent made plain yesterday, if he has anything to do with it.

The ideas on how to get future officers ready for service were voiced once more by Rear Adm. James L. Holloway, Jr., in his first interview as head of the academy.

The 48-year-old chairman of the "Holloway Board," which framed a policy to train officers for an enlarged peacetime Navy, took command of the academy yesterday. There he will have a direct part in board's program.

the operation of one phase of his

The importance he attaches to air training was shown in his statement that "aviation can no longer be considered a specialty. It is as basic to the training of a naval officer as seamanship and navigation."

"We are going to place our midshipmen in contact with aviation at the very start of their careers. The air will be integrated with their thinking as much as the water."

Emphasis on aviation won't stop at the academy. It is a fundamental part of the three-way reservoir of naval officers set up by the Holloway Board recommendations. Beginning this year, the naval aviation candidate program will train annually a fresh corps of fliers, who will supplement that skill with a well-rounded general college education.

WELCOME SIGN BRINGS WELCOME SHOWERS

The huge sign which a Des Moines, Iowa, department store erected to welcome home the city's war veterans has been put to an even more welcome use—helping provide homes for veterans' families.

The sign was built of about 1,000 square feet of asbestos cement board. When the owners of the store heard that difficulty was being encountered in obtaining materials to complete a veterans' housing project in nearby Fort Des Moines, they offered the asbestos board to W. C. Grandfield, project superintendent.

Grandfield jumped at the opportunity, had the sign removed to the project site and cut it up to make linings for shower stalls like the one to the right. He reports that the sign is doing a very satisfactory job in its new environment. In fact, he says, it is the best thing he has found for the purpose.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Girl Is Advised To Give Her Ideas A Little Overhauling

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Recently I was introduced to a boy who is a gentleman, and whom I like as a friend, but that is all. He asked me to go out with him and two other couples, both of whom I know, and one of whom introduced me to him.

The other day I found out that he isn't of my faith, and now somehow I don't want to go with him. How can I tell him so as not to hurt his feelings? The other couples are of my faith. My mother objects to my going out with him, too.

"WONDERING WHAT TO DO."

I don't know any polite way to tell anyone so intolerant a thing as that you don't want to associate with him because of his faith. If you are so bigoted and prejudiced that you can't enjoy and get a lot out of a friendship with anybody except a person who thinks exactly as you do, then I don't see anything to do but tell this boy so bluntly, and let him know the sort of girl you are. If he thought you felt that way, he'd certainly prefer to know it, and I'm sure that your problem about accepting his invitations would be solved at once. He'd simply never bother you again.

But you are going to make a very narrow and dull thing of your life if you give up every chance to know people who have ideas and ways of doing and thinking that are different from your own. I'd suggest you give your own ideas a little overhauling before you cheat yourself out of a lot of interesting experiences.

These Jealous Boy Friends

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18 years of age, and I have been going steady with a boy of 23. I am very much in love with him, and he also says he is in love with me.

Before I started going with this boy I used to go with a friend of his, and now that I go with him, he is always accusing me of still liking this other boy. Sometimes this older boy talks to me, and my boy friend gets very angry. I don't love this other boy. I only talk to him just to be sociable.

What can I do to make my boy friend believe that I only care for him?

"EIGHTEEN."

If a boy has a jealous nature, "Eighteen," it's very foolish to waste time trying to persuade him that there's no need to be jealous. For he's not going to believe you, no matter what you say or do.

There are only two things you can do with a boy like that. You can handle the whole thing with a light touch, and laugh it off when he acts up, or, if his jealous suspicions get beyond a laughing matter, you can have a showdown with him and tell him he can either stop making issues of your trifles, or you're through with him. And mean it. Generally speaking, you're much better off if you abandon anyone of that type.

Some girls, of course, deliberately try to make their boy friends jealous. They like the feeling of power it gives them. But I'm sure you're not that kind, are you? It's a very mean, and a very dangerous game to play, and rarely gets a girl anything but trouble in the end.

Halloway Wants Air-Minded Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 17 (AP) — The Navy of the future will be just as air-minded as it is sea-minded, the Naval Academy's new superintendent made plain yesterday, if he has anything to do with it.

The ideas on how to get future officers ready for service were voiced once more by Rear Adm. James L. Holloway, Jr., in his first interview as head of the academy.

The 48-year-old chairman of the "Holloway Board," which framed a policy to train officers for an enlarged peacetime Navy, took command of the academy yesterday. There he will have a direct part in board's program.

the operation of one phase of his

The importance he attaches to air training was shown in his statement that "aviation can no longer be considered a specialty. It is as basic to the training of a naval officer as seamanship and navigation."

"We are going to place our midshipmen in contact with aviation at the very start of their careers. The air will be integrated with their thinking as much as the water."

Emphasis on aviation won't stop at the academy. It is a fundamental part of the three-way reservoir of naval officers set up by the Holloway Board recommendations. Beginning this year, the naval aviation candidate program will train annually a fresh corps of fliers, who will supplement that skill with a well-rounded general college education.

WELCOME SIGN BRINGS WELCOME SHOWERS

The huge sign which a Des Moines, Iowa, department store erected to welcome home the city's war veterans has been put to an even more welcome use—helping provide homes for veterans' families.

The sign was built of about 1,000 square feet of asbestos cement board. When the owners of the store heard that difficulty was being encountered in obtaining materials to complete a veterans' housing project in nearby Fort Des Moines, they offered the asbestos board to W. C. Grandfield, project superintendent.

Grandfield jumped at the opportunity, had the sign removed to the project site and cut it up to make linings for shower stalls like the one to the right. He reports that the sign is doing a very satisfactory job in its new environment. In fact, he says, it is the best thing he has found for the purpose.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Girl Is Advised To Give Her Ideas A Little Overhauling

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Recently I was introduced to a boy who is a gentleman, and whom I like as a friend, but that is all. He asked me to go out with him and two other couples, both of whom I know, and one of whom introduced me to him.

The other day I found out that he isn't of my faith, and now somehow I don't want to go with him. How can I tell him so as not to hurt his feelings? The other couples are of my faith. My mother objects to my going out with him, too.

"WONDERING WHAT TO DO."

I don't know any polite way to tell anyone so intolerant a thing as that you don't want to associate with him because of his faith. If you are so bigoted and prejudiced that you can't enjoy and get a lot out of a friendship with anybody except a person who thinks exactly as you do, then I don't see anything to do but tell this boy so bluntly, and let him know the sort of girl you are. If he thought you felt that way, he'd certainly prefer to know it, and I'm sure that your problem about accepting his invitations would be solved at once. He'd simply never bother you again.

But you are going to make a very narrow and dull thing of your life if you give up every chance to know people who have ideas and ways of doing and thinking that are different from your own. I'd suggest you give your own ideas a little overhauling before you cheat yourself out of a lot of interesting experiences.

These Jealous Boy Friends

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18 years of age, and I have been going steady with a boy of 23. I am very much in love with him, and he also says he is in love with me.

Before I started going with this boy I used to go with a friend of his, and now that I go with him, he is always accusing me of still liking this other boy. Sometimes this older boy talks to me, and my boy friend gets very angry. I don't love this other boy. I only talk to him just to be sociable.

What can I do to make my boy friend believe that I only care for him?

"EIGHTEEN."

If a boy has a jealous nature, "Eighteen," it's very foolish to waste time trying to persuade him that there's no need to be jealous. For he's not going to believe you, no matter what you say or do.

There are only two things you can do with a boy like that. You can handle the whole thing with a light touch, and laugh it off when he acts up, or, if his jealous suspicions get beyond a laughing matter, you can have a showdown with him and tell him he can either stop making issues of your trifles, or you're through with him. And mean it. Generally speaking, you're much better off if you abandon anyone of that type.

Some girls, of course, deliberately try to make their boy friends jealous. They like the feeling of power it gives them. But I'm sure you're not that kind, are you? It's a very mean, and a very dangerous game to play, and rarely gets a girl anything but trouble in the end.

FIGHT INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Last summer infantile paralysis struck the nation its hardest blow in 30 years. Some 25,000 new victims were claimed by the disease. Funds from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis' March of Dimes "war chest" in meeting the challenge were drained as never before in the National Foundation's history.

To meet the costs of caring for the stricken of last year's epidemics and of years gone by and to build up a backlog of "ammunition" against this coming summer's outbreaks, the 1947 March of Dimes must receive the support of every American. KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 17—I've read enough mysteries to consider myself pretty hep to the whodunits. But "the big clock" by Kenneth Fearing is way off the beaten path. It's about a man who sets an entire organization to work to catch his very own self, putting him in a position to throw off the important clues—natch.

Constance Bennett

Originally, Para bought it for Alan Ladd as I told you a few months ago, but now a sudden turn of events gives it to Ray Milland.

The reason for the change in cast is because Alan has begged the studio for a story not in the whodunit category and Ray, on the other hand, has asked for a thriller.

John Farrow, who will direct "The Big Clock" is trying his best to get Edward G. Robinson, master bad man, for one of the top roles.

Constance Bennett, who has been in Montgomery, Ala., with her bridegroom, Col. John Coulter, returns to Hollywood January 25, and to the biggest chance she has had in years. She goes to Warners to Michael Curtiz for one of the top roles in "The Unsuspected."

That Bennett gal just keeps rolling along, both off and on the screen. After she finishes at Warners for Mike, she makes her own movie, "Smart Woman."

Connie, by the way, spent a weekend in Palm Beach recently, and in a letter I just received she was called the smartest woman at a very chic dinner dance.

It isn't all woe and travail for Seymour Nebenzal. In spite of having to refilm more than half of "Heaven Only Knows" because of Helen Walker's accident and running afoul of the censors on the same picture—he's still not discouraged with picture producing.

A couple of days ago he bought "The Glass Heart," by Monty Holland, authoress of last year's hit, "Fallen Angel." Nebenzal made the purchase particularly to please Robert Cummings who wants to star in it. It's a murder mystery set in my own home town, Beverly Hills.

Doesn't Miss Holland know no such carryings on go on here?

What a story of stamina and a fighting heart back of Vivian Crosby's return to the writing field. It's certainly worth passing on.

Four years ago, her Beverly Hills home caught fire and Vivian, well known playwright and screen writer, was so terribly burned that she was in St. Vincent's Hospital for over three and a half years.

Recently she was dismissed and pronounced completely recovered and the first thing she did was to take on three screen writing assignments. Good for her. The first is "The Pitchman," Jimmy Dunne's new movie.

The test of Marian Saunders, made in New York for 20th Century-Fox, has everybody gasping. She's one of the most fabulous women in New York City today and has more money to spend on one fur coat than most families live on.

Here's a classic story told about her that when she dropped a $30 handkerchief in a fashionable store, a saleslady went to pick it up for her. Miss Saunders told the girl not to bother, because she had at least 50 more at home.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The Alan Ladd baby is a month overdue, and Sue is getting mighty impatient. . . . Graham White, famous aviator, is expected in Hollywood with his third wife. He was formerly married to Ethel Levy and later to Countess Dorothy Di Frasso. The present Mrs. Graham White was a former Ziegfeld follies girl and a beauty. . . Dorothy Di Frasso, by the way, sails for Italy in March to try and regain possession of her famous castle, the villa Madona. . . . Betsy Beaton is following in the footsteps of her famous father, K. C. B. She has turned author and sold one of her short stories "The Boy With the Red Hair" to RKO. . . . Ann Miller with Phil Reed at a table for two at the Santa Anita Turf Club. They acted as if they had winners—so did pretty Jean Wallace, who was with Franchot Tone. Don Ameche, who loves horse races, was with Honey (Mrs. Ameche) and a party, and I waved at them in passing. . . . Next time I go to Santa Anita, I am not going to listen to so many friendly people with tips. I do better when I shut my eyes and say eenie-meenie-minie on the program. . . . Judith Abbott, daughter of stage producer George Abbott, may try marriage again with Donald Murphy, a New York actor. . . . Joel McCrea is a very smart businessman. He bought 3800 acres of land in Hidden Valley and has now been offered four times what he originally paid for it. . . . Is it a romance between Ramsey Ames and George Morgan, Frank's boy? Ramsey is the house guest of the Morgans at the Rancho Mirage in Palm Springs. . . . It has taken so long to get an actress for "Voice of the Turtle," that John Van Druten has to go back to New York. . . Doris Lilley, who was once John Huston's best girl, is here from New York for a month's trip. Her special attraction on this visit is Mervyn Vye, the actor. . . . Glimpsed at the tropics was Edna Ryan, such a pretty girl and formerly Leo Durocher's heart beat, with test-pilot Johnny Martin. . . . Gene Kelly sprained his ankle and held up production on "To Kiss and to Keep" for a day.

Germans To Wreck Hitler's Shrine To Horst Wessel

AP Newsfeatures

MUNICH, Germany—The Germans are tired of being reminded of Horst Wessel and his 15 comrades shot to death in Hitler's putsch of 1923.

A German council has voted to rip down the giant marble monuments Hitler erected to the memory of his early street fighting bullies. The fact that Hitler once intended the place as his own burial ground was, to say the least, no deterrent.

When Hitler stormed out with his band of followers Nov. 9, 1923, Munichmh police killed Horst Wessel and 15 others. It never was chronicled that one was a waiter who came out to see what was going on, was mowed down, and became a hero by default.

The Nazis wrote a stirring song to Horst Wessel and the others. In 1934, Hitler disinterred the 16 bodies from a Munich cemetery. Each was placed beneath a marble column.

Foreman Pleads Innocent In Slaying Of Miners

WELCH, W. Va., Jan. 17 (AP) — Sam Curry, 38-year-old mine foreman charged with killing two union miners during the soft coal strike last November 21, pleaded innocent at his arraignment on two murder counts yesterday, and his counsel promptly moved to have the case transferred to another county.

Judge G. L. Counts, of the McDowell County Criminal Court, set February 6 to hear arguments on the defense motion for change of venue.

Let 'Em Eat . . . CREPES SUZETTE

CREPES SUZETTE A LA MODE. . . . A treat for a king

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS

Associated Press Food Editor

Did you know that "Crepes Suzettes" were originated for Albert, Prince of Wales—and named for a little girl who was present when the dish was first served?

They sound like the most elegant, difficult-to-make dessert. But they needn't be, if you follow the directions properly. And we've thought up a really American way to serve them, which would doubtless appeal more to little Suzette than did the original dish. This combines the epicurean touch with an all-time favorite food—ice cream.

The following recipe is easy on the hostess, who is also the cook. The crepes can be made an hour or two in advance, then dipped at the last minute in sauce and topped with the ice cream, which, to make things easy, you can buy at the corner store and keep in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator. Here's how to prepare the whole thing:

Suzette a la Mode

1quart vanilla ice cream, bulk	¾ cup flour
3 eggs	¾ cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar	1½ cups hot orange-maraschino sauce
1 teaspoon salt

To make crepes: Beat eggs lightly. Stir in sugar and salt. Add flour and milk alternately and beat thoroughly with rotary beater.

The crepes should be made one at a time. Grease frying pan lightly. When moderately hot (but not smoking) pour in two tablespoons of batter. Tip pan immediately from side to side so that batter spreads into a very thin, even circle about five and a half inches in diameter. Turn pancake quickly and brown other side. Remove to plate and roll up over the tynes of a fork. Place rolled crepes on a platter until ready to serve. Note: regrease pan lightly for each pancake. Makes 12 crepes.

When ready to serve, dip rolled crepes, one at a time, into hot sauce. When completely covered with sauce, transfer to individual dessert plates, allowing two crepes per plate. Top with big scoops of ice cream. Serve, with remaining sauce added at the table.

Orange-maraschino Sauce

⅓ cup sugar	2 tablespoons chopped maraschino cherries
1½ tablespoons cornstarch	2 tablespoons maraschino cherry juice
1½ cups fresh or canned orange juice
¾ cup water

Combine sugar, cornstarch and water. Add to orange juice and boil together until quite syrupy—about five minutes. Remove from heat, stir in chopped cherries and juice. Makes about 1¾ cups sauce.

If sauce is made in advance, which it well may be to save last-minute trouble, reheat just before using.

After three centuries Massachusetts has another Bradford for governor. Seems as though the family just couldn't stay out of politics.

DARE TO BELIEVE IN YOURSELF

Dare to believe in yourself.

Stop picking the old scabs of shame and remorse, inferiority and frustration.

We all have such lapses in our character and in our experience. We all fall below even our lowest standards. But there is no percentage in mulling them over . . . in calling ourselves fools or rogues.

There is no percentage in prolonging any negative side of life, after you have once faced the reality of your weakness and firmly placed it behind you.

Dare to believe in yourself.

Long ago, as a child, you believed that you were different that you were nobler than others thought. Dare to believe that now, for it is true. You are different from others. You are finer than your obvious acts. There is a greater self in you than you have shown to the world.

Dare to believe in that greater self.

Dare to believe that you can be brave as well as weak, honest as well as deceitful, loving and generous as well as hard and selfish.

Dare to believe in yourself for unless you do, no one will believe in you.

Dare to uphold your own self respect if you wish the respect of others.

Dare to pull yourself up by your own bootstraps of faith.

You are not the sum of your acts for your acts may be reflecting only a weakness. But you are the sum of all the greater things you have dared to dream and dared to desire.

"As a man thinketh, so is he."

Everything that you are, everything that you do, everything that you possess is the result of your own or someone else's thought.

If you believe that you are a fool . . . if you continually tell yourself that you are a rascal or a coward, you will be exactly what you think.

If you believe that you can rise to the heights and tower above the valleys of your own dismay and despair, you will rise to those heights.

Your soul has as great a radius as you yourself decide to give it.

If you have lived within the narrow radius of your own pettiness, you will be weak and confused and ignoble until the day you die. But if you let your imagination reach out and reach up to the limitless peaks of human nobility, you will be transformed by that reach.

You can be as big and brave a person as you see yourself in your own vision. Imagination is only a cultivated function of your mind. It is the bond between your mortal frailty and your infinite possibilities of strength.

You can be a spineless man or an upright god—it's up to you.

Do you remember the answer of Joan of Arc when her tormentors told her that her "voices" were only the product of imagination?

"Of course they are," she said. "Imagination is the way God always speaks to man."

Dare to believe in your imagination. Dare to trust your finer dreams.

DARE TO BELIEVE IN YOUR GREATER SELF.

C. And O. Streamliner To Be Unveiled Soon

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 17 (AP) — A 14-year-old locomotive, its brand new chrome, yellow and blue dress covered by a heavy tarpaulin to protect it from the rain, was wheeled out of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway shops here yesterday, preliminary to its unveiling on a date yet to be announced.

The locomotive, the "490" exhibited with fanfare at the Chicago World's Fair in 1933, is the first of five of a series to be completely streamlined to pull five new streamlined trains now a-building, at the Budd Company in Philadelphia.

The conversion of the others, except for one which has already undergone the necessary structural changes, but has yet to receive its new jacket, is proceeding at the Huntington shops where the force proudly declares "490" to be the "best streamliner ever built."

Model Mother Turns Down Honors As "Mrs. America" For Children

AP Newsfeatures

By KEN DAVIS

COLUMBUS, O.—There was a young woman who didn't live in a shoe and she had many children, but she knew just what to do—she turned down a spot as "Mrs. America."

That modern turnabout on an old nursery rhyme brought 24-year-old Mrs. Janis Pollock of Columbus more fan mail and public good will than there are curls in her dark tresses.

More than 1,000 letters from ministers, bricklayers, housewives and chambers of commerce; long distance telephone calls from women wanting tips on how she managed her housework, and oddments of donated cash have come her way since her recent decision not to accept the responsibilities of the title of Mrs. America she won at Jackson, Miss., five days earlier.

She turned down $2,500 in cash, 20-week tour and the title, but much more important to her were the reasons—four little Pollocks. Twenty weeks was too long to be away from Susan, 6; Tommy, 5; Mark, 2, and 10-month-old Bobby.

Yet, the title with which Mrs. Pollock never was officially crowned has made differences at the neat frame home on a quiet Columbus side-street.

Newsmen and women did their best to convert the Pollock home into a fish bowl. Again and again, the young housewife—just a bit bewildered by the rapid skipping of events—told her story: How she won the right to compete in the northern finals of the "Mrs. America" contest at Palisades Park, N. J., through a photo. How she took the northern title Sept. 6, then repeated in the finals at Jackson Nov. 14.

Then, there were the letters, floods of them, more letters than most quiet married couples get in a lifetime. Apparently, everyone but the "Mrs. America" sponsors was happy over her decision.

"The nation needs more women like you," wrote one minister, a sentiment paraphrased by hundreds.

There were the usual sharpies, who tried to climb the Pollock bandwagon for a fast profit.

The lovely Mrs. P. spent the first two weeks after she vacated the title penning replies to 100 or more letters, then gave it up on all those except those requesting answers.

Naturally, the scrapbooks flowered. Stacks of them occupy the top of the family desk.

Things have changed a bit for the Pollocks. Mark Pollock's firm in Santa Ana, Calif., plans to fly the couple to the coast this month and give Mrs. Pollock a week or 10 days of pleasure "to compensate for the adventure she gave up."

Eager to make the trip, Mrs. Pollock is a bit fearful to public reaction. The public has been kind; she wants to merit the kindness.

AP Newsfeatures

MUNICH, Germany—The Germans are tired of being reminded of Horst Wessel and his 15 comrades shot to death in Hitler's putsch of 1923.

A German council has voted to rip down the giant marble monuments Hitler erected to the memory of his early street fighting bullies. The fact that Hitler once intended the place as his own burial ground was, to say the least, no deterrent.

When Hitler stormed out with his band of followers Nov. 9, 1923, Munichmh police killed Horst Wessel and 15 others. It never was chronicled that one was a waiter who came out to see what was going on, was mowed down, and became a hero by default.

The Nazis wrote a stirring song to Horst Wessel and the others. In 1934, Hitler disinterred the 16 bodies from a Munich cemetery. Each was placed beneath a marble column.

Foreman Pleads Innocent In Slaying Of Miners

WELCH, W. Va., Jan. 17 (AP) — Sam Curry, 38-year-old mine foreman charged with killing two union miners during the soft coal strike last November 21, pleaded innocent at his arraignment on two murder counts yesterday, and his counsel promptly moved to have the case transferred to another county.

Judge G. L. Counts, of the McDowell County Criminal Court, set February 6 to hear arguments on the defense motion for change of venue.

Let 'Em Eat . . . CREPES SUZETTE

CREPES SUZETTE A LA MODE. . . . A treat for a king

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Did you know that "Crepes Suzettes" were originated for Albert, Prince of Wales—and named for a little girl who was present when the dish was first served?

They sound like the most elegant, difficult-to-make dessert. But they needn't be, if you follow the directions properly. And we've thought up a really American way to serve them, which would doubtless appeal more to little Suzette than did the original dish. This combines the epicurean touch with an all-time favorite food—ice cream.

The following recipe is easy on the hostess, who is also the cook. The crepes can be made an hour or two in advance, then dipped at the last minute in sauce and topped with the ice cream, which, to make things easy, you can buy at the corner store and keep in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator. Here's how to prepare the whole thing:

Suzette a la Mode

1quart vanilla ice cream, bulk	¾ cup flour
3 eggs	¾ cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar	1¾ cups hot orange-maraschino sauce
1 teaspoon salt

Place ice cream in freezing tray of refrigerator. Keep control at freezing until ready to serve.

To make crepes: Beat eggs lightly. Stir in sugar and salt. Add flour and milk alternately and beat thoroughly with rotary beater.

The crepes should be made one at a time. Grease frying pan lightly. When moderately hot (but not smoking) pour in two tablespoons of batter. Tip pan immediately from side to side so that batter spreads into a very thin, even circle about five and a half inches in diameter. Turn pancake quickly and brown other side. Remove to plate and roll up over the tynes of a fork. Place rolled crepes on a platter until ready to serve. Note: regrease pan lightly for each pancake. Makes 12 crepes.

When ready to serve, dip rolled crepes, one at a time, into hot sauce. When completely covered with sauce, transfer to individual dessert plates, allowing two crepes per plate. Top with big scoops of ice cream. Serve, with remaining sauce added at the table.

Orange-maraschino Sauce

¼ cup sugar	2 tablespoons chopped maraschino cherries
1½ tablespoons cornstarch	2 tablespoons maraschino cherry juice
1½ cups fresh or canned orange juice
¼ cup water

Combine sugar, cornstarch and water. Add to orange juice and boil together until quite syrupy—about five minutes. Remove from heat, stir in chopped cherries and juice. Makes about 1¾ cups sauce.

If sauce is made in advance, which it well may be to save last-minute trouble, reheat just before using.

DARE TO BELIEVE IN YOURSELF

Dare to believe in yourself.

Stop picking the old scabs of shame and remorse, inferiority and frustration.

We all have such lapses in our character and in our experience. We all fall below even our lowest standards. But there is no percentage in mulling them over . . . in calling ourselves fools or rogues.

There is no percentage in prolonging any negative side of life, after you have once faced the reality of your weakness and firmly placed it behind you.

Dare to believe in yourself.

Long ago, as a child, you believed that you were different that you were nobler than others thought. Dare to believe that now, for it is true. You are different from others. You are finer than your obvious acts. There is a greater self in you than you have shown to the world.

Dare to believe in that greater self.

Dare to believe that you can be brave as well as weak, honest as well as deceitful, loving and generous as well as hard and selfish.

Dare to believe in yourself for unless you do, no one will believe in you.

Dare to uphold your own self respect if you wish the respect of others.

Dare to pull yourself up by your own bootstraps of faith.

You are not the sum of your acts for your acts may be reflecting only a weakness. But you are the sum of all the greater things you have dared to dream and dared to desire.

"As a man thinketh, so is he."

Everything that you do, everything that you possess is the result of your own or someone else's thought.

If you believe that you are a fool . . . if you continually tell yourself that you are a rascal or a coward, you will be exactly what you think.

If you believe that you can rise to the heights and tower above the valleys of your own dismay and despair, you will rise to those heights.

Your soul has as great a radius as you yourself decide to give it.

If you have lived within the narrow radius of your own pettiness, you will be weak and confused and ignoble until the day you die. But if you let your imagination reach out and reach up to the limitless peaks of human nobility, you will be transformed by that reach.

You can be as big and brave a person as you see yourself in your own vision. Imagination is only a cultivated function of your mind. It is the bond between your mortal frailty and your infinite possibilities of strength.

You can be a spineless man or an upright god—it's up to you.

Do you remember the answer of Joan of Arc when her tormentors told her that her "voices" were only the product of imagination?

"Of course they are," she said. "Imagination is the way God always speaks to man."

Dare to believe in your imagination. Dare to trust your finer dreams.

DARE TO BELIEVE IN YOUR GREATER SELF.

C. And O. Streamliner To Be Unveiled Soon

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 17 (AP) — A 14-year-old locomotive, its brand new chrome, yellow and blue dress covered by a heavy tarpaulin to protect it from the rain, was wheeled out of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway shops here yesterday, preliminary to its unveiling on a date yet to be announced.

The locomotive, the "490" exhibited with fanfare at the Chicago World's Fair in 1933, is the first of five of a series to be completely streamlined to pull five new streamlined trains now a-building, at the Budd Company in Philadelphia.

The conversion of the others, except for one which has already undergone the necessary structural changes, but has yet to receive its new jacket, is proceeding at the Huntington shops where the force proudly declares "490" to be the "best streamliner ever built."

Model Mother Turns Down Honors As "Mrs. America" For Children

AP Newsfeatures
By KEN DAVIS

COLUMBUS, O.—There was a young woman who didn't live in a shoe and she had many children, but she knew just what to do—she turned down a spot as "Mrs. America."

That modern turnabout on an old nursery rhyme brought 24-year-old Mrs. Janis Pollock of Columbus more fan mail and public good will than there are curls in her dark tresses.

More than 1,000 letters from ministers, bricklayers, housewives and chambers of commerce; long distance telephone calls from women wanting tips on how she managed her housework, and oddments of donated cash have come her way since her recent decision not to accept the responsibilities of the title of Mrs. America she won at Jackson, Miss., five days earlier.

She turned down $2,500 in cash, 20-week tour and the title, but much more important to her were the reasons—four little Pollocks. Twenty weeks was too long to be away from Susan, 6; Tommy, 5; Mark, 2, and 10-month-old Bobby.

Yet, the title with which Mrs. Pollock never was officially crowned has made differences at the neat frame home on a quiet Columbus side-street.

Newsmen and women did their best to convert the Pollock home into a fish bowl. Again and again, the young housewife—just a bit bewildered by the rapid skipping of events—told her story: How she won the right to compete in the northern finals of the "Mrs. America" contest at Palisades Park, N. J., through a photo. How she took the northern title Sept. 6, then repeated in the finals at Jackson Nov. 14.

Then, there were the letters, floods of them, more letters than most quiet married couples get in a lifetime. Apparently, everyone but the "Mrs. America" sponsors was happy over her decision.

"The nation needs more women like you," wrote one minister, a sentiment paraphrased by hundreds.

There were the usual sharpies, who tried to climb the Pollock bandwagon for a fast profit.

The lovely Mrs. P. spent the first two weeks after she vacated the title penning replies to 100 or more letters, then gave it up on all those except those requesting answers.

Naturally, the scrapbooks flowered. Stacks of them occupy the top of the family desk.

Things have changed a bit for the Pollocks. Mark Pollock's firm in Santa Ana, Calif., plans to fly the couple to the coast this month and give Mrs. Pollock a week or 10 days of pleasure "to compensate for the adventure she gave up."

Eager to make the trip, Mrs. Pollock is a bit fearful to public reaction. The public has been kind; she wants to merit the kindness.

County Prisoners To Enter Pleas In Court Today

Criminal Trials Set For Monday Morning

Thirteen of the 30 prisoners now confined in county jail will be arraigned in Allegany County Circuit Court this morning, according to Sheriff Edward R. Muir. The 13 were indicted by the January term grand jury. This is the largest number to be arraigned for several terms, as in past years most travers-ers were at liberty under bond.

After pleas are taken before Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson the prisoners will be returned to jail unless they are sentenced by the court at once or released under bond, the Sheriff's office attaches said. With the crowded condition at the jail, the Sheriff and his deputies said, "we will be glad to get rid of some of them if it is possible."

Criminal trials are set for Monday. The grand jury returned a total of 32 criminal indictments earlier this month.

Judges handed down a decision yesterday in a damage claim heard before the court Thursday. The verdict was in favor of the defendant, who had been sued for $285.88, resulting from a traffic mishap August 6 in Frostburg.

The case was brought by Ralph Ravenscraft, owner of the 1936 Chevrolet driven by his son, Ralph Ravenscraft, Jr., 18, who said he ran into a parked car owned by Foster Clark when two approaching cars drove him far to the right on the street while he was traveling west.

Car Causes Dispute

An equity action involving an automobile bought by a couple who have since separated was filed by Mrs. Helen Layman against Lewis Layman. The wife, represented by Edward J. Ryan, said the car was bought for $1,100 and the title carries both their names. Since they separated, she says, Layman continues to drive the car and she "is afraid he will damage it or otherwise destroy my interest in the vehicle."

Chief Judge Huster ordered Layman to show cause before February 10 why a receiver should not be appointed to sell the car and divide the proceeds between the estranged couple.

Mrs. Mildred Hughes Kacurovsky, 22, of 112 Oak street, has been granted an absolute divorce from Richard Kacurovshy, said to reside in Pittsburgh, in a decree signed by Chief Judge Huster. The wife, represented by Harold E. Naughton, was also awarded the custody of their minor daughter.

Decree Granted

Mrs. Louise K. Everline was granted an absolute divorce from Chester J. Eveline, by Judge Huster, and also given the right to resume her maiden name, Louise Zorn.

Mrs. Regina M. Foreman, represented by Walter C. Capper, has filed suit for divorce from Raymond J. Foreman.

Attorneys announced that a damage action filed by Julia M. Melius against Daniel F. McMullen as trustee, and the F. W. Woolworth Company, has been removed to Hagerstown. The case had been scheduled for trial here this week.

Estel C. Kelley is counsel for the woman, who alleges she was injured when a section of the eaves on the Baltimore street building rented by the Woolworth company fell on her. Defense attorneys are William S. Jenkins, Capper and William R. Carscaden.

Strand Theatre Gets New Manager

The appointment of William L. Sade, Huntington, Long Island, N. Y., as manager of the Strand theatre and promotion of Reynold Wallach, to supervisor of Schine's interest in Cumberland was announced last night.

Wallach, who has been managing the Strand and overseeing the Liberty theatre, will act as supervisor of both houses, with Sade taking over the managership of the Strand.

Sade, before entering the theater business, served with the Price News Agency, Gloversville, N. Y., first as a leg man and then as a European reporter, serving foreign language newspapers in this country.

He entered the United States Army in 1941 and served until April of last year. After being discharged, Sade, was selected by the Schine Theatres to take a 16 week course in theatre management, and was assigned to the Cumberland theatre recently.

County Board

was not represented at a session of the State Roads Commission and officials from various counties, last week in Baltimore, said "the Allegany county board was not invited to the meeting, and we would have had representatives there if the board had been asked by the commission."

The conference was devoted to a discussion of road improvements in Maryland, and commission members announced that the state commission would retain most of the controls on projects receiving financial aid from the federal government.

Clerk Instructed To Impound Ballots

Governor W. Preston Lane, Jr., has instructed Robert Jackson, clerk of the Allegany County Circuit Court, to impound all ballots and other material in last November's election, until further notice, because of the controversy over the seating of former Governor Herbert R. O'Conor as a member of the U. S. Senate.

The unsuccessful candidate, D. John Markey, Frederick Republican, has filed a protest with the Senate, and a committee is now investigating. The vote in Allegany and four other counties in the contest was close.

Clerk Jackson said yesterday that all election ballots and other material is held for six months, as a matter of custom, before being destroyed.

Broadwater Held For Grand Jury In Attack Case

Signs Confession, Denies Being Nude

Admitting he assaulted a married woman with intent to commit criminal assault, John Albert Broadwater, 24, Loartown, yesterday waived a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrates Court and was ordered held for action of the grand jury, with no bond being fixed.

County authorities said Broadwater signed a statement admitting that he tusseled with Mrs. Minnie Thomas, about 35, wife of Paddy Thomas, Hoffman, but denied that he was in the nude at the time of the alleged attack.

Hid Behind Bush

Mrs. Thomas told authorities that Broadwater accosted her along the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad right of way between Hoffman and Eckhart Thursday morning about 10:30 o'clock. She declared Broadwater was nude and jumped from behind a bush as she passed, authorities declared.

Several complaints were received yesterday that Broadwater has molested other girls in the section, authorities declared, and the reports are being investigated.

Trooper Harry Holsinger and Charles Seifarth, communications officer at the LaVale sub-station, arrested Broadwater near Loartown Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas, wife of a former middleweight boxer in this section, was taking a short cut by way of the C. and P. tracks from her home to Filsinger's store in Eckhart, when the alleged attack occurred, police stated.

She said she observed a man walking ahead of her in the same direction on the other side of the tracks, but that after a train passed the man had disappeared from view.

Mrs. Thomas, according to police, said Broadwater jumped from behind the bush, and tried to force her to the ground, but she fought him off and ran. Broadwater, according to authorities, overtook her several times, but Mrs. Thomas was able to fight him off each time.

Is Identified

Broadwater denied the charges when first arrested, but confessed after he was identified by Mrs. Thomas as "That's the man," police said.

The State's Attorney's office said, Broadwater, who is at present on parole of the Circuit Court, having been found guilty of manslaughter in the death of Glenn Merrbaugh, 16, Moscow, September 15, 1945, will be held on the attack charge rather than for a violation of his parole since it is a more serious charge.

Keyser-McCoole Span Will Start

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 17—B. D. Johnson, regional engineer of the State Roads Commission, has announced that construction of a bridge to connect Keyser and McCoole, spanning the Potomac river, is scheduled to begin this year.

Johnson said the span, to cost more than $1,000,000, is "programmed" this year—meaning it is planned to begin work in 1947.

The bridge project will be undertaken by West Virginia and Maryland, aided by the federal government. When contracts will be awarded was not indicated, however.

Johnson said the bridge will be about 2,200 feet in length, with about 1,400 feet in West Virginia, and beginning on Mineral street, near Center street. It will have a 28-foot roadway and two four-foot sidewalks, with a continuous high level structure from Mineral street to the Maryland side, the roadway at Heskitt street and Maple avenue being about 40 feet above the elevation of the streets. A stairway is proposed at Maple avenue for pedestrians.

It is proposed to widen Center street from Mineral to Davis street to a 36-foot width between curbs, and to widen Mineral street between Center and Armstrong streets, to provide for two-way traffic, all at considerable costs for rights-of-way.

Arbitration Hearing Is Completed Here

An arbitration hearing on a dispute involving women workers in the uptwist an downtwist departments at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America was completed early last night at the county court house.

The seniority of workers and their transfer from one department to another, prior to and during World War II, was the principal topic in the dispute, it was reported.

Several scores of employes of the plant attended the hearing which opened yesterday about 10 a. m. before Sidney A. Wolff, New York arbitrator. Herbert W. Payne, assistant director of the TWUA rayon division, represented the TWUA.

Junior, who has a tremendous yen for fireworks, now hopes to grow up to be an Army engineer so he can touch off some of those V-2 rockets.

Piedmont Man Draws $100 Fine In Multiple Crash

License Is Revoked; Companion Fined

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 17 — Wilmer Mack Roberts, Piedmont, was fined $100 and his driver's license was revoked when he pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving at a hearing this afternoon before Magistrate A. A. Jordan in City Police Court.

Roberts and Gilbert T. Warnick, Westernport, were arrested at 11:10 p. m. yesterday when the 1937 Dodge sedan Roberts was driving hit a truck and five parked automobiles on Main street here, police said. Warnick, who was riding with Roberts, was fined $10 on a charge of drunkenness.

Officers Lawrence McDonald and Edgell Rotruck, who arrested the pair, said the sedan crashed into a Horlacker Highway Express truck; the 1946 Buick sedan of Leonard Hamilton; the 1946 Oldsmobile sedan owned by Edgar A. Leatherman, Jr.; William H. Wamsley's 1935 Oldsmobile sedan; Gladstone Allamong's 1946 Ford sedan, and W. J. Schwinabart's 1938 Plymouth sedan, all of which were damaged to some extent.

Police said Hamilton's machine was so badly damaged that it could not be removed until today, and estimated that damage was in excess of $300. No estimate was made of damage to the other machines, including the car Roberts was driving.

Garment Plant To Open

Hiring of employes for the new factory of the Perfection Garment Company, to be located in the Knights of Pythias Armory building on Mineral and Piedmont streets, will begin within the next 10 days, according to J. R. Poland, Martinsburg, president.

Poland said the factory can employ up to 150 persons, 95 per cent of whom will be women. He explained that it will take a few days to train new employes before actual operation can begin. Production is expected to start before the end of January.

The armory building was leased some time ago by Poland for five years from Olive Branch Lodge, Knights of Pythias. It has been remodeled for the installation of sewing machines and other equipment for making women's house dresses. Poland has been in Keyser this week to supervise the work.

Poland was born near Keyser and lived in Mineral county during the early part of his life. He spent his boyhood in Burlington and operated a store in Elk Garden for several years.

Starting the Perfection Garment Company in Martinsburg, he has become successful in the business of making women's dresses. He also operates a plant in Charles Town, and has been engaged in the industry 42 years.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Bomboy, Keyser, in Potomac Valley Hospital.

Others admitted to the hospital are Mrs. Thelma Slocum, Mrs. Mae Haggerty, Mrs. Mary Steadman, Mrs. Dorris Nutter and William H. City Heads Are Seeking Removal Of Canal Bridge

Mayor Thomas S. Post and Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, conferred yesterday regarding a second effort being made by the city to secure permission from the Department of Interior to replace the bridge over the Chesapeake and Ohio canal at Wiley Ford with concrete conduits.

In 1944 an attempt was made to get permission to lower the bridge, which is about ten feet higher than the approaches and creates a bad traffic hazard, Rizer said. Irving C. Root, superintendent of the National Park Service, said at that time that permission could not be granted because it would be necessary to have the bridge at its present grade if the canal is restored and operated.

Rizer said he plans to explain in another letter to Root that traffic over the bridge to the Cumberland Municipal Airport is increasingly heavy. Lowering of the bridge or replacing it with conduits would not change conditions at the spot in time of flood, the engineer said. He explained that the approaches to the bridge are often flooded during periods of high water, making the bridge unusable, and that this condition would prevail if the bridge was lowered or removed.

Cars Ransacked

Two automobiles parked on South Cumberland streets were ransacked last night and a radio taken from one while the thief took a supply of groceries from another, police said.

The one theft occurred on Virginia avenue, where a car was parked and a radio taken, while the grocery theft occurred on Blaul avenue.

Utah Army Private Praises Red Cross

A young Army private from Ogden, Utah, who received a Christmas package from Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross on Christmas Day while aboard a troopship en route to Japan, was so pleased with the gift that he wrote a letter of thanks immediately, according to Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary.

"I wish to thank you for helping to make my first Christmas away from home enjoyable," Pvt. Donald K. Edens wrote. "I am a private in the tank corps, en route to Japan. Yesterday, quite a few of us had poor prospects of enjoying Christmas, but after chow, all the fellows aboard were presented with gifts by a Santa Claus, who was the chaplain."

The letter continues, "Attached to a miniature Christmas tree in my package was a card, 'American Red Cross, Cumberland, Maryland.' Believe me, your gift certainly brightened Christmas up for me, and everyone aboard was pleased and thankful. I guess there is a Santa Claus after all."

Mrs. Witherup said that the county chapter received an emergency call in December from area headquarters in Alexandria, Va., asking that packages be sent to San Francisco, Calif., in the "Christmas on the High Seas" program to provide gifts for servicemen aboard ship.

Mrs. A. H. Amick, chairman of the camp and hospital council for the chapter, assisted by Mrs. Jack Wetzel, co-chairman, and Mrs. Nat Guggenheimer, wrapped 50 packages containing cigarets, playing cards, hard candy, a portfolio of stationery, a game of checkers, dominoes or chess, shaving cream and small paper-backed books.

The gifts were sent to San Francisco and distributed to outgoing troopships in time for Christmas Day.

Measure To Halt Stream Pollution Is Introduced

A bill, which if passed, would make it "unlawful for any person to discharge or permit to be discharged into any of the waters of this state any waste or polluting substance of kind as defined for the purpose of this sub-title that will be injurious to the public health or destroy fish or aquatic life," has been introduced into the Maryland House of Delegates.

A person is defined to include "any municipality, industry, public or private corporation, co-partnership, firm or any other entity whatsoever."

The bill apparently means that Cumberland and other communities would be prohibited from dumping waste into the Potomac river and other streams. Likewise steps would have to be taken to prevent the dumping of industrial waste including water from mines into state streams.

Violators would be subject to a fine $500 or 90 days imprisonment, or both.

The bill also provides for the appointment of a Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission of nine members. Members would serve without compensation.

The commission would be authorized to "encourage voluntary cooperation x x x in restoring, preserving and maintaining the purity of the waters of the state"; would coordinate and stimulate activities of other agencies; to supplement and expand technical data; to recommend standards for sewage, and to conduct hearings for accused violators.

Persons "who shall discharge or permit to be discharged any waste or polluting substances into any of the waters of the state which will be injurious to public health or against the public welfare, destroy fish or other aquatic life, or render such waters unsuitable for domestic, commercial, industrial, agricultural or recreational purposes shall be deemed to violate the provisions of this sub-title," the bill reads.

The executive secretary of the Maryland Committee on Water Pollution may be appointed commission secretary under the merit system.

County Prisoners To Enter Pleas In Court Today

Criminal Trials Set For Monday Morning

Thirteen of the 30 prisoners now confined in county jail will be arraigned in Allegany County Circuit Court this morning, according to Sheriff Edward R. Muir. The 13 were indicted by the January term grand jury. This is the largest number to be arraigned for several terms, as in past years most traversers were at liberty under bond.

After pleas are taken before Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson the prisoners will be returned to jail unless they are sentenced by the court at once or released under bond, the Sheriff's office attaches said. With the crowded condition at the jail, the Sheriff and his deputies said, "we will be glad to get rid of some of them if it is possible."

Criminal trials are set for Monday. The grand jury returned a total of 32 criminal indictments earlier this month.

Judges handed down a decision yesterday in a damage claim heard before the court Thursday. The verdict was in favor of the defendant, who had been sued for $285.88, resulting from a traffic mishap August 6 in Frostburg.

The case was brought by Ralph Ravenscraft, owner of the 1936 Chevrolet driven by his son, Ralph Ravenscraft, Jr., 18, who said he ran into a parked car owned by Foster Clark when two approaching cars drove him far to the right on the street while he was traveling west.

Car Causes Dispute

An equity action involving an automobile bought by a couple who have since separated was filed by Mrs. Helen Layman against Lewis Layman. The wife, represented by Edward J. Ryan, said the car was bought for $1,100 and the title carries both their names. Since they separated, she says, Layman continues to drive the car and she "is afraid he will damage it or otherwise destroy my interest in the vehicle."

Chief Judge Huster ordered Layman to show cause before February 10 why a receiver should not be appointed to sell the car and divide the proceeds between the estranged couple.

Mrs. Mildred Hughes Kacurovsky, 22, of 112 Oak street, has been granted an absolute divorce from Richard Kacurovshy, said to reside in Pittsburgh, in a decree signed by Chief Judge Huster. The wife, represented by Harold E. Naughton, was also awarded the custody of their minor daughter.

Decree Granted

Mrs. Louise K. Everline was granted an absolute divorce from Chester J. Eveline, by Judge Huster, and also given the right to resume her maiden name, Louise Zorn.

Mrs. Regina M. Foreman, represented by Walter C. Capper, has filed suit for divorce from Raymond J. Foreman.

Attorneys announced that a damage action filed by Julia M. Melius against Daniel F. McMullen as trustee, and the F. W. Woolworth Company, has been removed to Hagerstown. The case had been scheduled for trial here this week.

Estel C. Kelley is counsel for the woman, who alleges she was injured when a section of the eaves on the Baltimore street building rented by the Woolworth company fell on her. Defense attorneys are William S. Jenkins, Capper and William R. Carscaden.

Strand Theatre Gets New Manager

The appointment of William L. Sade, Huntington, Long Island, N. Y., as manager of the Strand theatre and promotion of Reynold Wallach, to supervisor of Schine's interest in Cumberland was announced last night.

Wallach, who has been managing the Strand and overseeing the Liberty theatre, will act as supervisor of both houses, with Sade taking over the managership of the Strand.

Sade, before entering the theater business, served with the Price News Agency, Gloversville, N. Y., first as a leg man and then as a European reporter, serving foreign language newspapers in this country.

He entered the United States Army in 1941 and served until April of last year. After being discharged, Sade, was selected by the Schine Theatres to take a 16 week course in theatre management, and was assigned to the Cumberland theatre recently.

County Board

was not represented at a session of the State Roads Commission and officials from various counties, last week in Baltimore, said "the Allegany county board was not invited to the meeting, and we would have had representatives there if the board had been asked by the commission."

The conference was devoted to a discussion of road improvements in Maryland, and commission members announced that the state commission would retain most of the controls on projects receiving financial aid from the federal government.

Clerk Instructed To Impound Ballots

Governor W. Preston Lane, Jr., has instructed Robert Jackson, clerk of the Allegany County Circuit Court, to impound all ballots and other material in last November's election, until further notice, because of the controversy over the seating of former Governor Herbert R. O'Conor as a member of the U. S. Senate.

The unsuccessful candidate, D. John Markey, Frederick Republican, has filed a protest with the Senate, and a committee is now investigating. The vote in Allegany and four other counties in the contest was close.

Clerk Jackson said yesterday that all election ballots and other material is held for six months, as a matter of custom, before being destroyed.

Broadwater Held For Grand Jury In Attack Case

Signs Confession, Denies Being Nude

Admitting he assaulted a married woman with intent to commit criminal assault, John Albert Broadwater, 24, Loartown, yesterday waived a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrates Court and was ordered held for action of the grand jury, with no bond being fixed.

County authorities said Broadwater signed a statement admitting that he tusseled with Mrs. Minnie Thomas, about 35, wife of Paddy Thomas, Hoffman, but denied that he was in the nude at the time of the alleged attack.

Hid Behind Bush

Mrs. Thomas told authorities that Broadwater accosted her along the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad right of way between Hoffman and Eckhart Thursday morning about 10:30 o'clock. She declared Broadwater was nude and jumped from behind a bush as she passed, authorities declared.

Several complaints were received yesterday that Broadwater has molested other girls in the section, authorities declared, and the reports are being investigated.

Trooper Harry Holsinger and Charles Seifarth, communications officer at the LaVale sub-station, arrested Broadwater near Loartown Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas, wife of a former middleweight boxer in this section, was taking a short cut by way of the C. and P. tracks from her home to Filsinger's store in Eckhart, when the alleged attack occurred, police stated.

She said she observed a man walking ahead of her in the same direction on the other side of the tracks, but that after a train passed the man had disappeared from view.

Mrs. Thomas, according to police, said Broadwater jumped from behind the bush, and tried to force her to the ground, but she fought him off and ran. Broadwater, according to authorities, overtook her several times, but Mrs. Thomas was able to fight him off each time.

Is Identified

Broadwater denied the charges when first arrested, but confessed after he was identified by Mrs. Thomas as "That's the man," police said.

The State's Attorney's office said, Broadwater, who is at present on parole of the Circuit Court, having been found guilty of manslaughter in the death of Glenn Merrbaugh, 16, Moscow, September 15, 1945, will be held on the attack charge rather than for a violation of his parole since it is a more serious charge.

Keyser-McCoole Span Will Start

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 17—B. D. Johnson, regional engineer of the State Roads Commission, has announced that construction of a bridge to connect Keyser and McCoole, spanning the Potomac river, is scheduled to begin this year.

Johnson said the span, to cost more than $1,000,000, is "programmed" this year—meaning it is planned to begin work in 1947.

The bridge project will be undertaken by West Virginia and Maryland, aided by the federal government. When contracts will be awarded was not indicated, however.

Johnson said the bridge will be about 2,200 feet in length, with about 1,400 feet in West Virginia, and beginning on Mineral street, near Center street. It will have a 28-foot roadway and two four-foot sidewalks, with a continuous high level structure from Mineral street to the Maryland side, the roadway at Heskitt street and Maple avenue being about 40 feet above the elevation of the streets. A stairway is proposed at Maple avenue for pedestrians.

It is proposed to widen Center street from Mineral to Davis street to a 36-foot width between curbs, and to widen Mineral street between Center and Armstrong streets, to provide for two-way traffic, all at considerable costs for rights-of-way.

Arbitration Hearing Is Completed Here

An arbitration hearing on a dispute involving women workers in the uptwist an downtwist departments at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America was completed early last night at the county court house.

The seniority of workers and their transfer from one department to another, prior to and during World War II, was the principal topic in the dispute, it was reported.

Several scores of employes of the plant attended the hearing which opened yesterday about 10 a. m. before Sidney A. Wolff, New York arbitrator. Herbert W. Payne, assistant director of the TWUA rayon division, represented the TWUA.

Junior, who has a tremendous yen for fireworks, now hopes to grow up to be an Army engineer so he can touch off some of those V-2 rockets.

Piedmont Man Draws $100 Fine In Multiple Crash

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 17 — Wilmer Mack Roberts, Piedmont, was fined $100 and his driver's license was revoked when he pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving at a hearing this afternoon before Magistrate A. A. Jordan in City Police Court.

Roberts and Gilbert T. Warnick, Westernport, were arrested at 11:10 p. m. yesterday when the 1937 Dodge sedan Roberts was driving hit a truck and five parked automobiles on Main street here, police said. Warnick, who was riding with Roberts, was fined $10 on a charge of drunkenness.

Officers Lawrence McDonald and Edgell Rotruck, who arrested the pair, said the sedan crashed into a Horlacker Highway Express truck; the 1946 Buick sedan of Leonard Hamilton; the 1946 Oldsmobile sedan owned by Edgar A. Leatherman, Jr.; William H. Wamsley's 1935 Oldsmobile sedan; Gladstone Allamong's 1946 Ford sedan, and W. J. Schwinabart's 1938 Plymouth sedan, all of which were damaged to some extent.

Police said Hamilton's machine was so badly damaged that it could not be removed until today, and estimated that damage was in excess of $300. No estimate was made of damage to the other machines, including the car Roberts was driving.

Garment Plant To Open

Hiring of employes for the new factory of the Perfection Garment Company, to be located in the Knights of Pythias Armory building on Mineral and Piedmont streets, will begin within the next 10 days, according to J. R. Poland, Martinsburg, president.

Poland said the factory can employ up to 150 persons, 95 per cent of whom will be women. He explained that it will take a few days to train new employes before actual operation can begin. Production is expected to start before the end of January.

The armory building was leased some time ago by Poland for five years from Olive Branch Lodge, Knights of Pythias. It has been remodeled for the installation of sewing machines and other equipment for making women's house dresses. Poland has been in Keyser this week to supervise the work.

Poland was born near Keyser and lived in Mineral county during the early part of his life. He spent his boyhood in Burlington and operated a store in Elk Garden for several years.

Starting the Perfection Garment Company in Martinsburg, he has become successful in the business of making women's dresses. He also operates a plant in Charles Town, and has been engaged in the industry 42 years.

City Heads Are Seeking Removal Of Canal Bridge

Mayor Thomas S. Post and Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, conferred yesterday regarding a second effort being made by the city to secure permission from the Department of Interior to replace the bridge over the Chesapeake and Ohio canal at Wiley Ford with concrete conduits.

In 1944 an attempt was made to get permission to lower the bridge, which is about ten feet higher than the approaches and creates a bad traffic hazard, Rizer said. Irving C. Root, superintendent of the National Park Service, said at that time that permission could not be granted because it would be necessary to have the bridge at its present grade if the canal is restored and operated.

Rizer said he plans to explain in another letter to Root that traffic over the bridge to the Cumberland Municipal Airport is increasingly heavy. Lowering of the bridge or replacing it with conduits would not change conditions at the spot in time of flood, the engineer said. He explained that the approaches to the bridge are often flooded during periods of high water, making the bridge unusable, and that this condition would prevail if the bridge was lowered or removed.

Two automobiles parked on South Cumberland streets were ransacked last night and a radio taken from one while the thief took a supply of groceries from another, police said.

Utah Army Private Praises Red Cross

A young Army private from Ogden, Utah, who received a Christmas package from Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross on Christmas Day while aboard a troopship en route to Japan, was so pleased with the gift that he wrote a letter of thanks immediately, according to Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary.

"I wish to thank you for helping to make my first Christmas away from home enjoyable," Pvt. Donald K. Edens wrote. "I am a private in the tank corps, en route to Japan. Yesterday, quite a few of us had poor prospects of enjoying Christmas, but after chow, all the fellows aboard were presented with gifts by a Santa Claus, who was the chaplain."

The letter continues, "Attached to a miniature Christmas tree in my package was a card, 'American Red Cross, Cumberland, Maryland.' Believe me, your gift certainly brightened Christmas up for me, and everyone aboard was pleased and thankful. I guess there is a Santa Claus after all."

Mrs. Witherup said that the county chapter received an emergency call in December from area headquarters in Alexandria, Va., asking that packages be sent to San Francisco, Calif., in the "Christmas on the High Seas" program to provide gifts for servicemen aboard ship.

Mrs. A. H. Amick, chairman of the camp and hospital council for the chapter, assisted by Mrs. Jack Wetzel, co-chairman, and Mrs. Nat Guggenheimer, wrapped 50 packages containing cigarets, playing cards, hard candy, a portfolio of stationery, a game of checkers, dominoes or chess, shaving cream and small paperbacked books.

The gifts were sent to San Francisco and distributed to outgoing troopships in time for Christmas Day.

Measure To Halt Stream Pollution Is Introduced

A bill, which if passed, would make it "unlawful for any person to discharge or permit to be discharged into any of the waters of this state any waste or polluting substance of kind as defined for the purpose of this sub-title that will be injurious to the public health or destroy fish or aquatic life," has been introduced into the Maryland House of Delegates.

A person is defined to include "any municipality, industry, public or private corporation, co-partnership, firm or any other entity whatsoever."

The bill apparently means that Cumberland and other communities would be prohibited from dumping waste into the Potomac river and other streams. Likewise steps would have to be taken to prevent the dumping of industrial waste including water from mines into state streams.

Violators would be subject to a fine $500 or 90 days imprisonment, or both.

The bill also provides for the appointment of a Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission of nine members. Members would serve without compensation.

The commission would be authorized to "encourage voluntary cooperation x x x in restoring, preserving and maintaining the purity of the waters of the state"; would coordinate and stimulate activities of other agencies; to supplement and expand technical data; to recommend standards for sewage, and to conduct hearings for accused violators.

Persons "who shall discharge or permit to be discharged any waste or polluting substances into any of the waters of the state which will be injurious to public health or against the public welfare, destroy fish or other aquatic life, or render such waters unsuitable for domestic, commercial, industrial, agricultural or recreational purposes shall be deemed to violate the provisions of this sub-title," the bill reads.

The executive secretary of the Maryland Committee on Water Pollution may be appointed commission secretary under the merit system.

Superhighway Is Urged By Snyder

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP) — A Republican representative from West Virginia is taking over championship of a superhighway long advocated in Congress by a Mountain State Democrat.

Rep. Snyder (R-W. Va.) said he re-introduced the bill at the instance of interested parties, but has little hope for passage of the measure former Rep. Randolph, Democrat, offered at previous sessions.

The bill would authorize the Transcontinental Streamlined Highway Corporation of the United States to prepare plans for a superhighway system and to issue bonds amounting to $12,000,000,000.

The system outlined in the bill calls for highways on 450-foot rights-of-way from Boston to San Francisco; two from the Great Lakes region and New York to Florida; one from the Canadian border in Minnesota to Laredo, Texas; one from Jacksonville to San Diego, and one from San Diego to Vancouver island.

Snyder said such a system "is something to be looking forward to."

"It may be debatable if this is the proper approach, but we are going to have to look to a larger and better highway system," he added. "Such a system undeniably would have military value."

Superhighway Is Urged By Snyder

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP) — A Republican representative from West Virginia is taking over championship of a superhighway long advocated in Congress by a Mountain State Democrat.

Rep. Snyder (R-W. Va.) said he re-introduced the bill at the instance of interested parties, but has little hope for passage of the measure former Rep. Randolph, Democrat, offered at previous sessions.

The bill would authorize the Transcontinental Streamlined Highway Corporation of the United States to prepare plans for a superhighway system and to issue bonds amounting to $12,000,000,000.

The system outlined in the bill calls for highways on 450-foot rights-of-way from Boston to San Francisco; two from the Great Lakes region and New York to Florida; one from the Canadian border in Minnesota to Laredo, Texas; one from Jacksonville to San Diego, and one from San Diego to Vancouver island.

Snyder said such a system "is something to be looking forward to."

"It may be debatable if this is the proper approach, but we are going to have to look to a larger and better highway system," he added. "Such a system undeniably would have military value."

Go to Church this Sunday . . . your Church . . . any Church . . . but go!

FOUNDATIONS!

Most have to go down if you want to go up! That sounds like foolishness, but it isn't.

If you plan to build a garage, you don't need to dig very much before you lay the foundation. But if you plan to rival a modern skyscraper, you must start deep below the earth's surface.

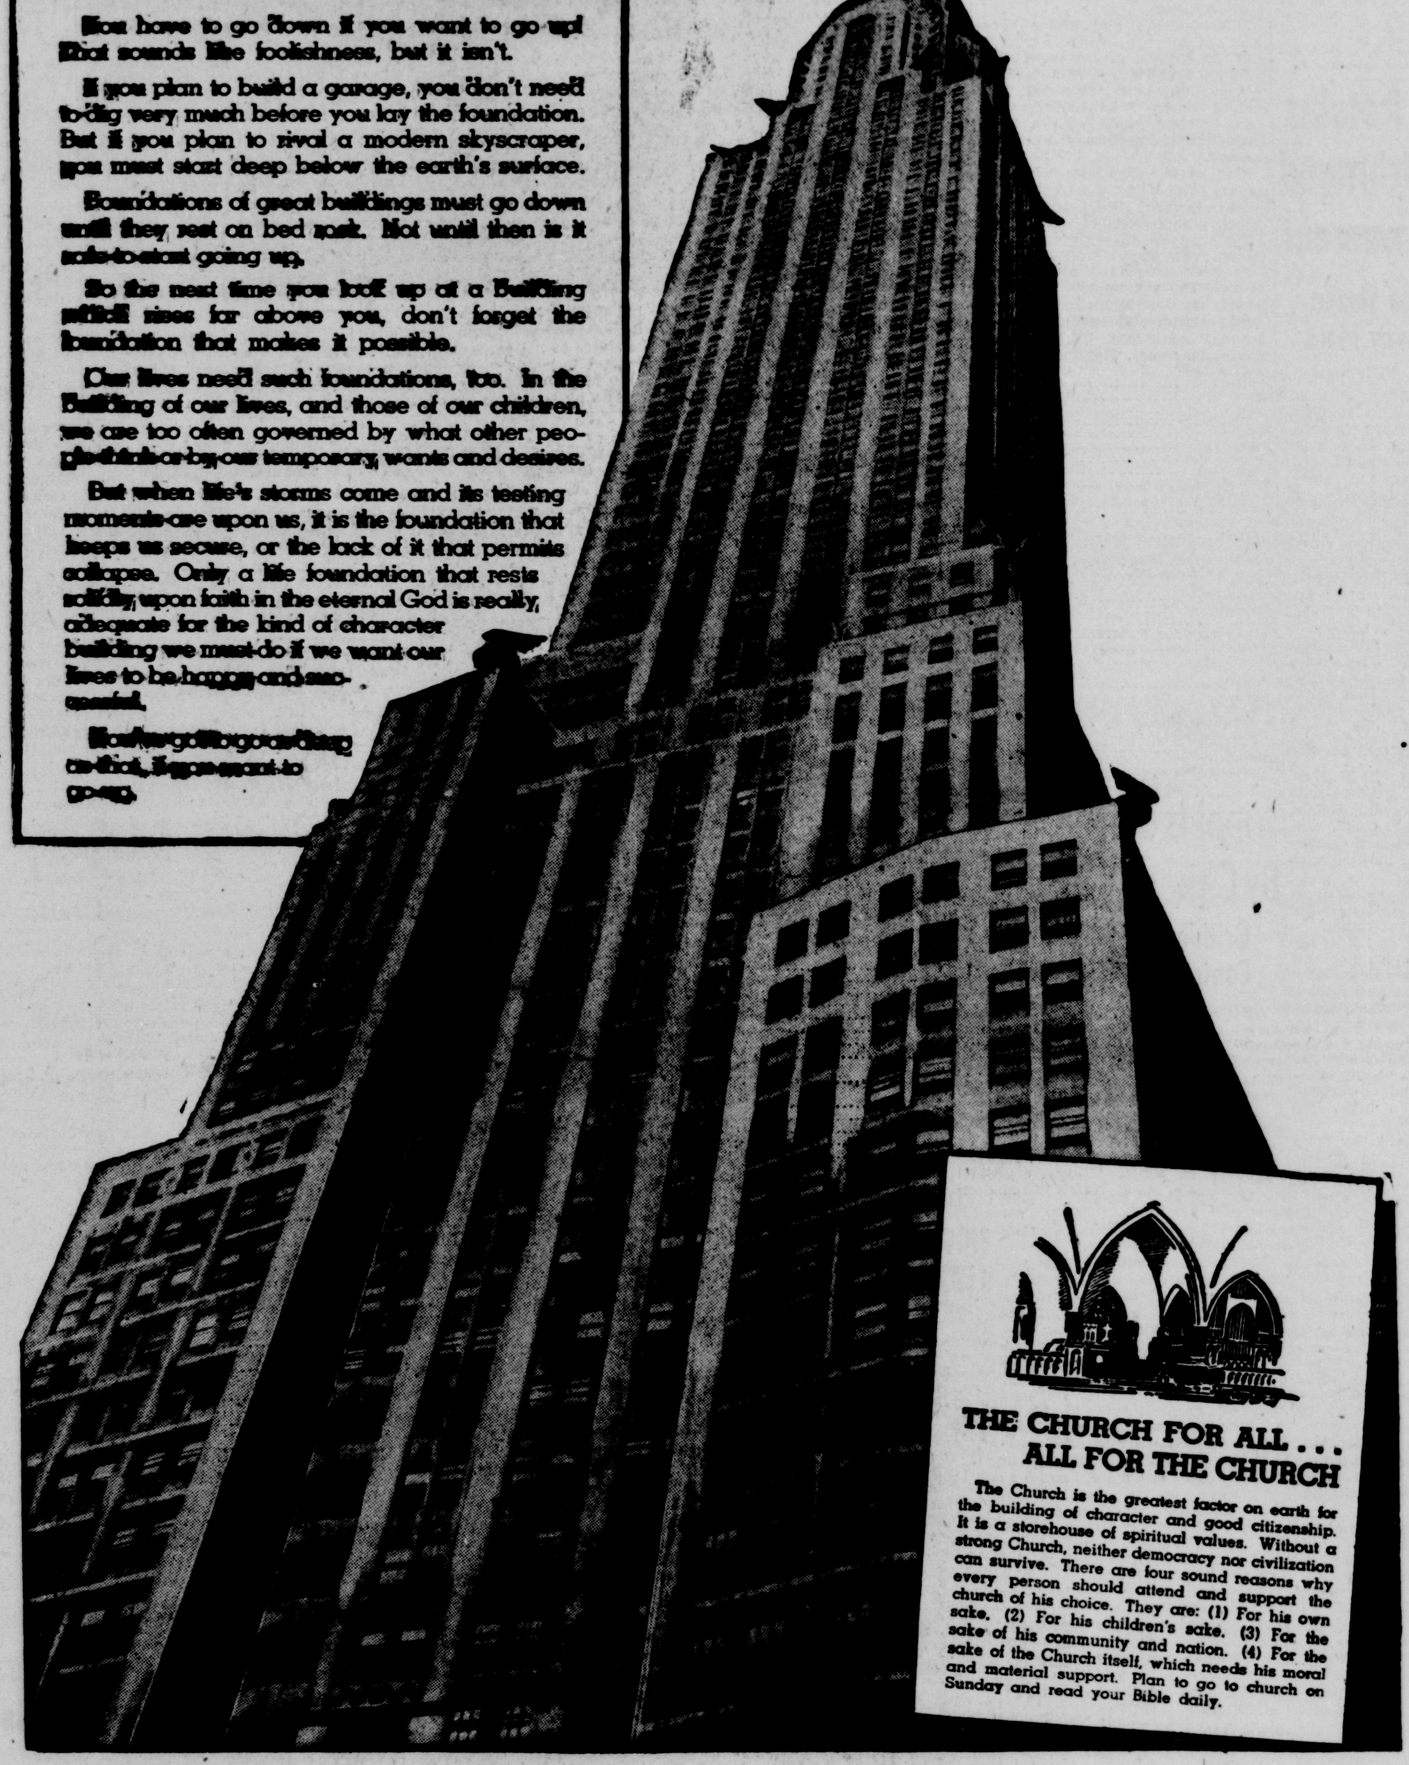
Foundations of great buildings must go down until they rest on bed rock. Not until then is it safe to start going up.

So the next time you look up at a building which rises far above you, don't forget the foundation that makes it possible.

Our lives need such foundations, too. In the building of our lives, and those of our children, we are too often governed by what other people think or by our temporary wants and desires.

But when life's storms come and its testing moments are upon us, it is the foundation that keeps us secure, or the lack of it that permits collapse. Only a life foundation that rests solidly upon faith in the eternal God is really adequate for the kind of character building we must do if we want our lives to be happy and successful.

Now we go! Go on doing as that, if you want to go up.



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

Ridgeley, Fort Hill And Allegany Win Games

Blackhawks Stage Second Half Rally To Beat LaSalle

Abe's Baskets Turn Tide In 26-23 Game

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

A jam-packed crowd of approximately 600 screaming fans saw Coach Jesse Riggleman's Ridgeley High Blackhawks rally magnificently in the final half to edge a scrappy and courageous LaSalle High team 26-23 last night on the Ridgeley court.

The Black and White staved off an impending upset that threatened to topple them out of the undefeated class as they came from behind twice in the final minutes of the thrill-packed game to chalk up their fifth consecutive victory this season.

Using their superior height to great advantage the Explorers controlled the rebounds and the ball throughout most of three periods, held the Blackhawks to one lone field goal in the first two quarters and twice had commanding six point leads in the fast, hard-fought contest.

Alfred Abe Turns Tide

Little Alfred Abe held to one point at the charity line in first half, took command and rang the bell for four sensational fielders in the third and fourth quarters to lead his teammates from the brink of disaster to a well-earned and deserved victory.

Neither team was able to penetrate the tight defense thrown at them in the initial canto after Joe Moss opened hostilities with a set shot seconds after the opening whistle—this goal incidentally the only one scored by Ridgeley in the first half—and Jimmy Collins tied it up with a long heave a minute later. Jim Flanagan and Michael Arnone, starting at a guard position for the Explorers for the first time this year, traded fouls to keep the score knotted at 3-3 as the quarter ended.

LaSalle Leads 10-3

Holding the Rigglemen scoreless from the field in the second period, LaSalle built up a seven-point lead, the biggest advantage held by either team in the game, at 10-3 before Abe hooped a foul to break the ice for Ridgeley seconds before the halftime whistle sounded. Charity tosses by Jack Stotler and Bob Snyder, Bobby Vanderhout's tip-in of a rebound and a long heave by Collins gave the visitors their advantage. Abe's foul made it 10-4, LaSalle at the half.

Big Joe Moss, husky pivot man for the Blackhawks opened the second half with a marker from the 15-foot line. Abe's first fielder for the evening from the corner made it 10-7, Explorers.

Snyder and Flanagan connected with long shots and Comer came through with his only two-pointer, a sensational one-hander from the corner, to bring Ridgeley within one point at 12-11 with 1:20 to go in this period. Both outfits battled desparately for possession of the oval, passes going awry and the defenses tightening, in the final moments of the period and the score remained unchanged at quartertime.

Ridgeley Takes Lead

Bill Brehaney's one-hander from outside the foul circle put Ridgeley ahead for the first time since Moss's goal in the opening seconds of the game. "Moon" Stotler quickly grabbed the advantage again for the Blue and Gold when he stole the ball from a Ridgeley player and dribbled half the length of the floor for a lay-up. Fouled on the shot, Stotler converted at the free-throw line and Vanderhout sent a rebound through the cords moments later to make it 17-13 LaSalle, with 4:30 to go.

Abe's goal and a charity shot by Flanagan again drew the Blackhawks within one counter of the visitors. Stotler and Karl Muller gave the Explorers a five-point working margin at 21-16 with 3:20 remaining. Abe tipped in a rebound, Moss, fouled under the hoop, cooley converted twice at the charity stripe, and then tossed in a pivot shot to put Ridgeley ahead again at 22-21 and the winners were never headed thereafter. Abe and Flanagan dropped twin-pointers through in the final seconds to put the game out of reach of the Explorers. Muller made two fouls just before the final gun to end the scoring.

Vanderhout Defensive Star

Alfred Abe topped the scorers with nine counters, closely followed by Teammate Joe Moss and Jack Stotler, of the Explorers, each with seven. Bobby Vanderhout was a standout on the defense for LaSalle, breaking up several rallies and using his height to great advantage under the hoops. Bill Brehaney and Jim Flanagan were the best floormen for the victors. The lineups:

Mikan Is Sued

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP)—George Mikan, former De Paul University basketball star who is attempting to break his current contract with the American Gears professional team, today was named in a $100,000 damage suit accusing him of violating the contract.

The complaint, filed by Commercial Sports Advertisers, Inc., owners of the Gears of the National Basketball League, was a counter-claim in answer to Mikan's original suit to break his contract. The owners also filed an answer to Mikan's complaint, denying that the contract, signed March 14, 1946, is unilateral in their favor.

Mangrum Retains Edge In Richmond Open Tournament

Leads By One Stroke At The Halfway Mark

RICHMOND, Calif., Jan. 17. (AP)—Staving off all challenges with another blistering sub-par performance, U. S. Open Champion Lloyd Mangrum shot a 131 today to hold his lead at the halfway mark of the 72 hole $10,000 Richmond Open Golf Tournament.

Lloyd Mangrum

The slender Chicago stylist toured the par 71 Richmond layout in 67, three strokes over his course-record-tying score in the first round. It was sufficient to enable him to maintain the pace in one of the wildest below-par scrambles any tournament ever witnessed.

Mangrum tacked up a 35-32. Hard on his heels was a comparatively unknown young professional, George Schoux of San Bruno, Calif., who charged in with his second successive 66 to hold second position with 132.

Tied for third place at 133 as the field was cut to 60 (plus ties) for the last two rounds were Beltin' Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and smiling Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Texas.

Demaret, playing excellent golf that saw him hitting the greens and ramming down putts, whipped par with 34-32. Hogan, leading money winner in 1946 and co-favorite with Mangrum to win here, had nines of 35-32.

Bill Fritz, an assistant pro from Colma, Calif., was well up with a 69 and two-day total of 134, while veteran Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Sanford, Me., and long hitting Chick Harbeck of Farmington, Mich., shared a tie at 135. Harbert was one of the day's 66-shooters.

COALTON IS EIGHTH VICTIM FOR THOMAS

THOMAS, W. Va., Jan. 17—Coach Emil Suder's high-powered Thomas High School basketball aggregation banged the hoops for 23 field goals tonight and easily registered its eighth victory of the season over the passers of Coalton High School. The score was 57-18. Thomas has lost only one game this season.

"Sonny" Totedo and Johnny Gennantonio were the "big guns" for Thomas with 12 and 10 markers while Eddie Sedmock and Joe Ballasone gathered eight points each. The winners hooped 11 out of 18 foul shots.

Trippi Is Signed By Chicago Cards

Gridder Gets 4-Year Contract At $100,000

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP) — All-America Charley Trippi of Georgia today signed an unprecedented $100,000, four-year contract with the Chicago Cardinals, climaxing the greatest professional football player buildup since Illinois' famed Red Grange joined the Chicago Bears two decades ago.

The Cardinal club, perennially a local grid wall-flower as the powerful Chicago Bears danced to prestige and big gate receipts, displayed Trippi to the press and radio in an elaborate reception.

The quiet-mannered Georgia pigskin peach—by way of Pittston, Pa.—ran a gauntlet of photographers and interviewers from the railroad station upon his arrival from New York to the Blackstone Hotel, where at 10:45 a. m. (CST) he dramatically applied a fountain pen to his prodigious meal-ticket for the next four years.

Owner Charles Bidwill and Coach Jimmy Conzelman, who solicitously chaperoned Trippi—ever since he starred in the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans on New Year's Day—right past the outstretched arms of the All-America Conference's New York Yankees, described the event as a "red letter day" in the National Football League.

The two officials declined to elaborate on Trippi's estimate he would be paid "nearly $100,000" for four Cardinal seasons, which the star halfback preferred instead of the Yankees' offer of $105,000 to play five years of football and two baseball seasons.

FORT ASHBY TAKES PAW PAW, 48 TO 35

Wetzel and Linn with 14 and 11 points headed the winners' offensive while Neil Taylor racked up 20 points for Paw Paw, including nine field goals.

Fort Ashby led at the quarters, 16-11, 31-21 and 37-26.

Paced by Miss Wagoner, who scored 20 points, Fort Ashby's girls defeated Paw Paw's sextet in the preliminary game, 26-17. Miss Harrell scored nine points for the home team. Lineups:

Terps Trip VPI

BLACKSBURG, Va., Jan. 17—(AP)—Maryland racked up its second win of its current Virginia invasion by defeating Virginia Tech, 57-49, in a rapidly-played Southern Conference engagement here tonight before a crowd estimated at more than 3,000.

Tommy Mont with four fielders and four out of seven free throws and Brown with five two-pointers and two foul goals in seven tries paced the Maryland attack with 12 points each.

OWNER WALKS HORSE—John Partridge, a horse owner, walks "Whats New," a Greentree Stable horse from the stable to the paddock at Hialeah Park yesterday during a strike of grooms and exercise boys. Horsemen and jockeys were doubling in brass, the former doing the work of any absent grooms and the rides filling in for exercise boys who took off. About 20 of the latter who were not working had their badges taken up by Hialeah's director of safety.

Bedford Scores Over Southmont

Bisons Hoop 14 Of 19 Foul Shots, Win 34-29

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 17—Bedford High School emerged victorious in a rough and tumble game with Southmont High School tonight, 34 to 29. It was the eighth victory against two defeats for Coach Bruce M. Fisher's Bisons.

Blackhawks Stage Second Half Rally To Beat LaSalle

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

A jam-packed crowd of approximately 600 screaming fans saw Coach Jesse Riggleman's Ridgeley High Blackhawks rally magnificently in the final half to edge a scrappy and courageous LaSalle High team 26-23 last night on the Ridgeley court.

The Black and White staved off an impending upset that threatened to topple them out of the undefeated class as they came from behind twice in the final minutes of the thrill-packed game to chalk up their fifth consecutive victory this season.

Using their superior height to great advantage the Explorers controlled the rebounds and the ball throughout most of three periods, held the Blackhawks to one lone field goal in the first two quarters and twice had commanding six point leads in the fast, hard-fought contest.

Alfred Abe Turns Tide

Little Alfred Abe held to one point at the charity line in first half, took command and rang the bell for four sensational fielders in the third and fourth quarters to lead his teammates from the brink of disaster to a well-earned and deserved victory.

Neither team was able to penetrate the tight defense thrown at them in the initial canto after Joe Moss opened hostilities with a set shot seconds after the opening whistle—this goal incidentally the only one scored by Ridgeley in the first half—and Jimmy Collins tied it up with a long heave a minute later. Jim Flanagan and Michael Arnone, starting at a guard position for the Explorers for the first time this year, traded fouls to keep the score knotted at 3-3 as the quarter ended.

LaSalle Leads 10-3

Holding the Riggiemen scoreless from the field in the second period, LaSalle built up a seven-point lead, the biggest advantage held by either team in the game, at 10-3 before Abe hooped a foul to break the ice for Ridgeley seconds before the halftime whistle sounded. Charity tosses by Jack Stotler and Bob Snyder, Bobby Vanderhout's tip-in of a rebound and a long heave by Collins gave the visitors their advantage. Abe's foul made it 10-4, LaSalle at the half.

Big Joe Moss, husky pivot man for the Blackhawks opened the second half with a marker from the 15-foot line. Abe's first fielder for the evening from the corner made it 10-7, Explorers.

Snyder and Flanagan connected with long shots and Comer came through with his only two-pointer, a sensational one-hander from the corner, to bring Ridgeley within one point at 12-11 with 1:20 to go in this period. Both outfits battled desparately for possession of the oval, passes going awry and the defenses tightening, in the final moments of the period and the score remained unchanged at quartertime.

Ridgeley Takes Lead

Bill Brehaney's one-hander from outside the foul circle put Ridgeley ahead for the first time since Moss's goal in the opening seconds of the game. "Moon" Stotler quickly grabbed the advantage again for the Blue and Gold when he stole the ball from a Ridgeley player and dribbled half the length of the floor for a lay-up. Fouled on the shot, Stotler converted at the free-throw line and Vanderhout sent a rebound through the cords moments later to make it 17-13 LaSalle, with 4:30 to go.

Abe's goal and a charity shot by Flanagan again drew the Blackhawks within one counter of the visitors. Stotler and Karl Muller gave the Explorers a five-point working margin at 21-16 with 3:20 remaining. Abe tipped in a rebound, Moss, fouled under the hoop, cooley converted twice at the charity stripe, and then tossed in a pivot shot to put Ridgeley ahead again at 22-21 and the winners were never headed thereafter. Abe and Flanagan dropped twin-pointers through in the final seconds to put the game out of reach of the Explorers. Muller made two fouls just before the final gun to end the scoring.

Vanderhout Defensive Star

Alfred Abe topped the scorers with nine counters, closely followed by Teammate Joe Moss and Jack Stotler, of the Explorers, each with seven. Bobby Vanderhout was a standout on the defense for LaSalle, breaking up several rallies and using his height to great advantage under the hoops. Bill Brehaney and Jim Flanagan were the best floormen for the victors. The lineups:

Mikan Is Sued

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP)—George Mikan, former De Paul University basketball star who is attempting to break his current contract with the American Gears professional team, today was named in a $100,000 damage suit accusing him of violating the contract.

The complaint, filed by Commercial Sports Advertisers, Inc., owners of the Gears of the National Basketball League, was a counter-claim in answer to Mikan's original suit to break his contract. The owners also filed an answer to Mikan's complaint, denying that the contract, signed March 14, 1946, is unilateral in their favor.

Mangrum Retains Edge In Richmond Open Tournament

Leads By One Stroke At The Halfway Mark

Lloyd Mangrum

The slender Chicago stylist toured the par 71 Richmond layout in 67, three strokes over his course-record-tying score in the first round. It was sufficient to enable him to maintain the pace in one of the wildest below-par scrambles any tournament ever witnessed.

Tied for third place at 133 as the field was cut to 60 (plus ties) for the last two rounds were Beltin' Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and smiling Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Texas.

Demaret, playing excellent golf that saw him hitting the greens and ramming down putts, whipped par with 34-32. Hogan, leading money winner in 1946 and co-favorite with Mangrum to win here, had nines of 35-32.

Bill Fritz, an assistant pro from Colma, Calif., was well up with a 69 and two-day total of 134, while veteran Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Sanford, Me., and long hitting Chick Harbeck of Farmington, Mich., shared a tie at 135. Harbert was one of the day's 66-shooters.

"Sonny" Totedo and Johnny Gennantonio were the "big guns" for Thomas with 12 and 10 markers while Eddie Sedmock and Joe Ballasone gathered eight points each. The winners hooped 11 out of 18 foul shots.

Trippi Is Signed By Chicago Cards

Gridder Gets 4-Year Contract At $100,000

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP) — All-America Charley Trippi of Georgia today signed an unprecedented $100,000, four-year contract with the Chicago Cardinals, climaxing the greatest professional football player buildup since Illinois' famed Red Grange joined the Chicago Bears two decades ago.

The Cardinal club, perennially a local grid wall-flower as the powerful Chicago Bears danced to prestige and big gate receipts, displayed Trippi to the press and radio in an elaborate reception.

The quiet-mannered Georgia pigskin peach—by way of Pittston, Pa.—ran a gauntlet of photographers and interviewers from the railroad station upon his arrival from New York to the Blackstone Hotel, where at 10:45 a. m. (CST) he dramatically applied a fountain pen to his prodigious meal-ticket for the next four years.

Owner Charles Bidwill and Coach Jimmy Conzelman, who solicitously chaperoned Trippi—ever since he starred in the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans on New Year's Day—right past the outstretched arms of the All-America Conference's New York Yankees, described the event as a "red letter day" in the National Football League.

The two officials declined to elaborate on Trippi's estimate he would be paid "nearly $100,000" for four Cardinal seasons, which the star halfback preferred instead of the Yankees' offer of $105,000 to play five years of football and two baseball seasons.

Maryland Seeks Tatum As Football Coach

Oklahoma Head Coach Will Make Decision Today

May Replace Eppley, Athletic Director

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 17 (AP)—Jim Tatum, who produced a successful team in his first year as head football coach at the University of Oklahoma, tonight was weighing a coaching offer from the University of Maryland.

Tatum told reporters he was weighing a decision and commented, "I didn't think it took this long to resign."

He refused, however, to make any official statement of his plans.

Issue Statement Today

Dr. George Cross, university president, emerged from an all-day meeting of the board of regents to announce that no statement would be issued until after an athletic council meeting at 1 p. m. (CST) tomorrow.

At College Park, authoritative sources confirmed that the university had been "dickering" with Tatum, and that if he came to Maryland as football coach, he would also be named director of athletics.

The present director, Col. Geary Eppley, also is dean of men and director of student welfare, and he indicated he would welcome a new head of athletics.

Byrd Must Name Coach

Under Southern Conference rules, the president of the university must name a football coach. Dr. H. C. Byrd, Maryland president, was not available for comment tonight.

Maryland has been in the market for a coach since Clark Shaughnessy resigned after a mediocre 1946 season in which the Old Liners lost six and won three. In announcing acceptance of Shaughnessy's resignation early this month, Dr. Byrd praised Shaughnessy as a great coach and said his decision to resign was not prompted by the losing campaign, "either from his (Shaughnessy's) or the university's viewpoint."

Shaughnessy said in a statement accompanying the resignation that Maryland wanted its football coach to be athletic director and wanted him to sever his post as advisory coach to the Washington Redskins in the National Professional Football League and devote his full time to the Old Liners.

The Sportlight by GRANTLAND RICE

The Eagle and the Lion

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 17 — No matter how you may figure it all out, the two top international rivals in sport are the United States and Great Britain. They remain the two great sporting nations of what we call the world today.

In all fairness it must be admitted that England and Scotland are outnumbered by United States about 3 to 1, so the odds should belong our way. But without England and Scotland there would be no international competition. Not with Russia, not with France, Italy, China, Japan, Germany or Belgium. It could be different with Sweden and Finland in distance races.

The point is that the British Isles leave the U. S. their only competition at this date. By that I mean that England and Scotland can supply their share of trouble in golf — including the Walker Cup matches next May. They may win this test if the winds come up and the rains arrive.

In Dai Rees they have one of the best golf professionals I have seen. Rees would be an even bet against Hogan or Nelson on any British course. If the Ryder Cup matches were played over a seaside British links, the odds would be even. That's how good he is. It is certainly no part of a push-over that the U. S., with the strong team now picked, can get by with the next Walker Cup matches. The British have an even chance over their own terrain.

The U. S. has tennis tied up. Jack Kramer will dominate any field he faces, and the lean Californian has more than his share of support.

In the ring game, where the British have lately been a joke with the lone exception of Tommy Farr, Bruce Woodcock now shapes up as being as good a challenger for the Louis crown as the U. S. has. This is no particular boost, since there is no heavyweight challenger left at present, who even belongs on the same planet with Louis. But an improved Woodcock would have an even chance against anyone else.

The British Racing Threat

There are a number of British horses stabled now at Santa Anita, who should win more than a few races over here before they are winging home again. Possibly the best of these is Radiotherapy, a beautifully built son of Hyperion out of Belleva. Radiotherapy is a big rangy chestnut standing over 16 hands high. He has speed, and trainers around the track believe he can handle distance.

It took $100,000 to lift this thoroughbred from British ownership. Another English horse is Charley Howard's Fast and Fair. This big brown son of the St. Leger winner, Fairway, is even larger than Radiotherapy. He was good enough to win the English Derby.

Among the younger stock flown over we have Lolimi, Hermarco, Law Fair and Peace Law. Peace Law is at Miami, running for Stephen Sanford. He has been fast enough to win four starts and there is no doubting his speed.

Another interesting fact connected with Santa Anita is the expected arrival of leading Eastern, Southern and Midwestern owners who are coming on to see just how Doctor Charles Strub and staff run things in their famous racing bailiwick.

Werren Wright of Calumet has been on hand for two weeks. So has Ben Lindheimer from Chicago. Those expected later include George Widener, from Belmont, Walter Donvan from Garden State, Jack Kelly from Atlantic City, plus a number of other racing heads well known to the game.

They really work at running a track out here. Dr. Strub and his associates are on the job from 7 a. m. on through the day. They check avery possible detail concerning track conditions and public comfort. Parking arrangements are so arranged that thousands of cars can enter and leave the parking space with little waste of time. The parking space can handle 35,000 cars.

With some sort of a slump over the racing map apparent for 1947, Santa Anita is setting new weekly records, both in attendances and mutuel play. The average attendance for the first two weeks was around 41,000, where riding competition has been so keen that Eddie Arcaro was on the point of leaving for Florida unless given better mounts.

Johnny Longden has been the mop-up rider so far. The 37 or 38-year-old veteran is at his best, far in front of all others up to date.

PITTSBURGH PIRATES WILL BE AMVETS' 16TH FOE IN SUNDAY GAME

Cumberland's Amvets will engage in their sixteenth game of the season tomorrow when they play hosts to the East Pittsburgh Pirates on SS. Peter and Paul court at 9 p. m.

It will be the fourth game of the series between the teams which are slated to tangle in Pittsburgh on Saturday night.

Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's passers have bagged their last five games and now have a season's record of six wins and eight losses. Pittsburgh holds two decisions over the locals, one being a 56-55 thriller staged here and decided in the closing seconds of play on a foul goal.

In tomorrow night's preliminary game, Moose quints of Romney and Cumberland will clash at 8 o'clock.

Maryland Grid Team To Play Delaware

NEWARK, Del., Jan. 17 (AP)—The University of Delaware football team, which owns a victory string of 25 straight games, will play an eight-game schedule next season opening on Sept. 27 against Penn Military College in a night contest at Wilmington.

Six of Delaware's foes were on the 1946 schedule, while the University of Maryland and Washington and Lee are newcomers.

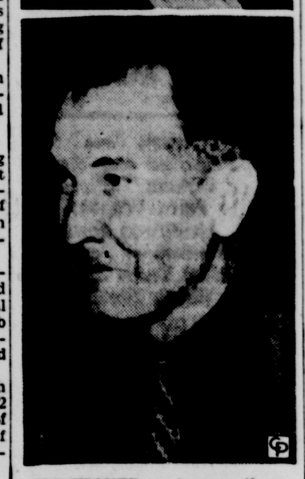
The clash with Maryland which will be played at College Park on Oct. 4, will be the first between the schools in more than two decades. Washington and Lee, however, has never appeared on Delaware's schedule previously.

The schedule: Sept. 27, P. M. C., at Wilmington (night); Oct. 4, at University of Maryland; 11, at Bucknell; 18, permanently open; 25, Gettysburg; Nov. 1, Franklin and Marshall; 8, Western Maryland; 15, at Muhlenberg; 22, Washington and Lee at Wilmington.

Trophies Are Saved

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 17—(AP)—Most of Syracuse University's sports trophies have been salvaged "in good condition" from the ruins of Archbold Gymnasium, Athletic Director Lew Andreas reported today.

The trophies, athletic records and valuable pictures of former Syracuse teams were in the gymnasium when it was destroyed by fire Sunday. Cause of the blaze still was undetermined.



MENTIONED — Among those mentioned for the post as commissioner of the All-America Football Conference are Don Miller (top), one of the "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame and now district attorney in Cleveland, and Warren Brown (below), well known Chicago sports editor. The post will be vacated following the resignation of "Sleepy" Jimmy Crowley, who takes over as coach of the Chicago Rockets in which club he has purchased controlling interest.

St. John's Lutheran, the third unbeaten quint, in the 16-club circuit, faces a worthy foe in First Methodist, which has copped four out of five, in the sixth contest on today's card at 5:35 o'clock.

1 p. m., First Presbyterian vs. St. Luke's Lutheran.

1:55 p. m., Central Methodist vs. Zion Reformed.

Maryland Returns To Mounties' Grid Schedule In 1947

College Park Scene Of Game On Nov. 1

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 17 (AP) — The addition of three more games to West Virginia University's 1947 football schedule was announced today by Athletic Director Roy M. Hawley to bring to eight the number of contests scheduled so far.

Hawley said the Mountaineers would meet Virginia at Morgantown on November 15, New York University away on October 18 and Maryland at College Park, Md., on November 1.

Earlier this week, Hawley announced home games with Kentucky November 8 and Temple November 22. The inclusion of Virginia, he said, will give the Mountaineers three major attractions at home in succession.

Others on the schedule are Washington and Lee at Charleston October 4, Penn State at State College, Pa., on October 25 and Pitt at Pittsburgh November 29.

Hawley said he hoped to round out a 10-game schedule by filling September 27 and October 11 dates.

New York University is a new grid opponent, although Mountaineer teams have tangled with the Violets in basketball. Maryland returns to the schedule after a year's absence. The Old Liners and the Mountaineers battled to a thrilling 13-13 tie here in 1945 after they had tied 6-6 at College Park a year earlier.

Virginia has appeared in Morgantown only twice before—in the first game of the series between the schools in 1898 and in 1922. West Virginia has won three of the seven games played between the two elevens.

Oklahoma Head Coach Will Make Decision Today

May Replace Eppley, Athletic Director

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 17 (AP)—Jim Tatum, who produced a successful team in his first year as head football coach at the University of Oklahoma, tonight was weighing a coaching offer from the University of Maryland.

Tatum told reporters he was weighing a decision and commented, "I didn't think it took this long to resign."

He refused, however, to make any official statement of his plans.

An official announcement on Tatum's status here was delayed until tomorrow.

Issue Statement Today

Dr. George Cross, university president, emerged from an all-day meeting of the board of regents to announce that no statement would be issued until after an athletic council meeting at 1 p. m. (CST) tomorrow.

The prolonged meeting gave rise to reports that Tatum might remain here and replace L. E. (Jap) Haskell as athletic director.

Tatum issued a written statement in answer to this, saying:

"I made no demands concerning the athletic directorship. Jap Haskell is my friend would never consider staying at the university unless Jap Haskell was athletic director."

At College Park, authoritative sources confirmed that the university had been "dickering" with Tatum, and that if he came to Maryland as football coach, he would also be named director of athletics.

The present director, Col. Geary Eppley, also is dean of men and director of student welfare, and he indicated he would welcome a new head of athletics.

A university official said it would be "wise" for newspapermen to be at the university's athletic office about 2 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Byrd Must Name Coach

Under Southern Conference rules, the president of the university must name a football coach. Dr. H. C. Byrd, Maryland president, was not available for comment tonight.

Maryland has been in the market for a coach since Clark Shaughnessy resigned after a mediocre 1946 season in which the Old Liners lost six and won three. In announcing acceptance of Shaughnessy's resignation early this month, Dr. Byrd praised Shaughnessy as a great coach and said his decision to resign was not prompted by the losing campaign, "either from his (Shaughnessy's) or the university's viewpoint."

Shaughnessy said in a statement accompanying the resignation that Maryland wanted its football coach to be athletic director and wanted him to sever his post as advisory coach to the Washington Redskins in the National Professional Football League and devote his full time to the Old Liners.

WHERE MAJORS TRAIN—Spring can't be too far behind for the baseball players soon will be heading west and south to the training camps. The major league sites are shown above. The Yanks will train in Panama and St. Petersburg. The Yanks and Dodgers will play several exhibitions in Caracas, Venezuela.

BASEBALL'S BONUS RULE WILL GO INTO EFFECT NEXT MONTH

CINCINNATI, Jan. 17—(AP)—Baseball's new bonus rule becomes effective Feb. 15.

Enactment of the legislation, which had been approved by the major leagues and the National Association of Professional baseball clubs (the minors), was completed today as Commissioner A. B. Chandler proclaimed the effective date.

The rule provides that a free agent signed after payment of a bonue of $6,000 or more in the majors and graduated smaller maximums in leagues of lower classification shall be considered a "bonus player" throughout his baseball career and as such may not be disposed of to a league of lower classification except via waiver procedure.

The rule provides also that in event of violation, the player shall be declared a free agent; the violating club and all clubs affiliated with it shall be fined $2,000 if major, $1,000 if minor, and the violating club and its affiliates may not contract with the player for at least three years.

The Sportlight by GRANTLAND RICE

The Eagle and the Lion

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 17 — No matter how you may figure it all out, the two top international rivals in sport are the United States and Great Britain. They remain the two great sporting nations of what we call the world today.

In all fairness it must be admitted that England and Scotland are outnumbered by United States about 3 to 1, so the odds should belong our way. But without England and Scotland there would be no international competition. Not with Russia, not with France, Italy, China, Japan, Germany or Belgium. It could be different with Sweden and Finland in distance races.

The point is that the British Isles leave the U. S. their only competition at this date. By that I mean that England and Scotland can supply their share of trouble in golf — including the Walker Cup matches next May. They may win this test if the winds come up and the rains arrive.

In Dai Rees they have one of the best golf professionals I have seen. Rees would be an even bet against Hogan or Nelson on any British course. If the Ryder Cup matches were played over a seaside British links, the odds would be even. That's how good he is. It is certainly no part of a push-over that the U. S., with the strong team now picked, can get by with the next Walker Cup matches. The British have an even chance over their own terrain.

The U. S. has tennis tied up. Jack Kramer will dominate any field he faces, and the lean Californian has more than his share of support.

In the ring game, where the British have lately been a joke with the lone exception of Tommy Farr, Bruce Woodcock now shapes up as being as good a challenger for the Louis crown as the U. S. has. This is no particular boost, since there is no heavyweight challenger left at present, who even belongs on the same planet with Louis. But an improved Woodcock would have an even chance against anyone else.

The British Racing Threat

There are a number of British horses stabled now at Santa Anita, who should win more than a few races over here before they are winging home again. Possibly the best of these is Radiotherapy, a beautifully built son of Hyperion out of Belleva. Radiotherapy is a big rangy chestnut standing over 16 hands high. He has speed, and trainers around the track believe he can handle distance.

It took $100,000 to lift this thoroughbred from British ownership. Another English horse is Charley Howard's Fast and Fair. This big brown son of the St. Leger winner, Fairway, is even larger than Radiotherapy. He was good enough to win the English Derby.

Among the younger stock flown over we have Lolimi, Hermarco, Law Fair and Peace Law. Peace Law is at Miami, running for Stephen Sanford. He has been fast enough to win four starts and there is no doubting his speed.

Another interesting fact connected with Santa Anita is the expected arrival of leading Eastern, Southern and Midwestern owners who are coming on to see just how Doctor Charles Strub and staff run things in their famous racing bailiwick.

Werren Wright of Calumet has been on hand for two weeks. So has Ben Lindheimer from Chicago. Those expected later include George Widener, from Belmont, Walter Donvan from Garden State, Jack Kelly from Atlantic City, plus a number of other racing heads well known to the game.

They really work at running a track out here. Dr. Strub and his associates are on the job from 7 a. m. on through the day. They check avery possible detail concerning track conditions and public comfort. Parking arrangements are so arranged that thousands of cars can enter and leave the parking space with little waste of time. The parking space can handle 35,000 cars.

With some sort of a slump over the racing map apparent for 1947, Santa Anita is setting new weekly records, both in attendances and mutuel play. The average attendance for the first two weeks was around 41,000, where riding competition has been so keen that Eddie Arcaro was on the point of leaving for Florida unless given better mounts.

Johnny Longden has been the mop-up rider so far. The 37 or 38-year-old veteran is at his best, far in front of all others up to date.

Maryland Grid Team To Play Delaware

NEWARK, Del., Jan. 17 (AP)—The University of Delaware football team, which owns a victory string of 25 straight games, will play an eight-game schedule next season opening on Sept. 27 against Penn Military College in a night contest at Wilmington.

Six of Delaware's foes were on the 1946 schedule, while the University of Maryland and Washington and Lee are newcomers.

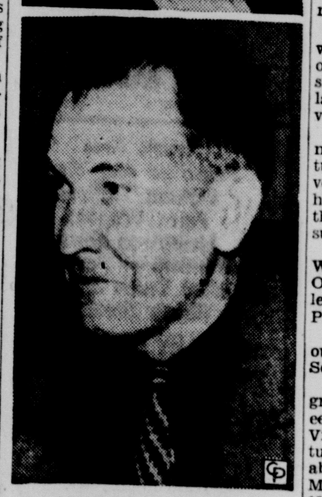
The clash with Maryland which will be played at College Park on Oct. 4, will be the first between the schools in more than two decades. Washington and Lee, however, has never appeared on Delaware's schedule previously.

The schedule: Sept. 27, P. M. C., at Wilmington (night); Oct. 4, at University of Maryland; 11, at Bucknell; 18, permanently open; 25, Gettysburg; Nov. 1, Franklin and Marshall; 8, Western Maryland; 15, at Muhlenberg; 22, Washington and Lee at Wilmington.

Trophies Are Saved

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 17—(AP)—Most of Syracuse University's sports trophies have been salvaged "in good condition" from the ruins of Archbold Gymnasium, Athletic Director Lew Andreas reported today.

The trophies, athletic records and valuable pictures of former Syracuse teams were in the gymnasium when it was destroyed by fire Sunday. Cause of the blaze still was undetermined.



MENTIONED — Among those mentioned for the post as commissioner of the All-America Football Conference are Don Miller (top), one of the "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame and now district attorney in Cleveland, and Warren Brown (below), well known Chicago sports editor. The post will be vacated following the resignation of "Sleepy" Jimmy Crowley, who takes over as coach of the Chicago Rockets in which club he has purchased controlling interest.

Maryland Returns To Mounties' Grid Schedule In 1947

College Park Scene Of Game On Nov. 1

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 17 (AP) — The addition of three more games to West Virginia University's 1947 football schedule was announced today by Athletic Director Roy M. Hawley to bring to eight the number of contests scheduled so far.

Hawley said the Mountaineers would meet Virginia at Morgantown on November 15, New York University away on October 18 and Maryland at College Park, Md., on November 1.

Earlier this week, Hawley announced home games with Kentucky November 8 and Temple November 22. The inclusion of Virginia, he said, will give the Mountaineers three major attractions at home in succession.

Others on the schedule are Washington and Lee at Charleston October 4, Penn State at State College, Pa., on October 25 and Pitt at Pittsburgh November 29.

Hawley said he hoped to round out a 10-game schedule by filling September 27 and October 11 dates.

New York University is a new grid opponent, although Mountaineer teams have tangled with the Violets in basketball. Maryland returns to the schedule after a year's absence. The Old Liners and the Mountaineers battled to a thrilling 13-13 tie here in 1945 after they had tied 6-6 at College Park a year earlier.

Virginia has appeared in Morgantown only twice before—in the first game of the series between the schools in 1898 and in 1922. West Virginia has won three of the seven games played between the two elevens.

Each team has won five consecutive games.

St. John's Lutheran, the third unbeaten quint, in the 16-club circuit, faces a worthy foe in First Methodist, which has copped four out of five, in the sixth contest on today's card at 5:35 o'clock.

Likes To Pour

Children enjoy pouring things. If a child has trouble drinking his milk, his mother should put the amount she expects him to drink in a small pitcher. Teach him to pour it into his cup. He will enjoy doing this and drink more milk.

Ali Ghan Temple Elects Spielman New Potentate

Hagerstown Man Succeeds Vandegrift

Leslie K. Spielman, Hagerstown, last night was elected Illustrious Potentate of Ali Ghan Temple, Ancient and Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at the annual meeting of the temple held at the Ali Ghan City Club.

Spielman succeeds Howard W. Vandegrift, Cumberland, who served as potentate the last year. Spielman and the other officers elected last night were sworn in by Vandegrift.

Other officers are—Morgan C. Harris, Cumberland, chief rabban; Eugene Gordon, Hagerstown, assistant rabban; Harold Wickard, Cumberland, high priest and prophet; Morris Delauder, Hagerstown, oriental guide; Fred Flurshutz, Cumberland, treasurer; and William M. Englehart, Cumberland, recorder.

Vandegrift, Spielman, Martin V. Bostetter, Hagerstown, and Harris, were elected representatives to the Imperial Council in May. William M. Englehart was elected representative to the Recorder's Association which will also be held in May.

Spielman, is a retired business man having formerly been engaged in the delicatessen business in Hagerstown. He has been a member of Ali Ghan Temple for 20 years or more and has always taken an active interest in the activities of the Shrine.

Under the leadership of Potentate Vandegrift last year Ali Ghan Temple had one of its most successful years with approximately 145 new members being added to the Temple's membership. Two outstanding ceremonials were held, one in Hagerstown and the other in Cumberland.

There were also several fine social activities during the year, both in Cumberland and Hagerstown. The annual "family picnic" held at the Shrine Country Club picnic grounds last summer drew the largest crowd in the history of the Temple. Dances during the holiday season, both in Hagerstown and Cumberland, drew record breaking crowds and the ladies night, held this week drew a record breaking crowd. The Shrine club was packed to capacity for the ladies night affair and with Albert K. Rowswell, well-known humorist and lecturer of Pittsburgh as the speaker, the event was termed by many as one of the most enjoyable Shrine parties they ever attended.

BOTH ARE HAPPY—Leslie K. Spielman, Hagerstown, (left) is being congratulated by Howard Vandegrift, Cumberland, just after Spielman was elected Illustrious Potentate of Ali Ghan Shrine Temple, at the annual election held here last night. Spielman succeeds Vandegrift who served as potentate last year.

Rayon Wage Scale Hits $1.25 Mark

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Settlements with 12 textile plants in Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Ohio—affecting 31,600 workers and 60 percent of the synthetic textile industry—bring the industry's average hourly pay from $1.12 to $1.25, a CIO union announced today.

Emil Rieve, president of the Textile Workers Union of America said the wage increases would total an estimated $8,450,000 annually, of which $5,000,000 would be paid by the American Viscose Corporation, $2,500,000 by Celanese Corporation of America, and $950,000 by the Industrial Rayon Corporation.

Settlements with the latter two firms, he said, were spurred by overwhelming approval by TWUA members of a U. S. conciliation settlement with American Viscose.

This firm has plants in Lewiston, Meadville, and Marcus Hook, Pa.; Parkersburg and Nitro, W. Va., and Roanoke and Front Royal, Va. A recently acquired Viscose plant at Fredericksburg, Va., has reached a separate agreement, Rieve said.

Also receiving the increases will be 8,500 workers in a Cumberland, Md., plant of the Celanese Corporation, and 3,500 workers in three industrial rayon plants at Cleveland and Painesville, Ohio, and Covington, Va.

See Proposes Payment To Blind, Deaf Students

A bill providing $500 per school year for persons totally or partially blind or deaf who wish to continue their education beyond high school was introduced in the House of Delegates yesterday (Friday) by Delegates Charles M. See and C. Clifton Virts, both blind men.

This sum, See said, will assist blind or deaf persons with their handicaps, and can be used for such purposes as employment of a reader by a blind person, or employment of a person to translate lectures from voice to sign language by a deaf person.

Money for the purpose would be provided by the State Board of Education, according to See, and the board also would investigate claimants to determine if they are eligible.

A similar law now is in effect in Pennsylvania, See said.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Vincent McAloon, national field secretary of the Third Order of St. Francis in America, will give an address Sunday night following the evening services in SS. Peter and Paul Church. He will speak in the assembly room of Ursuline Academy.

East Side Fire Company No. 4 was called at 8 a. m. yesterday to the home of Edward P. Cosgrove, 607 Sylvan avenue, by a false alarm. Firemen said a telephone call was made, reporting a fire, but no sign of a blaze was found in the neighborhood, and the family denied making any call.

Mrs. Arthur C. Bright will be the soloist at the Duke Memorial Bible Class Sunday morning in Central YMCA, with Mr. Bright as accompanist.

County Board Grants 40 & 8 Tax Exemption

Society's Levy For 1947 Is Cancelled

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners granted a tax exemption yesterday to the Forty and Eight Society, No. 164, on property the veterans' organization owns on Harrison street. County officials said the request was granted under state law which exempts such organizations from taxation.

However, Wesley Abrams, representing the organization asked for an exemption on 1946 as well as 1947 taxes, but the commissioners granted the tax exemption for 1947, when he agreed to pay taxes for 1946. The tax records show the property was assessed for $4,350 for 1946 and that taxes were paid for the years 1944 and 1945. The assessment for 1947 is shown as $5,200.

No action was taken on the request of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company for a tax exemption on machinery, tools and equipment. The request was made by Edmund S. Burke, president of the company in a letter to the board last week. The letter was tabled "for study" by the commissioners.

Acting upon the request of Miss Elinor Westerfeld, executive secretary of the Allegany County Welfare Board, the Board of County Commissioners yesterday decided to support a proposed measure in the Maryland Assembly for general public assistance. She said the measure, if enacted, would reduce the county's general public assistance by approximately 50 per cent, since more funds would be supplied by the state and federal governments.

County Engineer Albert Paye advised the board that the State Roads Commission has notified him that bids on the Vocke Road project would be re-advertised if the necessary rights-of-way were obtained by the state or county. Paye was instructed to obtain the land needed in the project, a major item on the county's postwar road building program.

Dicken Appointed

By a two-to-one vote, Harley A. Dicken, of Route 3, was appointed janitor at the Court House on the midnight to 8 a. m. shift. Commissioners Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., and William H. Lemmert voted for Dicken, while Commissioner James Holmes favored William Bantz, of this city, who had also applied for the post. Three men, working on eight-hour shifts, will now be on duty at the Court House.

Discuss Pigeon Plague

S. R. Rodney, of 223½ West Oldtown Road, proposed to the board that insecticide be sprayed in the "attic" of the Court House to get rid of the pigeons, which were named in the January grand jury report as causing heavy damage to the building.

The commissioners, however, cited that the pigeons cannot enter the building, since screens were erected, but the birds "park" on window sills and eaves. During the discussion, it was pointed out that in Philadelphia a city ordinance was passed to have the pigeons destroyed, after health officers reported the birds were disease carriers.

A petition signed by 37 persons was presented to the board, asking that East Woodlawn avenue in LaVale be repaired from the National Highway to Braddock Run, and that Braddock street in that area also be repaired. The county engineer was instructed to investigate.

Ask Road Repairs

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Grabenstein, of Oldtown Road, asked that repairs be made to the road leading from the "city dump road" at the intersection of the Uhl Highway. They said there are seven homes along the road. The engineer will investigate.

The board also announced that the engineer will investigate a complaint from Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Metz that the Laurel Run road and bridge are in need of repairs.

Commissioner Wilkinson commenting on a report that the county

Local Veteran Is Overcome By Fumes

A 30-year-old World War II veteran was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon after, police were told, he was accidentally overcome by gas fumes at his home here.

The man, identified as John Grady, 145 North Mechanic street, was in an unconscious condition when he was discovered at his room and rushed to the hospital. Police said he regained consciousness shortly after 3 p. m.

Officer Curtis Kime, who investigated for city police, said occupants of the home heard Grady strangling, opened the door of his room and found him unconscious. Police said the gas stove was turned up very high and that they were told the fumes from the stove were responsible.

Grady was taken to the city jail where he was booked as held for questioning by the state's attorney's office.

Theodore Fleet, 40-year-old Baltimore and Ohio employe, 401 Lexington avenue, was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock for a laceration on the third finger of the left hand. He told attaches he was struck by a hammer.

Frank DeLuca, 21-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel DeLuca, 1000 Virginia avenue, was treated in Memorial Hospital last night at 9 o'clock for a laceration below the right eye. Attaches were told the child fell as he was holding a wooden drumstick.

Chiropractors Name Dr. Malin Head

Dr. Harold S. Malin was elected president of the Western Maryland Chiropractic Association, at the meeting Thursday night at the home of Dr. A. N. Golladay, 403 Washington street.

Other members of the staff are Dr. Golladay, vice president and Dr. Adam Baer, Frostburg, re-elected secretary-treasurer. During the business session the Chiropractic legislative program was discussed. All members also planned to attend the Maryland State Chiropractic Association meeting in Baltimore tomorrow.

While the doctors were having their business session, their ladies were entertained by Mrs. Golladay and played cards after which refreshments were served to the entire group.

The next meeting will be held March 13, in Dr. E. W. Larsen's office, Decatur street.

Child Study Meetings End In Frostburg Today

A four-county meeting devoted to child study will end today at State Teacher's College, Frostburg where 30 visitors from Washington, Allegany, Garrett and Frederick Counties have been meeting for the past three days.

The mid-winter convention opened Thursday morning with a lecture and a reminder of the sessions, held in the morning and afternoon, were devoted to processing individual cases of child study.

The conference is the second held in Frostburg this year, and is also the second year for the tri-annual meetings to be held at the college.

The program of child study was inaugurated in 1945 with emphasis being placed on the study and observation of selected children so that a pattern could be set for the future education of students in the public school system.

The program is expected to be continued through another year, and after that the material collected by the child study group will be assembled and used as a basis for initiating new methods of caring for and educating children.

Council Plans Election

The annual election of officers of the Building and Construction Trades Council will be held Friday, January 24, at 7:30 p. m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall. Ten American Federation of Labor affiliated building crafts are expected to be represented at the meeting.

Ellerslie Postal Examination Will Be Held Here

Applications Are Due By February 13

An open competitive examination for the postmastership at Ellerslie, which provides an annual salary of $2,400, will be held in Cumberland by the Civil Service Commission at a date to be set later, according to an announcement yesterday.

The position has been vacant since the death of Miss Betty Jane Porter, who died August 29, 1946, in Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown, of injuries suffered the same day in an automobile-truck accident east of Hancock.

Miss Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Porter, Ellerslie, was appointed postmistress in November, 1944. Her sister, Mrs. Irma Burkett, was appointed clerk in the post office in January, 1945, and has been in charge of activities at the post office since Miss Porter's death.

Will Not Apply

Mrs. Burkett said last night that she does not intend to apply for the postmastership, although she said she is willing to continue as clerk.

All applications for the position must be on file at the office of the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C., by February 13. Application forms may be obtained at the Ellerslie post office or from the Washington office of the Civil Service Commission.

Competitors will be notified of the date the third class postmaster examination is to be held. An applicant claiming veteran preference must obtain Forms 14 and 4719, execute both in full and submit them with his application. Other forms needed are Application Form 10, Physical Fitness Form 13, and Instruction Form 2223.

Requirements Listed

To be eligible for the examination, an applicant must be a citizen of the United States; must have resided within the delivery limits of the Ellerslie post office for at least one year immediately preceding February 13 of this year; must be in good physical condition and must be between the ages of 21 and 63. Both men and women may apply.

Besides the written examination, applicants will be rated on their education and business or professional experience, general qualifications and suitability. The Civil Service Commission will certify the names of the highest three qualified eligibles to the Postmaster General, who will submit the name of the eligible selected to the President for nomination. Confirmation by the Senate is the final action.

Western Maryland Is Converting To Oil

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 17. (AP)—Fred R. Knapp, road foreman of engines, said today all Western Maryland Railway passenger locomotives operating between Hagerstown and Baltimore are being converted to oil burners.

Knapp reported one steam engine already has been converted from coal to oil and has performed so well in service that four more engines are being converted. He said the move would reduce the number of complaints about smoke from residents here and in Baltimore.

Following completion of test runs between Hagerstown and Baltimore, the converted steam engine will be brought to Cumberland for similar runs between Cumberland and Elkins, W. Va. No steam locomotives on the Elkins division have been converted pending the test runs, it was stated.

Held For Investigation

A man booked as Tony Mazooka, Baltimore, Md., was being held in city jail "for investigation," after he was arrested yesterday morning at 8:05 o'clock. Police said the man slept there Thursday night but gave conflicting names during his stay and after leaving the jail he was picked up for a routine check.

Local Man, Wife Escape Injuries In Train Wreck

Dignans Aboard Southern Pacific

A Cumberland man and his wife, escaped injury yesterday when the Southern Pacific passenger train, on which they were travelling, struck a broken rail and wrecked about 12 miles northwest of Bakersfield, Calif.

State police were notified that Robert L. Dignan, Hazen road, was a passenger on the train when it wrecked, killing at least seven persons and injuring 71, but were informed that Dignan was "unhurt and is now en route to Los Angeles on another train."

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hardinger, neighbors of the Dignans said they left this city in September to visit their son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Paul Dignan, 1150 Prague street, San Francisco, Calif., and judging from a recent letter they were scheduled to leave for home this week.

According to an Associated Press report of the disaster a total of 12 cars left the rails, and hours after rescuers were still digging in the debris for bodies. The injured swamped Kern County General Hospital and Mercy Hospital, and many of the less seriously injured were treated in corridors.

The wreck was described by one of the train's porters who said "a grinding roar woke me up, and I felt the engineer hit the air and then I knew we were in for it. I was thrown to the floor and the shock dazed me."

Railroad officials said the train, Owl No. 58, left San Francisco at 6:30 Thursday night and was due in Los Angeles at 8:35 a. m. yesterday. They said the train usually travels about 60 miles an hour along the stretch where the wreck occurred.

Planned To Visit

Mrs. Hardinger, said she believed the Dignans planned to spend sometime in San Diego, Calif. with friends, before returning home, but was unable to say why they would be going to Los Angeles following the wreck.

A letter from the Dignans earlier this week stated that would arrive in Washington, D. C. February 5, and they plan to spend sometime visiting three daughters, who are living in the city.

Housing Program To Be Explained In Washington

Local Veterans Group Invited To Conference

S. Russ Minter, local architect who has designed plans and specifications for the Veterans Non-Profit Housing Corporation, and Harold R. Fletcher, president of Peoples Bank, will attend a special conference of the American Legion National Housing Commission in Washington, D. C., to report on progress made in the local project.

Fletcher has been invited to represent the American Banking Association at the meeting and Minter was authorized to represent the local Corporation. They will take a scale model of the house proposed with them for display and demonstration.

The Cumberland plan of the local veterans' group is the result of encouragement offered by the Legion's National Housing Commission and several governmental agencies in Washington, which approved the idea of putting veterans' housing on a local basis.

As a result of their interest in official governmental circles, the local group has been assured that building materials will be channeled into the Cumberland area for building any number of houses the local group will sponsor. The immediate goal is 100 new homes for veterans in the low cost field.

At the meeting in Washington, officials will be told by Fletcher and Minter of the progress made and details of local organization, procedure and progress will be outlined.

Last night, at a meeting of the Housing Group, the directors authorized Fletcher and Minter to represent them in Washington and take the model along for demonstration.

The group also discussed plans for building two houses for experimental and demonstration purposes and William B. Orndorff, president said it is hoped they can be completed by April 1.

William R. Carscaden, chairman of the group's legal advisory committee explained progress he has made on clearing titles to several tracts of land to be used in the local project.

The Alibi May Change Hands

Application Filed For License Change

An application was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court late yesterday afternoon for the transfer of the light wine, beer and liquor license No. 5118, from Charles H. Whetsell to Harold M. Waingold for 28-30 Baltimore street.

This is the license being used for operation of The Alibi Cocktail Lounge, corner of Baltimore and North Mechanic streets.

Whetsell was contacted last night about Waingold's application for the transfer, and declared that he did not know Waingold was going to file the application yet as no deal has been culminated. He declared that something tangible may develop the early part of the week.

It has been rumored in the downtown section for several weeks that The Alibi was to change hands, but those involved have repeatedly indicated "no developments yet."

Attorneys said yesterday that 15 days must lapse between the time of the application and the actual transfer of the license, if the transfer is granted by the Court. It is necessary to advertise the application and the license under the law cannot be transferred until February 3, 1947, attorneys explained.

This particular license was transferred July 25, 1946, from 20 North Mechanic street to the present address. Whetsell was formerly a partner in business on Mechanic street.

Jaycees Enroll 76 New Members During Campaign

190 Now Belong To Association

Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce closed its annual membership drive last night with 76 new members added to the roster, according to David Kauffman.

At a meeting last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Club, the results of the contest were announced and prizes awarded members who brought in the most approved applications.

Last May, when the present administration took office and began the post-war task of reorganizing the Association, there were only 40 active members. By November membership had increased to 114. The contest opened at that time and 76 new members bring the total strength of the organization to 190, well within sight of the administration's goal of 200 by May 1.

The contest was conducted by two teams captained by Byron Kight and William B. Smith. Each team obtained 38 new members and the contest ended in a tie.

Keith Sisk obtained the most applications, accounting for 14 new members. Second prize went to Byron Kight who obtained 12. Third prize went to Marcus Whitmore with four and three were tied for fourth place with three applications each. They are F. Perry Smith, Robert Little Ebert and Robert E. Barnard, Jr.

Following the business session a social hour was held and a buffet supper was served and new members were greeted. A number of football and other sports and musical films were shown during the evening.

Water Rent Income Increases $10,000

Net revenue from water rents of both individual and industrial users during the period from April 1 to December 31 of last year amounted to $285,268.68, Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, reported yesterday.

The figure represents an increase of approximately $10,000 over the net income from water rents during the same nine-month period in 1945, which totaled $274,915.90.

In addition, miscellaneous revenues during the 1946 period amounted to $5,497.50, as compared to $3,107 in 1945. That revenue comes from such sources as meters and taps.

In the 1946 period, expenditures for Lake Gordon dam amounted to $26,727.21, of which the largest single item was $12,048.20 for wages, Gibson said. In 1945, the expenditure was approximately $5,000 less, totaling $21,184.78. The increase last year was due partly to raising of city employes' wages and renewal of insurance for another three-year period, it was explained.

Expenditures for city operations totaled $82,351.83, which included the cost of laying the Decatur street water line. Expended from current earnings was $13,411.53 for rights of way on the proposed auxiliary water line from Lake Gordon to the city, and $1,900 for engineering work on the new sedimentation basin at Lake Gordon.

B. And O. Tax Ruling Appealed By State

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 17—(AP)—The State Tax Commission today asked the Court of Appeals to reverse a Baltimore City court decision ordering $55,190 with interest from 1943 refunded to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The case arose when in 1942 the commission changed its method of computing the railroad's gross receipts for tax purposes, and the State contended today the change was made in consideration of new conditions.

In the lower court, Judge Emory H. Niles upheld the railroad's contentions that the state could not properly change its taxing formula.

The State has been levying taxes on the railroad since 1878 on the basis of the "Settlement Act" of that year, which courts have subsequently characterized as both a contract and statute.

From 1878 to 1942 the State used the "line mile" or "first track" mileage of B. and O. track as a basis of determining gross receipts of the company for taxation. By this method, only the distance of main line track between points in the State was considered.

In 1942, however, the State switched to an "all track" basis, by which all track within the State, including sidings, spurs, second and additional tracks, were considered.

Three Paw Paw Men Jailed In Disturbance

Three Paw Paw, W. Va., men, arrested Thursday night and ordered held for investigation, after they allegedly created a disturbance on North Centre street, were given jail sentences yesterday in default of fines metted out in Court yesterday morning.

Freddie Robertson, also received five days in jail, when he defaulted in a $5 fine for being drunk, and Harry DeLauder, drew the same sentence on a disorderly conduct charge.

Hagerstown Man Succeeds Vandegrift

Leslie K. Spielman, Hagerstown, last night was elected Illustrious Potentate of Ali Ghan Temple, Ancient and Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at the annual meeting of the temple held at the Ali Ghan City Club.

Spielman succeeds Howard W. Vandegrift, Cumberland, who served as potentate the last year. Spielman and the other officers elected last night were sworn in by Vandegrift.

Spielman, is a retired business man having formerly been engaged in the delicatessen business in Hagerstown. He has been a member of Ali Ghan Temple for 20 years or more and has always taken an active interest in the activities of the Shrine.

Following the business meeting a luncheon was served.

Under the leadership of Potentate Vandegrift last year Ali Ghan Temple had one of its most successful years with approximately 145 new members being added to the Temple's membership. Two outstanding ceremonials were held, one in Hagerstown and the other in Cumberland.

There were also several fine social activities during the year, both in Cumberland and Hagerstown. The annual "family picnic" held at the Shrine Country Club picnic grounds last summer drew the largest crowd in the history of the Temple. Dances during the holiday season, both in Hagerstown and Cumberland, drew record breaking crowds and the ladies night, held this week drew a record breaking crowd. The Shrine club was packed to capacity for the ladies night affair and with Albert K. Rayon Wage Scale Hits $1.25 Mark

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Settlements with 12 textile plants in Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Ohio—affecting 31,600 workers and 60 percent of the synthetic textile industry—bring the industry's average hourly pay from $1.12 to $1.25, a CIO union announced today.

Emil Rieve, president of the Textile Workers Union of America said the wage increases would total an estimated $8,450,000 annually, of which $5,000,000 would be paid by the American Viscose Corporation, $2,500,000 by Celanese Corporation of America, and $950,000 by the Industrial Rayon Corporation.

Settlements with the latter two firms, he said, were spurred by overwhelming approval by TWUA members of a U. S. conciliation settlement with American Viscose.

This firm has plants in Lewiston, Meadville, and Marcus Hook, Pa.; Parkersburg and Nitro, W. Va., and Roanoke and Front Royal, Va. A recently acquired Viscose plant at Fredericksburg, Va., has reached a separate agreement, Rieve said.

The Viscose settlements covered 19,600 workers, he added.

Also receiving the increases will be 8,500 workers in a Cumberland, Md., plant of the Celanese Corporation, and 3,500 workers in three industrial rayon plants at Cleveland and Painesville, Ohio, and Covington, Va.

See Proposes Payment To Blind, Deaf Students

A bill providing $500 per school year for persons totally or partially blind or deaf who wish to continue their education beyond high school was introduced in the House of Delegates yesterday (Friday) by Delegates Charles M. See and C. Clifton Virts, both blind men.

This sum, See said, will assist blind or deaf persons with their handicaps, and can be used for such purposes as employment of a reader by a blind person, or employment of a person to translate lectures from voice to sign language by a deaf person.

Money for the purpose would be provided by the State Board of Education, according to See, and the board also would investigate claimants to determine if they are eligible.

A similar law now is in effect in Pennsylvania, See said.

County Board Grants 40 & 8 Tax Exemption

Society's Levy For 1947 Is Cancelled

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners granted a tax exemption yesterday to the Forty and Eight Society, No. 164, on property the veterans' organization owns on Harrison street. County officials said the request was granted under state law which exempts such organizations from taxation.

However, Wesley Abrams, representing the organization asked for an exemption on 1946 as well as 1947 taxes, but the commissioners granted the tax exemption for 1947, when he agreed to pay taxes for 1946. The tax records show the property was assessed for $4,350 for 1946 and that taxes were paid for the years 1944 and 1945. The assessment for 1947 is shown as $5,200.

No action was taken on the request of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company for a tax exemption on machinery, tools and equipment. The request was made by Edmund S. Burke, president of the company in a letter to the board last week. The letter was tabled "for study" by the commissioners.

Acting upon the request of Miss Elinor Westerfeld, executive secretary of the Allegany County Welfare Board, the Board of County Commissioners yesterday decided to support a proposed measure in the Maryland Assembly for general public assistance. She said the measure, if enacted, would reduce the county's general public assistance by approximately 50 per cent, since more funds would be supplied by the state and federal governments.

County Engineer Albert Paye advised the board that the State Roads Commission has notified him that bids on the Vocke Road project would be re-advertised if the necessary rights-of-way were obtained by the state or county. Paye was instructed to obtain the land needed in the project, a major item on the county's postwar road building program.

Dicken Appointed

By a two-to-one vote, Harley A. Dicken, of Route 3, was appointed janitor at the Court House on the midnight to 8 a. m. shift. Commissioners Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., and William H. Three men, working on eight-hour shifts, will now be on duty at the Court House.

Discuss Pigeon Plague

S. R. Rodney, of 223½ West Oldtown Road, proposed to the board that insecticide be sprayed in the "attic" of the Court House to get rid of the pigeons, which were named in the January grand jury report as causing heavy damage to the building.

The commissioners, however, cited that the pigeons cannot enter the building, since screens were erected, but the birds "park" on window sills and eaves. During the discussion, it was pointed out that in Philadelphia a city ordinance was passed to have the pigeons destroyed, after health officers reported the birds were disease carriers.

A petition signed by 37 persons was presented to the board, asking that East Woodlawn avenue in LaVale be repaired from the National Highway to Braddock Run, and that Braddock street in that area also be repaired. The county engineer was instructed to investigate.

Ask Road Repairs

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Grabenstein, of Oldtown Road, asked that repairs be made to the road leading from the "city dump road" at the intersection of the Uhl Highway. They said there are seven homes along the road. The engineer will investigate.

The board also announced that the engineer will investigate a complaint from Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Metz that the Laurel Run road and bridge are in need of repairs.

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 17. (AP)—Fred R. Knapp, road foreman of engines, said today all Western Maryland Railway passenger locomotives operating between Hagerstown and Baltimore are being converted to oil burners.

Knapp reported one steam engine already has been converted from coal to oil and has performed so well in service that four more engines are being converted. He said the move would reduce the number of complaints about smoke from residents here and in Baltimore.

Following completion of test runs between Hagerstown and Baltimore, the converted steam engine will be brought to Cumberland for similar runs between Cumberland and Elkins, W. Va. No steam locomotives on the Elkins division have been converted pending the test runs, it was stated.

Local Man, Wife Escape Injuries In Train Wreck

Dignans Aboard Southern Pacific

A Cumberland man and his wife, escaped injury yesterday when the Southern Pacific passenger train, on which they were travelling, struck a broken rail and wrecked about 12 miles northwest of Bakersfield, Calif.

State police were notified that Robert L. Dignan, Hazen road, was a passenger on the train when it wrecked, killing at least seven persons and injuring 71, but were informed that Dignan was "unhurt and is now en route to Los Angeles on another train."

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hardinger, neighbors of the Dignans said they left this city in September to visit their son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Paul Dignan, 1150 Prague street, San Francisco, Calif., and judging from a recent letter they were scheduled to leave for home this week.

According to an Associated Press report of the disaster a total of 12 cars left the rails, and hours after rescuers were still digging in the debris for bodies. The injured swamped Kern County General Hospital and Mercy Hospital, and many of the less seriously injured were treated in corridors.

The wreck was described by one of the train's porters who said "a grinding roar woke me up, and I felt the engineer hit the air and then I knew we were in for it. I was thrown to the floor and the shock dazed me."

Railroad officials said the train, Owl No. 58, left San Francisco at 6:30 Thursday night and was due in Los Angeles at 8:35 a. m. yesterday. They said the train usually travels about 60 miles an hour along the stretch where the wreck occurred.

Planned To Visit

Mrs. Hardinger, said she believed the Dignans planned to spend sometime in San Diego, Calif. with friends, before returning home, but was unable to say why they would be going to Los Angeles following the wreck.

A letter from the Dignans earlier this week stated that would arrive in Washington, D. C. February 5, and they plan to spend sometime visiting three daughters, who are living in the city.

Housing Program To Be Explained In Washington

Local Veterans Group Invited To Conference

S. Russ Minter, local architect who has designed plans and specifications for the Veterans Non-Profit Housing Corporation, and Harold R. Fletcher, president of Peoples Bank, will attend a special conference of the American Legion National Housing Commission in Washington, D. C., to report on progress made in the local project.

Fletcher has been invited to represent the American Banking Association at the meeting and Minter was authorized to represent the local Corporation. They will take a scale model of the house proposed with them for display and demonstration.

The Cumberland plan of the local veterans' group is the result of encouragement offered by the Legion's National Housing Commission and several governmental agencies in Washington, which approved the idea of putting veterans' housing on a local basis.

As a result of their interest in official governmental circles, the local group has been assured that building materials will be channeled into the Cumberland area for building any number of houses the local group will sponsor. The immediate goal is 100 new homes for veterans in the low cost field.

At the meeting in Washington, officials will be told by Fletcher and Minter of the progress made and details of local organization, procedure and progress will be outlined.

Last night, at a meeting of the Housing Group, the directors authorized Fletcher and Minter to represent them in Washington and take the model along for demonstration.

The group also discussed plans for building two houses for experimental and demonstration purposes and William B. Orndorff, president said it is hoped they can be completed by April 1.

William R. Carscaden, chairman of the group's legal advisory committee explained progress he has made on clearing titles to several tracts of land to be used in the local project.

The Alibi May Change Hands

Application Filed For License Change

An application was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court late yesterday afternoon for the transfer of the light wine, beer and liquor license No. 5118, from Charles H. Whetsell to Harold M. Waingold for 28-30 Baltimore street.

This is the license being used for operation of The Alibi Cocktail Lounge, corner of Baltimore and North Mechanic streets.

Whetsell was contacted last night about Waingold's application for the transfer, and declared that he did not know Waingold was going to file the application yet as no deal has been culminated. He declared that something tangible may develop the early part of the week.

It has been rumored in the downtown section for several weeks that The Alibi was to change hands, but those involved have repeatedly indicated "no developments yet."

Attorneys said yesterday that 15 days must lapse between the time of the application and the actual transfer of the license, if the transfer is granted by the Court. It is necessary to advertise the application and the license under the law cannot be transferred until February 3, 1947, attorneys explained.

This particular license was transferred July 25, 1946, from 20 North Mechanic street to the present address. Whetsell was formerly a partner in business on Mechanic street.

Jaycees Enroll 76 New Members During Campaign

190 Now Belong To Association

Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce closed its annual membership drive last night with 76 new members added to the roster, according to David Kauffman.

At a meeting last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Club, the results of the contest were announced and prizes awarded members who brought in the most approved applications.

Last May, when the present administration took office and began the post-war task of reorganizing the Association, there were only 40 active members. By November membership had increased to 114. The contest opened at that time and 76 new members bring the total strength of the organization to 190, well within sight of the administration's goal of 200 by May 1.

The contest was conducted by two teams captained by Byron Kight and William B. Smith. Each team obtained 38 new members and the contest ended in a tie.

Keith Sisk obtained the most applications, accounting for 14 new members. Second prize went to Byron Kight who obtained 12. Third prize went to Marcus Whitmore with four and three were tied for fourth place with three applications each. They are F. Perry Smith, Robert Little Ebert and Robert E. Barnard, Jr.

Following the business session a social hour was held and a buffet supper was served and new members were greeted. A number of football and other sports and musical films were shown during the evening.

Water Rent Income Increases $10,000

Net revenue from water rents of both individual and industrial users during the period from April 1 to December 31 of last year amounted to $285,268.68, Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, reported yesterday.

The figure represents an increase of approximately $10,000 over the net income from water rents during the same nine-month period in 1945, which totaled $274,915.90.

In addition, miscellaneous revenues during the 1946 period amounted to $5,497.50, as compared to $3,107 in 1945. That revenue comes from such sources as meters and taps.

In the 1946 period, expenditures for Lake Gordon dam amounted to $26,727.21, of which the largest single item was $12,048.20 for wages, Gibson said. In 1945, the expenditure was approximately $5,000 less, totaling $21,184.78. The increase last year was due partly to raising of city employes' wages and renewal of insurance for another three-year period, it was explained.

Expenditures for city operations totaled $82,351.83, which included the cost of laying the Decatur street water line. Expended from current earnings was $13,411.53 for rights of way on the proposed auxiliary water line from Lake Gordon to the city, and $1,900 for engineering work on the new sedimentation basin at Lake Gordon.

B. And O. Tax Ruling Appealed By State

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 17—(AP)—The State Tax Commission today asked the Court of Appeals to reverse a Baltimore City court decision ordering $55,190 with interest from 1943 refunded to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The case arose when in 1942 the commission changed its method of computing the railroad's gross receipts for tax purposes, and the State contended today the change was made in consideration of new conditions.

In the lower court, Judge Emory H. Niles upheld the railroad's contentions that the state could not properly change its taxing formula.

The State has been levying taxes on the railroad since 1878 on the basis of the "Settlement Act" of that year, which courts have subsequently characterized as both a contract and statute.

From 1878 to 1942 the State used the "line mile" or "first track" mileage of B. and O. track as a basis of determining gross receipts of the company for taxation. By this method, only the distance of main line track between points in the State was considered.

In 1942, however, the State switched to an "all track" basis, by which all track within the State, including sidings, spurs, second and additional tracks, were considered.
